DON'T MARCH! HITLER TOLD

Chamberlain Says Fuehrer Can Have Sudetens if Peaceful

LONDONERS HAIL ROOSEVELT NOTE AS PLEDGING AID

Pub Loungers Chide U. S. Tardiness.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—President Roosevelt's decision to get into the European drama by last minute intervention in the quarrel between the Germans and the Czechs caused a sensation in all countries on this side of the Atlantic today and high satisfaction in all of them except Germany and Italy. His spectacular move gets him almost as much limelight in the press and radio tonight as does Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech.

The question appears to be whether he has poured oil or sand on the flames. Every one who hopes America will join in squashing Hitler sings Roosevelt's praises tonight—all except Premier Mussolini, who feels very sore because Mr. Roosevelt did not send him a copy of his appeal to Hitler and President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, the same as he did to Premier Edouard Daladier of France and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain.

Premiers Cable Thanks.

Daladier, immediately after he heard of the Roosevelt message, got in touch with Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to London, and asked him to send a message of warm thanks and congratulations. Chamberlain, too, almost immediately sent a telegram "hailing with gratitude the President's weighty message."

Nothing is known here as to what President Benes said, but the British press reports that Germany thought Mr. Roosevelt might better mind his own business.

The British populace, assuming that war is a certainty, took the President's message as a promise that America was lining up behind Britain in the pending war, as in the last, especially when they read this sentence printed in heavy type in the British papers: "The supreme desire of the American people is to live in peace, but in the event of a general war they face the fact that no nation can escape some measure of the consequences."

Called Tardy by Bar Crowds.

Two men read this sentence in a London "pub." One said: "Roosevelt says the Americans are bound to come in." The other replied: "Well, it's about time. The blighters were three years late in our last war."

That appears to be the general attitude toward America. They are inclined here to blame "Uncle Shylock" for not having given an earlier promise to jump on Hitler whenever it would be convenient.

All forces of rhetoric and diplomacy are directed to prevail upon American intervention.

Winston Churchill, outspoken anti-Nazi Conservative member of parliament, issued a special invitation to the American people and the government to jump on the European band wagon in its merry jumble toward war and death. He said tonight in a statement:

"If the government and the people of the United States have a word to speak for the salvation of the world, now is the time and now is the last time when words will be of any use."

Chamberlain Thanks Roosevelt.

Chamberlain's message thanking Roosevelt was sent through Secretary of State Cordell Hull. It said:

"Please convey the following message to the President. 'His majesty's government hails with gratitude the weighty message that the President of the United States has addressed to them and certain other governments. In this critical time it is indeed essential to remember what is at stake, and weigh the issues with all gravity before embarking on a course from which there is no retreat."

Everywhere Roosevelt's step is interpreted as definite intervention to put Hitler in moral isolation for the benefit of France and England.

"America's military might and economic wealth is behind us," every one here is saying tonight. They consider that Roosevelt said so.

CUBS SEND DEAN AGAINST LEADING PIRATES TODAY

The Cubs, one and a half games out of first place, open the most important series of the year in Wrigley field today when they meet the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates. Dizzy Dean, who has won six games and lost one, will pitch for the Cubs. Jim Tobin, with fourteen victories and nine defeats, will oppose him. Dean will attempt to stretch the Cubs' winning streak to eight straight and eighteen out of twenty-one games. The Pirates have won eight of their last ten games. The Cubs gained a half game on the Pirates yesterday by defeating the Cardinals, 6 to 3, as Bill Lee scored his twenty-first victory of the year.

SASSES NEW MAYOR, SO TRAFIC COP GETS LESSON IN COURTESY

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Fletcher Bowron, former Superior court judge, was bawled out by a cop yesterday before his inauguration as mayor today.

Bowron was driving his own car towards the city hall when a truck slammed into the rear end of an automobile which in turn hit Bowron's machine. When the mayor elect got out to inspect the damage. Policeman H. L. Morris shouted "get in your car and drive on there. I'll attend to the names." When Bowron failed to obey the order fast enough the policeman whipped out his book, shook it in the mayor elect's face and said: "O, so you want a ticket do you."

Thereupon Judge Bowron shook his finger in the cop's face and said: "This is the last time you'll talk in an insulting way to a citizen. I become mayor of this city at noon. From then on all officers are going to be gentlemen."

Later Mayor Bowron said Morris' only punishment would be a reprimand.

WINDSOR PLANS TO RETURN HOME IN EVENT OF WAR

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The duke of Windsor's equerry told the London Daily Mirror today that the duke probably would return to England if war were declared.

The paper reported that the equerry, speaking from Cap d'Antibes, France, said:

"In the event of war, the duke's plans are made and it is probable he will return to London."

Minister Misses Church Only Once in 66 Years

Burlington, Vt., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The Rev. Leonard Aldrich of this city probably has a churchgoing record. In the sixty-six years he has missed only one Sunday, and that because of illness.

The Law Puts Last Touch on Hutton's Touch

Hughey Hutton, the timid little man who knows everybody's father, called in person yesterday at the office of F. S. Moseley & Co., brokers at 135 South La Salle street. He buttonholed Robert Pelton, a salesman, and began a lively conversation.

Hughey Hutton.

"Yes, I remember your father well," Hughey was heard to say. "A fine man. Why, one time ——"

Just then a heavy hand fell on his shoulder. The little man flinched. He turned and, peering through his glasses, he saw the heavy hand belonged to a detective. There were two detectives. Hughey's mustache quivered.

"Come along," the detectives said. "This is one time you won't get your five bucks."

Hutton in 1936 obtained $5 from Nathaniel Lane, a Moseley employé. In 1937 Robert P. Walker of the same office made a contribution. They recognized the shy, sprucely dressed elderly man when he entered the office and called police.

Man of Many Complaints.

At the detective bureau Capt. Ed Kelly said there were more than 100 complaints against Hutton. The prisoner was philosophical about it all.

"Just a mistake in my bookkeeping system," he explained plaintively. Police thumbed through his system, which consisted of a looseleaf notebook in which were listed, alphabetically, the names of scores of persons living in Chicago, Winnetka, Highland Park, Evanston, and other cities. Lines were drawn through many of the names. They had contributed.

"I'm always easy on 'em," said Hughey. "You can't call it larceny; it's just a loan. Sitting around hotel lobbies, I get to know about a lot of folks. Then I pick out a prospect and tell him I'm a great friend of his father, or maybe his uncle. It's a living. I've been doing it ever since I left the farm, near Tipton, Ia., 20 years ago."

Demonstrates His System.

"But how do you get the money?" he was asked.

"Well, I always find myself with nothing but a check, and borrow a few dollars," Hughey said. He stopped and felt anxiously in his pockets. His face became glum.

"I find I'm out of cigar money," he began professionally. "Could any of you gentlemen let me have——"

SCIENTIFIC SLEUTH LEARNS ANSWER TO A BURNING QUESTION

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—While standing in front of a store window waiting for a bus, William Hannon was surprised to find his coat tail ablaze. He complained to Trafic Policeman John Lanahan, who set out to solve the mystery by standing in exactly the same spot as Hannon stood.

In a short time the policeman was surprised to find his coat tail ablaze. Then he held a sheet of paper where his coat tail had been and it, too, caught fire. After that it was an easy job of sleuthing. There was a large concave mirror in the store window on which the sun was shining. The concentration of the sun's rays caused the fire. As final proof to the skeptical Mr. Hannon, the policeman lit a cigar from the mirrored rays.

Errol Flynn's Condition Is Reported Improved

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Errol Flynn, film star suffering from a respiratory illness, was reported improved today by his physician, Dr. T. M. Hearn. At first the physician expressed fears of complications, since Flynn has been a victim of recurrent attacks of malaria fever, which he contracted five years ago in New Guinea.

BRITAIN, FRANCE AND RUSSIA STRIKE IF CZECHS ARE ATTACKED, BERLIN TOLD

Dictator in Fiery Speech Says He Will Fight.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Radiophoto on back page.)

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—Not since the darkest days of the world war has a man shrieked his hatred of an opponent with greater fanaticism than Adolf Hitler did tonight.

He sought to stir Germany into a frenzied determination to crush Eduard Benes, the president of Czechoslovakia, the dismemberment of which Hitler wants.

His followers responded to his denunciations of Benes with cries of "Hang him — finish him!" They shouted with triumph whenever the Fuehrer spoke of Germany's military strength.

Stands by Oct. 1 Deadline.

"On Oct. 1 Benes must relinquish the Sudeten territory to us," Hitler told a roaring crowd in Berlin's Sports palace.

"Benes has 7,000,000 Czechs—here stand 75,000,000 Germans.

"I march ahead of my people as their first soldier and behind me marches the nation—a nation that is different from that of 1918.

"My patience is exhausted. If Benes does not want peace we will have to take matters in our own hands.

"I have decided that we shall place Sudetenland under German sovereignty."

Hitler said the memorandum he handed to Neville Chamberlain, British prime minister, at Godesberg last Friday "is the final and last one."

Nazis Shout "Hail Victory."

Hitler spoke one hour and thirteen minutes. The speech which was punctuated with "sieg heil" [hail victory], was heard over the radio, not only by Germany and her neighbors, but by practically the entire world.

Hitler was greeted with the traditional Nazi rites as he appeared at the Sports palace. Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering preceded him and was given an enthusiastic reception by the 20,000 inside the building.

Sudeten Army Appears.

While the audience was still shouting itself hoarse welcoming the Fuehrer a large body of men in white shirts and black trousers entered the center aile and slowly marched up toward Hitler. They carried a banner of the Sudeten "free corps" army. Their leader stepped in front of the Fuehrer to extend the Nazi salute while the men shouted: "The free corps salutes the Fuehrer."

For a few seconds Hitler's grim face relaxed but he soon threw himself into impassioned accusations of the world democracies. He accused them of deliberately ignoring his efforts to conclude peaceful agreements.

He pointed to the Polish-German friendship pact "as my greatest achievement, far outdistancing any of the achievements of the chatterboxes in Geneva."

Points to Pact with British.

He pointed to Germany's naval agreement with Great Britain as proof of his good will. He warned England she should not think he made the agreement because he lacked the materials with which to build more warships.

"Such a naval pact is justified only if both partners promise each other as man to man to renounce war," Hitler said. "It won't do for one partner to restrict his navy to 35 per cent of the size of another and cling to peace while the other partner feels himself free to talk war."

[Germany in 1936 agreed to limit her navy to 35 per cent of Britain's.]

Hitler insisted that he had no territorial claims against other nations in Europe except Czechoslovakia.

"After the world failed to trust

TEXT OF SPEECH WHICH MAY FIX FATE OF EUROPE

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The text of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's address today on the international situation follows:

"On Feb. 22 I made before the reichstag deputies a fundamental demand concerning which there could be no bargaining.

"The nation heard it and understood what I meant.

"One statesman [meaning former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, of the then independent Austria] failed to understand—he has been removed, and my promise of that time has been fulfilled.

[Hitler said he spoke Feb. 22, but apparently means Feb. 20. On that date he called for return of German minorities in other countries and colonies lost in the world war. Of Austria, which he was to take over March 13, he said merely that an "appeasement" with her had been achieved.]

Says Entire Nation Speaks.

"For the second time I spoke on the same demand before the reich's party convention in Nuremberg, and again the nation heard.

"Today I once more stand before you speaking to the people itself as in the days of our struggles, and you know what that means.

"Today there must remain no vestige of doubt in the world—today it is not a fuehrer or a man who speaks, but the whole German people.

"And if I am now spokesman of this German people I know at this hour that all the listening millions of this people are as one, that they endorse these words and make them their own testimony.

Calls Benes Trouble Maker.

"Let other statesmen search themselves and see if it is the same with them.

"The question which has been agitating us most deeply for the past months and weeks is well known to them.

"Its name is not so much Czechoslovakia; its name is rather Herr Benes [Eduard Benes, president of Czechoslovakia].

"This name unites all that is agitating millions today, what either drives them to despair or fills them with fanatic determination.

"How came this question to reach such importance?

REPEATS FOREIGN POLICY

Parliament Is Called as London Gets Ready for War.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The British government tonight showed signs of stiffening its attitude toward Reichsfuehrer Hitler. From an authoritative source it was announced that if a German attack is made against Czechoslovakia "the immediate result must be that France will be bound to go to her assistance, and Great Britain and Russia certainly will stand by France."

Then Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain opened the door wide to Hitler to get all he claims he wants—peacefully and without losing face. After a long consultation with the "inner cabinet," Chamberlain issued a statement informing Hitler that Britain and France still stand ready to force Czechoslovakia to carry out the cession of Sudetenland to Germany.

Appreciates Hitler's Praise.

"I have read the speech of the German chancellor and appreciate his reference to the efforts I have made to save peace," Chamberlain said. "I cannot now abandon those efforts, since it seems to me incredible that the peoples of Europe, who do not want war with one another, should be plunged into bloody struggle over a question on which agreements already have been largely obtained.

"It is evident that the chancellor has no faith that the promises already made will be carried out.

"These promises were made not to the German government direct, but to the British and French governments in the first instance.

Feel Morally Bound.

"Speaking for the British government, we regard ourselves morally responsible for seeing that the promises are carried out fairly and fully, and we are prepared to undertake that they shall be carried out with all reasonable promptitude, provided the German government will agree to settlement of the terms and conditions of transfer by discussion and not by force.

"I trust the chancellor will not reject this proposal, which is made in the same spirit of friendliness as that in which I was received in Germany, and which, if it is accepted, will satisfy Germany's desire for union of the Sudeten Germans with the reich without shedding blood in any part of Europe."

Warning of Triple Front.

The warning to Hitler that he faced a triple alliance of Great Britain, France, and Russia was contained in the following statement:

"It is stated in official quarters that during the last week Prime Minister Chamberlain has tried with the German chancellor to find a way of settling peacefully the Czechoslovak question.

"It still is possible to do so by negotiation.

"Germany's claim to transfer of the Sudeten areas already has been conceded by the French, British, and Czechoslovakian governments.

"But if, in spite of all efforts made by the British prime minister, a German attack is made upon Czechoslovakia, the immediate result must be that France will be bound to come to her assistance and Great Britain and Russia will stand by France.

"It still is not too late to stop this great tragedy and for the peoples of all nations to insist on settlement by free negotiation."

Push Defense Plans.

Great Britain went ahead with plans for defense, should war come. Parliament will meet on Wednesday and may be asked to pass a general conscription law and other measures.

All Royal Air force personnel on leave was recalled and an air raid warning system instituted.

The inner cabinet assembled at No. 10 Downing street again tonight to go over the text of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech. This action followed another day of consultations with the French political leaders, Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, and also with Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, French chief of staf, who remained in London after the French ministers flew back to Paris. Gamelin later took a plane for France.

New Appeal to Hitler.

It is assumed that Sir Horace Wilson, special envoy who flew to Berlin today, took to Hitler a new appeal from Chamberlain. The prime minister still maintains the position of mediator.

Chamberlain's message to Hitler, it is assumed, is coupled with a joint declaration drawn by the British and French yesterday on what they will do if the Fuehrer goes too far against the Czechs.

At the same time it is believed the message contains an elaborate alternative set of proposals to those made by Hitler, or else suggestions as to how he should revise his own memorandum.

Czechs Face More Pressure.

It is not excluded here that further demands may be made upon Prague to try to come to terms with Germany.

The consensus is that war need not break out at the end of this week unless Hitler decides to ignore every appeal made to him, including that of President Roosevelt, and put on a military show in the Sudetenland.

Every effort was made by official sources to convey the idea that France at last has made up her mind to fight Hitler in case he insists upon going through with the full terms of his memorandum, and also that Britain and Russia "certainly will stand by France."

Evidence that negotiations are continuing in spite of the ultimatum aspect of Hitler's memorandum, and of declarations yesterday by the French and British, were given with the announcement that after Wilson handed Hitler the message from Chamberlain, the Fuehrer gave him a written reply which Wilson is bringing back to London tomorrow morning. The substance of this reply, it is stated, was transmitted to London tonight.

Britain Ready for War.

Chamberlain will make a full statement on the last three or four weeks' events before the house of commons when it meets Wednesday. The prime minister is expected to state that everything is in readiness to place Britain on a war basis at a moment's notice and at the same time give a full account of his negotiations with Hitler at Berchtesgaden and Godesberg. It is assumed he will read before the house the letters exchanged with Hitler last Friday.

It is assumed that Chamberlain will face a furious gathering. While the country is united to face any national emergency, there will be pointed criticisms from his own Conservative followers and also from the Liberals and Laborites for the way in which the negotiations have been conducted.

Will Ask Vote of Confidence.

Chamberlain will challenge the opposition by seeking a vote of confidence from commons. He also is prepared to ask parliament to pass into law in a single day any special emergency legislation necessary. This apparently was the reason for summoning a special meeting of the privy council at Buckingham palace tonight.

It is understood that contemplated emergency measures include a national service act putting all citizens at the disposal of the state and a defense of the realm act to deal with such points as enforcement of "blackouts," regulation of supplies, and so forth. Legislation for these measures already has been drafted.

Labor Pledges Support.

This afternoon Maj. Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, called on the prime minister. He indicated his party's firm adherence to the manifesto issued at a recent conference pledging the trades union movement to the integrity of Czechoslovakia.

Apart from Chamberlain, Attlee and Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal party leader, will speak in commons on Wednesday. It is expected David Lloyd George, Winston Churchill, and Capt. Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, also will contribute to the debate.

The British and French premiers, it is reported, sent the Polish government a plea to settle their minority claim against the Czechs peacefully. The premiers emphasized that the Czechs are prepared to make concessions, including permission for Polish police to take over the town of Teschen.

William Engelke, 38 years old, 1909 Belle Plaine avenue, a central figure fourteen years ago in the mysterious murder of Maybelle Exley Duffy, was arrested yesterday for questioning about recent robberies. He was found by Sergts. John Greer and John Maher of the detective bureau. Engelke, an ex-convict, was held as a witness in the Duffy murder case. Mrs. Duffy was the wife of Philadelphia Jack Duffy, gunman and booze runner, who was later slain.

ESSEN, Germany, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Eleven passengers were killed and nine injured seriously today as a freight train ran into a passenger train at the station of Borken.

LONDONERS DIG IN FOR BOMB RAIDS; PEG FOOD PRICES

Vital Government Offices Moved to Country.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Last minute moves against air raids came thick and fast tonight throughout the capital, regardless of whether the raids come.

As anti-aircraft forces of the territorial army [national guard] and corps of civilian anti-aircraft lookouts answered emergency summons to the colors, vital government services moved to places of safety.

Scotland Yard's headquarters were switched from London to Hayes, Middlesex, where there is an important radio station. The home office, which handles interior affairs, moved to Wormwood Scrubs prison, on the western edge of London.

1,000 Prisoners Moved.

Nearly a thousand prisoners, it is understood, were moved from the famous Dartmoor prison to local jails to balk any possibility of a mass mutiny.

Gas mask fittings went on all day at the best possible speed. Thirty-five million masks are ready for distribution throughout the country, though none has yet been given out.

Residents are told to report to their usual voting place for fittings. Newspaper men in Fleet street are too occupied with the fast moving crisis to seek a becomingly shaped mask, but authorities warned tonight: "No fitting, no mask."

Thirty thousand were fitted yesterday in the Camberwell district and 100,000 in Croydon alone. Other stations are moving at the same rate.

Dig Trenches in Parks.

Trenches for shelter from high explosive bombs were dug in parks. Today's trenches were only specimens. Digging begins in earnest tomorrow. After that the parks will look like rabbit runs.

Newspapers are publishing officially approved plans for private shelters in backyards, made from odd planks and bits of currugated iron, plus plenty of elbow grease. Householders are buying candles despite official warnings against using them in air raids. Flashlight sales have jumped enormously.

Millions of copies of the home office air raids precaution handbook are being printed for free distribution, but it will be two weeks before all families are supplied. The booklet was drafted more than a year ago.

Sailors Rushed to Fleet.

Two special trains rushed north last night and landed 600 sailors at Thurso, Scotland, for transfer by bus and destroyer to ships of the home fleet. One hundred fifty more are due at any time.

This correspondent tried to buy American dollars from a bank today, but was told that instructions from the head office were not to sell except to Americans, and to them only in small amounts for immediate needs.

"There is such a rush we cannot buy enough American currency to meet the demands," said the cashier.

Despite efforts of the British control fund to fix the price of the pound, it fell from $4.78¼ to $4.75¼ today.

Lloyds doubled most of its war risks rates. It raised the rate from the orient via the Suez canal from $20 to $50 per $1,000 coverage, and canceled Baltic coverage.

Provision Prices Pegged.

To reassure the public regarding provisions, exchanges announced that at the request of the government's "food reference plans department," prices of bacon, hams, butter, and similar commodities will remain fixed for a fortnight.

The lightest note of the day was news that the Polish scientists, Dr. Narkievicz-Jodko, had postponed his projected stratosphere ascent until the end of the international uproar—he is afraid he might come down in hostile territory if war started while he was lost in the clouds.

French Airlines to Resume Flights; No Stops at Prague

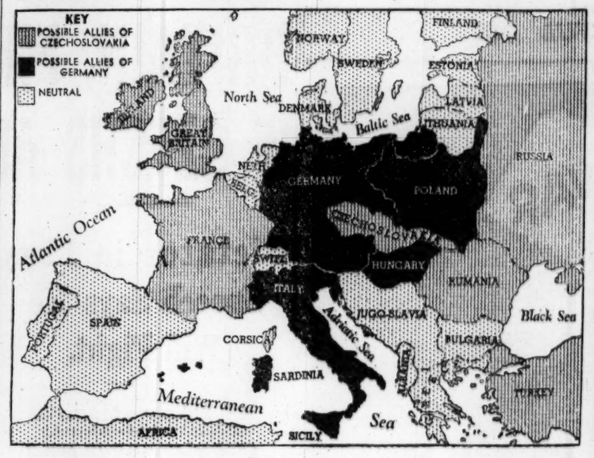
Armies of Possible Foes in War

Lining up the combined forces of Czechoslovakia and her allies against Germany and her allies, the former nations have almost three times the man power available for armed forces. Comparison of the figures is made as to height only.



How the nations of Europe might line up in event of war. Treaties link France and Rumania to Czechoslovakia. Britain and Russia are linked to France. Italy and Germany have an understanding in the Rome-Berlin axis. Poland and Hungary want parts of Czechoslovakia.

GREAT BRITAIN'S SHIPS OF MEDITERRANEAN FLEET READY FOR WAR

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Forty units of the British Mediterranean fleet lay in the harbor here today ready for any eventuality.

Coastal fortifications were rushed to completion. Fresh troops were expected from England tomorrow, apparently destined for Mersamatruth, from which many miles of barbed wire defenses stretch toward the western desert flanking Italian Libya.

At Cairo the Egyptian cabinet modified a finance ministry decision to close the stock markets.

SON OF MASARYK TERMS HITLER'S TALK 'SHOCKING'

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Jan Masaryk, minister to London and son of the founder of the Czechoslovak republic, tonight after Hitler's speech said:

"My mother studied the piano with Franz Liszt at Weimar and my father was tutor to Austrians at the University of Leipzig. They met under the auspices of wonderful German culture, and I thank this fact for my existence.

"The speech I heard tonight is so unbelievably uncultured and shocking that I am proud of my government's decision to take a firm stand against the authors of a mentality which is trying to destroy all European culture."

Remove 3,000 Tons Copper from Nazi Ship in Canada

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Montreal, Que., Sept. 26.—Acting on instructions from an unrevealed source, longshoremen today removed 3,000 tons of copper from the holds of the German freighter Frankenwald, docked here. The metal had been loaded last week for export to Germany. Agents for the Hamburg-American line, the ship's owners, were silent as to the reason for the decision to remove the cargo, invaluable for the manufacture of armaments. The ship is continuing to load grain.

BELGIAN CABINET MOVES TO MEET BORDER ATTACKS

BRUSSELS, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Belgian cabinet, in a hasty session today, took military measures for protection of the border and for evacuation of civilians from cities liable to air attack.

The government recalled "men on indefinite leave belonging to the regiment of Ardennes Chasseurs, the corps of mechanized cavalry and certain classes of fortress troops."

Preparations were made for removal of art treasures from places exposed to air bombardment. There was a large scale requisitioning of trucks for the transport of food and materials.

Troops engaged in maneuvers at Beverloo were recalled to rejoin their units immediately. Reports from the German border, however, said all was quiet.

CANADIAN LABOR READY TO BACK ENGLAND IN WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 26.—Organized labor in Quebec will stand firmly behind Canada, in the event this country is drawn into a war, a statement from R. Trepanier, president of the powerful trades and labor council, said today.

Trepanier speaks for the international unions in the Montreal area. It was the first official indication as to how labor would react if Canada went to war. The union leader also said labor would back Great Britain to the limit.

There is a marked feeling here that Canada will support England. Ex-servicemen already have expressed their feelings in public statements through their organizations.

65 Believed Dead as Two Trains Crash in Storm

BARCELONA, Spain, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A death list of at least 65 persons was feared today in a head-on collision between two passenger trains. The wreck destroyed four coaches and badly damaged two others. It occurred last night in a heavy rainstorm about 15 miles west of Barcelona. Survivors helped extricate 120 injured, twelve of whom died before they reached hospitals.

NAZI WAR CHIEFS SEE HITLER AS THOUSANDS GAPE

Roosevelt's Peace Plea Fails to Stir Berlin.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—"An express courier of Chamberlain is on his way to Berlin." The Nazis made this announcement with great pride this afternoon while Sir Horace Wilson, personal adviser to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, was flying from England with a letter from the prime minister to Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Sir Horace Wilson.

Wilson arrived early in the afternoon and at 5 o'clock presented the letter to Hitler in the chancellery. Wilson was accompanied by the British ambassador, Sir Nevile Henderson, and the first secretary of the embassy. They remained with the Fuehrer for 45 minutes.

"Whatever the contents of the letter it will not change the attitude or the demands of the Fuehrer," it was asserted in official circles.

Ignore Roosevelt's Plea.

The peace telegram of President Roosevelt to Hitler barely stirred a ripple in the stream of events in Germany. Although Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson of the United States called on Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop this morning, no word about the President's appeal appeared in any paper until a late hour. The American news agencies had the full text of the President's message, but the Nazi press was not allowed to publish it.

Officials in the foreign office were sarcastic "about a nervous world in which the only quiet people are the men at the helm of the German government." They derided the fear of war.

"The difference between the German demands and the British-French plan are so slight that it is ridiculous to assume the powers would slide into a new world war for the sake of a few kilometers," they said. "We in Germany are confident that no world war will break out because the Fuehrer won't give the order to march until he is certain that hostilities on a big scale can be avoided."

Russia Backs Up Czechs.

In the soviet Russian embassy the soviet press chief declared that "Russia will stand by her agreements with Czechoslovakia in case she is invaded."

Exchange of notes between Poland and Russia continued. The Russians said they warned Poland that "if Polish troops concentrated on the Russian border the soviets would immediately take suitable measures. The Poles also were warned to stay away from Czechoslovakia.

Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the German army, arrived in the chancellery. He was followed a little later by Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the supreme military command, and Admiral Erich H. A. Raeder, navy chief of staf. They conferred with Hitler until about 12 o'clock when Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief of the air force, joined the conference.

Thousands Pack Square.

The German officers arrived in open cars. The bright red of the lapels on the coats of the generals starting a buzz of excitement among the gaping crowds which had gathered around the chancellery. The crowds tonight swelled to thousands who packed the square in front of the chancellery to listen to Hitler over the radio.

The German press stressed that "Germany has spoken her last word," referring to the German "final" ultimatum to Cechoslovakia. The papers said threateningly: "It Prague fails to accept the German demands for the evacuation of the Sudeten areas by Oct. 1, Sudeten Germany will be freed by other methods."

Referring to Germany's refusal to guarantee the Czechoslovak borders after the cession of Sudeten districts, tomorrow's Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung will say that "If the Czechs desire a German guarantee then they must first satisfy the Polish and Hungarian claims by creating a state without the incalculable risk of further border incidents."

Point to Alsace-Lorraine.

The press rejected the charge that the time granted to the Czechs for the evacuation is too short. Newspapers pointed to Alsace and Lorraine, which, they said, had to be evacuated by the Germans in the same time after the world war.

"Surely the fathers of the Versailles treaty do not want to insist that this method is unjust," the papers said.

OFFERS VERSAILLES TREATY AS GUIDE TO CZECHS IN SUDETEN

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A Berlin newspaper, Zwoelf Uhr Blatt, today said that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, in drafting his Godesberg memorandum, took a leaf from the Versailles treaty.

"One hardly makes a mistake in assuming that the example of Alsace Lorraine furnished guidance for the German suggestions as to how the demands can be fulfilled," the paper said. "The methods employed for the evacuation of Alsace Lorraine are well applicable for the evacuation of the Sudeten German areas by the Czechs. France's allies at that time raised no objection to this method—why should they today?"

LATVIA MUSTERS OUT SOLDIERS AS THEIR TERMS END

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 26.—While Europe is anxiously awaiting the outcome of the present crisis Karl Ulmanis, president of Latvia, today permitted last year's recruits to leave military service when their term expired. The president's action caused general rejoicing. He told Latvians to retain their optimism. The best way to behave at the present moment, he said, is to continue normal work.

HITLER WARNS CZECHS TO GIVE IN OR FACE WAR

my peace offers, I decided to rearm," he cried. "We have built up an armament such as the world has never seen before. For five years we have rearmed, working day and night. We have spent billions.

"We have built up an army of which Germany can be proud and which the world will respect if it ever has to enter action. We have the best air defense and the best tank defense in the world."

Referring to Czechoslovakia, Hitler said:

"The state owes its existence to the lunatics who are responsible for the post-war peace treaty and who at will carved up Europe into small states.

"The father of the lie on which Czechoslovakia was based was Benes, Hitler shouted while the crowd roared: "Hang him!--Bloodhound!"

Those who "enabled Benes to make his lie a reality were the Anglo-Saxons," Hitler declared.

After denouncing the world democracies for the sins of the Versailles treaty the Fuehrer spoke of the "truly deep contempt" he had acquired for them in recent years.

Gets Glowing Introduction.

"In this historic hour the German people are unitedly gathered round the Fuehrer," the propaganda minister said.

Goebbels then turned to Hitler and addressed him: "Just as the entire people rely upon you, so it stands as one man behind you. No threat or pressure can make you yield."

Germans throughout the nation were instructed to listen to the Fuehrer's address. Most Berlin stores closed late in the aftternoon. Factories in which work usually is carried on at night were requested to permit workers to pause in their duties to listen to Hitler.

FRENCH PREPARE TO FIGHT; CALL ARMY RESERVES

Act Quietly to Forestall Italian Mobilization.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

PARIS, Sept. 27 [Tuesday].—France today apparently began preparing for any eventualities in the European war crisis while the nation awaited the results of deliberations of the cabinet. The ministers will meet at 10 a. m.

The government hastened military mobilization by calling an undisclosed number of reserves to the colors. The operation was carried out quietly by individual notification.

The nation apparently was approaching completion of mobilization plans since it was reported that some members of the sixth class were called up.

It was believed the quietness of the action was designed to forestall any retaliatory measures such as Italian mobilization.

To Decide Course of Action.

The cabinet at its meeting will decide whether Adolf Hitler's speech leaves the door open for last minute negotiations or whether there is nothing to do but await next Saturday and fight him if he carries out his threat.

The impression in official circles here was somewhat contradictory. Although a passage in Hitler's speech, which declares the Godesberg memorandum stands, would seem to close the door to any further discussion, foreign office spokesmen viewed the speech as a whole as not "completely burning bridges."

In political circles there were two partisan versions of the speech. One saw it as absolutely unbreakable. The other professed to find loopholes for some kind of a compromise.

In any case it seemed to offer an opening for the "peace party." Pierre Etienne Flandin, former premier and leading spokesman of the peace party, sent a letter to Premier Edouard Daladier. It was believed Flandin repeated his demand that Daladier summon parliament before doing anything irreparable. The interval between now and Saturday likely will be devoted to the struggle between the two opposing groups for control of public opinion.

Bullitt Sees Daladier.

Ambassador William C. Bullitt of the United States saw both Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet last night. He was quoted by French papers as having said that "I am optimistic because we are on the side of truth."

The general editorial reaction to Hitler's speech did not essentially change. Deprecating Hitler's attempt to turn the issue into a "personal squabble" between himself and President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, the press showed no weakening in its determination to stand up to German threats.

Reports current here the last few days of a British cabinet shakeup to take in Capt. Anthony Eden, Winston Churchill and several Laborites, including Maj. Clement R. Attlee, Labor party leader, were followed by a renewal of rumors of a similar French shakeup. There were rumors that such a reorganization would lead toward the creation of a "national union" cabinet and similar to the world war government.

France Prepares for War.

France meanwhile continued to get ready for war with increasing grimness.

The grimmest note was the announcement yesterday by the American embassy advising Americans who have no serious reason for remaining in Paris to return to the United States.

The embassy communique reads as follows:

"In view of the complicated situation prevailing in Europe, it is considered advisable to recommend that American citizens who have no compelling reason to continue their sojourn here arrange to return to the United States."

It was estimated at the embassy that between 13,000 and 14,000 Americans now are in France—3,000 tourists, 9,000 American residents in Paris and between one and two thousand living outside Paris.

Warning Spreads Panic.

The embassy warning spread panic among the Americans. Travel bureaus and banks were besieged and persons waited in long lines to draw American money or buy tickets. All afternoon a crowd of anxious tourists milled about in the lobby of the embassy.

Ambassador Bullitt and the embassy staf intend to remain in Paris at least as long as the government does. If the government, as widely rumored, moves to some small town in the center of the country the embassy will consult with Washington, D. C., and local diplomatic corps as to whether to follow them.

President Roosevelt's peace appeal yesterday aroused hopes here that war may yet be averted. It was pointed out that while his message offers no positive proposals for peace, it may offer Reichsfuehrer Hitler that means of giving in to the Franco-British stand without losing face, and for that reason is important. Former Premier Leon Blum's Socialist party sent Mr. Roosevelt a telegram of thanks.

"Save Peace" Is the Cry of London Marchers

IL DUCE SEES NEW EUROPE RISING FROM WAR CRISIS

Influence of Versailles Dying, He Shouts.

ROME, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, leading spokesman of the Fascist press, charged tonight that the supporters of Czechoslovakia were maneuvering to brand Germany the aggressor in possible war.

His charge came a few hours after Premier Benito Mussolini, in Verona, advised France and Great Britain to save Europe from war by turning their backs on Czechoslovakia.

Italy, said Il Duce, wanted a "new Europe" to replace the "dying" one constructed in the Versailles treaty at the end of the world war.

Gayda, writing in Il Giornale d'Italia, outlined what he described as the steps by which Germany was being put in the light of an aggressor.

Blames Czech Refusal.

This maneuver, he said, began with the refusal by the Prague government to accept Reichesfuehrer Adolf Hitler's last offer for ending the Czechoslovak-German crisis.

He asserted the refusal put in motion the German action announced in Hitler's memorandum, which envisaged direct occupation of Sudeten territory by German armed forces if it is not evacuated by Oct. 1.

"This German march," Gayda continued, "would be defined as aggression. And this aggression would be supposed to provoke a reaction bringing into play military alliances with France and Russia on which President Eduard Benes continued to count, together with an organized incitement of anti-Fascist leftists in France and England."

Predicts a New Europe.

Mussolini stated to 47,000 Fascists at Verona that he saw no reason for resistance to Hitler's demands. Il Duce shouted "the Europe which was constructed at Versailles is dying. Its fate will be decided this week. It is during this week that a new Europe will rise up. This will be a Europe of justice for all peoples and of reconciliation among peoples."

Pain in the Foot

A sudden twinge of pain in his foot caused Earl Baldwin, former prime minister of Britain, to hobble as he stepped from an auto in London after a holiday in France. Next day he was in conference with Prime Minister Chamberlain on the Czech crisis.

VATICAN KEEPS CLOSE WATCH ON WAR CRISIS

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 26. — (AP) — Vatican authorities took such a grave view of the European situation today that Pope Pius conferred for nearly an hour with Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state.

In granting his secretary of state an audience the pontiff deviated from his custom of receiving no one in audience on Mondays.

A Vatican news service said developments in the situation were being followed with greatest attention and trepidation. Cardinal Pacelli's office has been receiving daily reports from papal representatives in various capitals.

CZECHS BELIEVE WAR INEVITABLE BY END OF WEEK

Prague Parliament Sets Up Council of Control.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

PRAGUE, Sept. 26.—The knowledge that Chancellor Adolf Hitler would speak tonight hung like a cloud over the political atmosphere here today. Czechoslovakia already had rejected the Godesberg memorandum as furnishing no basis for discussion, and it was feared the speech would contain an announcement that German troops had been ordered to attack Czechoslovakia at the moment.

People hurried from shops and offices for the comparative safety and security of their homes. A far more than usual number of gas masks were carred by civilians in the streets during the afternoon and evening.

The fact that Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, with his well known desire for war, introduced the Fuehrer seemed an ominous sign.

Expect War by Saturday.

When the speech closed without a declaration that hostilities had begun there was a slight relaxation in the tension. The relaxation, however, was fleeting because it universally is felt the speech now makes war inevitable by Saturday.

It is unlikely there will be any official Czechoslovak reply to the speech, which it is felt here did nothing but repeat the Godesberg memorandum with no important variations.

There is full confidence that when the blow falls, both of Czechoslovakia's allies, France and Russia, will fulfill their treaty obligations to the letter, as will her allies of the Little Entente, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia, should their intervention be necessitated by Hungary's participation in the attempt to wreck this country.

Pin Hope on British.

As for Great Britain, the news received here concerning last night's cabinet sitting awakens a strong hope that she also will not stand by and see the peace of Europe broken by Nazi Germany on such flimsy excuses without herself joining those who are determined that the Nazi threat to world peace be once and for all rendered powerless.

Hitler's speech, with its fantastic vilifications of President Eduard Benes, has, it is considered here, decided nothing. A decision is to be expected from Wednesday's sitting of the British house of commons, and it is felt this can fall in but one direction.

It is inconceivable to the Czechs, in view of the ultimate threat to Britain which Germany's hegemonistic plans imply, that the Germanophile and "give them everything" group in British politics can have their way against what obviously seems popular sentiment.

Disabled Do Trafic Duty.

In some parts of the city men in French and Italian uniforms were doing trafic duty today. They were not, of course, representatives of the allied armies, but men unfit for the army, wearing uniforms in which they fought in the Czechoslovak legions during the world war.

Strong detachments with fixed bayonets guarded the narrow streets in the old world quarter of Prague, next to the German legation. Prague headquarters of the former Henlein party, Deutsche Haus, has been turned into a refugee center for non-Nazi Germans and Szech fugitives from the Sudenten areas.

In Maerischostraus a special military régime has been established, in view of the district's importance from an industrial standpoint, with the authority to issue orders controlling civilians' activites.

Parliament's permanent committee met today. The government issued an order establishing a supreme economic council to arrange for the provisioning of troops and the civilian population. Another order called on citizens to surrender foreign currencies and credits to the national bank.

Only minor incidents were reported from the Sudeten area. In the Braunau district military patrols were twice fired on by Henleinists, two of whom were killed and two arrested. During the night hand grenades were thrown at the custom house in Zinnwald. A gendarme was wounded when ambushed by Henleinists.

CHICAGOAN LEADS 44 U. S. REFUGEES OUT OF PRAGUE

PRAGUE, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Forty-four Americans, headed by Milton Shufro of 5219 Harper avenue, Chicago, left Prague on a train for Bratislava at 9:45 p. m. today en route to Vienna and French ports. They were accompanied by a representative of the American consulate.

[First reports said the Americans turned back at the Czechoslovak border Sunday because they were afraid of being held in German refugee camps.]

Other residents of Illinois are Mrs. Emily Welcl of Berwyn, Maria Matecny of Berwyn, Charles S. Indelar of Berwyn, and Frank Cerny of Barrington.

HARBOR DEFENSE AT GIBRALTAR READY FOR WAR

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Defenses protecting the southern entrance to the admiralty harbor of this mighty British fortress were reported in place today in a war preparedness move.

Naval authorities also called for volunteers of ages from 14 to 55 for air raid precautions service. Thousands of foreigners, mostly Spanish refugees, were leaving Gibraltar.

THIEF EXPECTS HARD WINTER.

A thief, looking forward to winter, stole six gallons of anti-freeze solution yesterday from the car of Vernon Riess, 518 Jackson boulevard. Oak Park, parked in front of 2036 Michigan avenue.

Here's Sketch of Benes, the Man Whom Hitler Branded 'a Liar'

Eduard Benes.

Eduard Benes, the second president of the Czechoslovak republic, is an ardent patriot. He is the man whom Adolf Hitler condemned yesterday as the fomenter of strife in central Europe. The Fuehrer called him a "liar and a lunatic."

Many years of Benes' life were given to the formation of Czechoslovakia. More were given to its administration. He was always the right hand man of the great Czech hero, Thomas Masaryk, known as the founder of the Czech republic. Until the ageing Masaryk stepped aside in 1935 he was his country's foreign minister.

Born in Bohemia.

Benes is 54 years old. He was born in Bohemia. His parents were poverty stricken and he fought hard before he was able to attend the University of Prague. Masaryk, who was a professor there, quickly imbued Benes with his own enthusiasm for an independent Czech nation.

Later Benes attended the university of Dijon, France, and the Sorbonne in Paris. When the war broke out in 1914, he was lecturing in Prague. Masaryk went to Switzerland early in the conflict. Benes remained as the center of a little group that worked secretly and furnished allied nations with important information.

In July, 1915, he escaped to Switzerland with a forged passport. He joined Masaryk there and they battled constantly to persuade the allies that their homeland should be separated from the old Austro-Hungarian empire and made into a nation. They formed fighting units of Czech refugees in Italy, Russia, and France. The allies recognized their services and formed the new nation largely along lines they suggested.

One of his outstanding feats as foreign minister was the forming of the little entente of Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia, which agreed on a program of mutual defense against Hungary and other nations. Masaryk, on his retirement, recommended the elevation of Benes to the presidency.

Rules with Firm Hand.

For nearly three years now he has ruled with firm hand. His policies have been closely attuned to those of France. His stand against Germany apparently was made in the full hope the French would not forsake his country. Those who know him assert that he would be quite ready to lead a war; that he will not back away with all Germany's military power.

CZECHS ROUND UP SUDETENS WHO SHUN ARMY DUTY

EGER, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Czechoslovak authorities today rounded up hundreds of Sudeten Germans who had ignored the country's general mobilization order of last week and pressed them into military service. One group was led handcuffed through the streets of this Sudeten German town at the western tip of Czechoslovakia, within three miles of the German frontier.

This step was taken just before Chancellor Hitler began his speech in Berlin, and was designed partly to prevent a new outbreak in this hotbed of violence, since it placed all men under 45 years of age in army camps—where they did not hear the Fuehrer's speech.

Seventy Sudeten Germans, mostly women and children, were exchanged tonight for an equal number of Czechs from Germany. A German train—the first to cross the frontier at Eger since the general mobilization order Friday—brought the Czechs. The Germans, who had waited in a concentration camp for 24 hours, were placed on the same train, which then returned to Waldassen, across the frontier.

CABINET CALLED BY PRESIDENT ON EUROPE'S CRISIS

U. S. May Follow Up Its Plea for Peace.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will confer with his cabinet in an extraordinary session tomorrow for the purpose of considering his next move in the European war crisis.

The calling of the special cabinet session "in view of the existing situation abroad" followed Mr. Roosevelt's startling message at 3 o'clock this morning appealing directly to Chancellor Hitler of Germany and President Benes of Czechoslovakia to avoid the unspeakable horror of war.

Speculation in Washington tonight concerned the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt might follow his personal appeal for peace with an offer of mediation, or at least some specific proposal for negotiations.

No Reply from Hitler.

Mr. Roosevelt's message to Hitler and Benes, copies of which were transmitted to Premier Chamberlain of Great Britain and Premier Daladier of France, was acclaimed in replies from the democratic powers, but late today there had been no reply from Hitler.

Throughout the day Mr. Roosevelt kept in constant communication with the state department, receiving the latest advices from the American envoys abroad. This afternoon he conferred with Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Secretary Hull would not discuss Hitler's speech in which he refused to yield in his demand that Czechoslovakia surrender the Sudetenland on his terms by Oct. 1. The official view in Washington, however, is that the prospect for peace was not enhanced by Hitler' outburst. Since Czechoslovakia has rejected Hitler's terms and France, England, and Russia threaten to go to Czechoslovakia's aid if her territory is invaded, officials here regarded the outlook as gloomy.

Demand U. S. Stay Out.

While Mr. Roosevelt's supporters in congress generally praised his appeal to Hitler and Benes, the isolationists who believe that Europe's troubles are no concern of ours remained silent or approved the message with reservations demanding that the United States keep out of the present controversy.

Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], dean of the senate and of its foreign relations committee, who last week said the threatened war was no affair of ours, refused to discuss Mr. Roosevelt's message. After the Hitler speech, however, he said:

"Let them settle it themselves. They are the only ones who can settle it."

Commentators Pessimistic.

Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.], sponsor of a constitutional amendment at the last session of congress to require a national referendum before declaring war, said he could only hope "that the President's action will have a successful result."

Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], an isolationist, said Mr. Roosevelt's message was a "splendid gesture," but that it came too late. Fish referred to Mr. Roosevelt's Chicago bridge speech in October, 1937, saying:

"It is doubtful now whether the message will have any effect in view of the statements of the President that he proposed to police and quarantine the world."

Fear Intervention Move.

While refraining from public statements, the congressional advocates of a strict hands-off policy concerning the European crisis privately expressed misgivings concerning President Roosevelt's peace plea and the possibility that he might do something of a more tangible nature.

The White House insisted that Mr. Roosevelt's appeal could not be construed as an indication of partiality toward either side, citing his declaration that: "The United States has no political entanglements. It is caught in no mesh of hatred."

Some of the isolationists, however, interpreted this very declaration as the possible pretext for an attempt to mediate the German-Czechoslovak dispute. Intervention by President Roosevelt has been urged by Leon Blum, Socialist former premier of France, and by British and French newspapers. Their argument is that Mr. Roosevelt could preserve peace, through the exercise of his good offices, because of the fact that the United States has no political entanglements and is far removed from the troubled affairs of Europe.

Flair for Spectacular.

The fear that Mr. Roosevelt might attempt some form of direct intervention was based upon his known flair for the spectacular and his presumed fascination by Premier Chamberlain's airplane flights for personal conference with Dictator Hitler.

Apparently aware of the public anxiety concerning his foreign policy, Mr. Roosevelt at a recent press conference denounced the theory that the moral pressure which the United States was exerting for a peaceful settlement of the European crisis implied some kind of an alliance with Great Britain.

This statement was regretted in some quarters of the administration, since it tended to undermine the efforts of American ambassadors to persuade Hitler that in the event of war American neutrality could not be guaranteed.

France and Britain Pleased.

Great Britain and France also were encouraged by the President's message, as their replies to the state department here made plain.

"His majesty's government hail with gratitude the weighty message that the President of the United States has addressed to them and to certain other governments," said Premier Chamberlain. "The prime minister is even today making a further earnest appeal for settlement by negotiation in which his majesty's government would be ready to lend their good offices. The President's word can but encourage all those who sincerely desire to coöperate in this endeavor."

Premier Daladier of France said in part: "Your moving appeal has reached me in London at the very moment when, in close coöperation with the British government, France makes a supreme attempt with a view to safeguarding all possibility of an amicable settlement of the conflict that is threatening peace. It is of special value to me that under your high moral authority the devotion of the entire American nation to the principles which have been recognized and publicly acknowledged by all the parties to the Kellogg pact is now solemnly reaffirmed."

Benes Thanks President.

President Benes replied in part: "I am deeply moved by your cable message. . . . Although Czechoslovakia already has made great sacrifices in the negotiations up to now, sacrifices which touch the country's vital interest, it does not break off negotiations, desirous of seeing the conflict solved by peaceful means. . . . Czechoslovakia is grateful to you, Mr. President, for your message, which, in these grave moments, can contribute toward a just solution of the dispute."

Crisis in Europe Presents a Puzzle to U. S. Tongues

Recourse to a modern unabridged dictionary, it was found yesterday, settles nearly all disputes concerning the pronunciation of names now appearing frequently in dispatches from war-threatened Europe.

Ever since the present disturbances began, street corner debaters, public speakers, and radio announcers and commentators have disagreed over exactly what twist to give such frequently published words as Prague and Sudeten, to say nothing of a much larger number of less frequently used names.

One Unanimous Decision.

Early in the struggle, practical unanimity was attained in making the first syllable of Czechoslovakia harmonized with "check," but considerable difficulty was encountered in word problems resulting to some extent from the absorption of German sounds into the original Slavic of the Bohemian tongue.

The most recent American gazeteer available yesterday, that of Webster's New International dictionary, second edition, ruled, for example that the English pronunciation of Prague is Prayg. The German equivalent is spelled Prag and is pronounced Prahg. The Czechs call their capital officially Praha, both a's being given the broad sound of ah.

According to the same authority, the mountains now mentioned so frequently are the Sudetes, pronounced Soo-dee-tees. The adjective form of the word, Sudetic, is pronounced Soo-dett-ik. But, according to Czech authorities of the University of Praha, a native of that region, a Sudeten, is properly called a Soo-day-ten, this turn coming from the German influence.

Easier Than It Looks.

President Benes' name is sounded as thought it were spelled Ben-esch with the accent on the first syllable.

Eger is given the German sound of Ay-ger, the Czechs having their own name of Ohre, pronounced Ohr-zhe, for the town.

Pilsen is pronounced Pill-zen.

Skoda is pronounced as though it were spelled Shkoda, the o sounding like the o in or.

And Here Are Others.

Gen. Syrovy's name is pronounced approximately like Sih-roe-vih with the accent on the first syllable.

There also are some French names causing trouble. Phonetically spelled Edouard Daladier's name is Dah-lad-ee-ay with the accent on the second syllable; Georges Bonnet is Zhorzhe Bon-neh, and Maginot is Mahzh-ee-no.

Neville Chamberlain's first name is accented on the first syllable and the second syllable is short—Nev-il. The last name is accented on the first syllable and the last syllable is pronounced as though it were lin.

Empress of Japan Expects Her Seventh Child in April

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Sept. 26.—The Empress Nagako of Japan is expecting another child, which probably will be born in April, it was learned here today. Empress Nagako has had six children, five girls and a boy. The sixth was the male child. He was born in November, 1935, after the nation had feared for many years that Emperor Hirohito and his empress never would have an heir to the throne. The empress is 35 years old.

President of Argentina Praises Roosevelt Plea

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 26.—(AP)—President Roberto Ortiz today cabled to President Roosevelt, Chancellor Hitler of Germany, and President Benes of Czechoslovakia his adherence to the American chief executive's message urging a peaceful settlement of the Czechoslovak crisis. "Your appeal to Hitler and Benes found a warm adherence among the Argentine people and government," President Ortiz informed Mr. Roosevelt.

POLES CONFER ON BENES NOTE; FIGHT REPORTED

Czech President Sends Letter to Moscicki.

WARSAW, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Jurak Slavik, Czechoslovak minister to Warsaw, today handed President Ignace Moscicki a personal letter from President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia.

Moscicki immediately summoned Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister, for a conference.

The contents of the letter were not disclosed. It was flown from Prague by an employé of the Czechoslovak foreign ministry.

Accused of Sparring for Time.

Meanwhile, the Polish press today accused Czechoslovakia of sparring for time by spreading reports that she was ready to come to terms with Poland over border revision.

At the same time Polish newspapers accused Czechoslovaks of mistreating members of the Polish minority of 80,000 in the Teschen frontier district.

The Polish Telegraph agency reported the Czechoslovak government had informed the secretary of the Polish legation in Prague that it would consent "in principle" to a discussion of Poland's demand of Sept. 21 for cession of Polish inhabited areas.

The Czechoslovak reply, however, had not yet reached Warsaw.

Battle Is Reported.

"It's too late for misleading promises when Polish blood is shed," said the newspaper Kurjer Czerwony. It added that Czechoslovaks were threatening to blow up factories and flood coal mines in Czechoslovak Silesia.

Wieczor Warszawski said that insurgents armed with a machine gun attacked the Czechoslovak police station in the village of Szybica, near Teschen, and that the outcome of the fight was not known.

It added that barricades of wire covered with a poisonous substance were being used to halt the escape of Poles to Poland. Teschen, which is half in Poland and half in Czechoslovakia, was the only route open for foreigners leaving Czechoslovakia by way of Poland.

Reports in Warsaw said that more than 50,000 men had volunteered for service in the Silesian "free corps," organized for the protection of the Polish minority in Czechoslovakia.

FOOD HOARDERS EMPTY HUNGARY GROCERY STORES

BUDAPEST, Sept. 26. — (AP) — The capital of Hungary was silent and dark tonight—blacked out for air raid protection practice. All large places of amusement were closed.

Grocery stocks, such as coffee, sugar, and fats, were dwindling rapidly because of hoarding.

Banks closed at noon, but during the morning more deposits were withdrawn than during any previous day in the present crisis.

Virtually all radio sets had been cleaned out of stores by citizens anxious to hear every word of what Reichsfuehrer Hitler had to say today. Loudspeakers installed in hotel lobbies and cafes carried his voice to thousands.

SENTENCED AS AUTO THIEF.

ALUMINUM
1 POUND
In 1926 we could sell this much raw aluminum for 20c.
Research and increased efficiency enabled us to add this much more by the year 1929.
This block represents the amount we could sell for 20c in 1929.
More research, more investments in efficient plants, enabled us to add this much more by 1938.
Now we can sell this much aluminum for 20c.

The price of aluminum is one of the most important things in the world to us, as producers of this metal.

The price has to be right for the user if we are to stay in business.

People don't have to buy aluminum. They can always say, "It costs too much", and use some other material.

As we look back, it seems as though every policy of this company has grown from the idea of making a useful metal of good quality cheap enough to enable it to compete with other metals, some of which are thousands of years older. The reason ours is a successful business today is because we have made aluminum cheap.

As recently as 1926 we had to sell bulk aluminum for 27 cents a pound. By 1929 we had found ways to reduce the costs and could lower the selling price to 24.3 cents per pound. Today, although on an average the workers in our plants receive about 30% more for making a pound of aluminum than they did in 1929, the base price is only 20 cents a pound.

Considering the great difficulty of getting aluminum out of its ore, 20 cents is a low price. Frankly, we are a bit proud of the efforts of our research men, engineers and production experts which have made such a price possible.

NEWS IN COLOR! HOW THE TRIBUNE RUSHED IT TO YOU

Hitler Map Reproduced as He Drew It.

This is the story of news that came in colors—red and green. News that demanded to be printed in colors, and was printed in colors, by THE TRIBUNE. It is the story of the map on which Reichsfuehrer Hitler marked what he wanted from Czechoslovakia.

This map, in the colors Hitler used, was published on the back page of Monday's TRIBUNE. But how did it get from Prague in Czechoslovakia to Tribune Tower in Chicago? And how did men and machines get the map into the paper in the record time of four hours?

Transmitted Over Ocean.

The story begins at 5 minutes past 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon when news of the Hitler map was received from New York. THE TRIBUNE was notified by the Associated Press that the map was to be transmitted from London. The official copy which Prime Minister Chamberlain carried away from Godesberg, scene of the last Hitler-Chamberlain conference, had been flown to Prague by a British military attaché and from there transmitted to London.

The map was sent by radio to New York. There the Associated Press Wirephoto facilities were ready to speed the map to Chicago just as news photographs are sent each day for publication in your morning TRIBUNE.

The map arrived in THE TRIBUNE office a few minutes after 8 p. m.

Details of cabled news stories and the map agreed. The production manager was called at his home. "Hitler drew the map in red and green," he was told. "We want to print it in red and green."

Departments Get Busy.

The production manager hurried to the office. Artists and engravers conferred. In fifteen minutes the art department had the map ready for the engravers and was ready to follow the job through. The areas to be printed in red, in green, in black and white were carefully indicated. The engravers began their work.

Separate plates had to be made for each color. It was exacting work. And speed, usually secondary in the case of color advertisments ordered days in advance, was of prime importance.

At 11:20 the stereotypers got the green plate. At 11:35 they got the red plate. The black plate, on which the colors were to be superimposed, went to the stereotype department at 11:50.

Four Plates Required.

The stereotypers made mats—impressions in papier mache from which plates are cast in metal for the presses. Separate plates are necessary for each color. And pressmen said the map might as well have been a four color job, because a fourth set of plates was required for the text and explanatory map in black and white, which was also printed on the back page.

So far, so good. Then in the pressroom it was discovered there was no green ink on hand. Blue and yellow were quickly mixed. Everything was ready. It was deadline time. The presses began running.

SPAIN'S WAR DIES DOWN; GENERALS WATCH EUROPE

HENDAYE, France [At Spanish Frontier], Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Spanish civil war fell into a new deadlock today. Only local skirmishes were reported, with the battles dying down on the major fronts, the Ebro river in northeast Spain and the Cordoba in the southwest.

Spanish commanders were believed to be watching the European crisis for indications of any effect it might have on their own campaigns.

'CZECHS TO FIGHT TO THE LAST MAN,' VOJTA BENES SAYS

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Czechoslovakia will "fight to the last breath and to the last man" if the Nazi troops cross its borders, Vojta Benes, brother of President Benes of Czechoslovakia, declared today. He arrived aboard the liner Batory.

Vojta Benes.

Accompanying Benes was Vladmir Hurban, Czechoslovakian minister to the United States. He agreed with Benes that his country was prepared to fight, with or without aid from other powers. He said he believed President Roosevelt's appeal for peace had come too late.

"If Germany attacks us, we are prepared," Benes added. "Our men are behind their guns ready to fight to the last. Our enemies threaten to destroy our liberty, our democracy, our land. Once more in the history of the world we go to the battle for mankind and humanity. We fought for it in the fifteenth century and we are prepared to fight now."

Hurban is here to resume his duties as minister at Washington. Benes is here on an unofficial speaking tour.

ASCH OVERJOYED AT HITLER'S VOW TO TAKE SUDETEN

Henlein on Flying Visit with Shock Troops.

ASCH, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's declaration that Germany was determined to assume sovereignty over Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland brought expressions of joy tonight from residents of this Sudeten German border town.

The Fuehrer's Berlin speech was the second major event of the day for the Sudeten Germans, whose jubilance knew no bounds this morning when Konrad Henlein, leader of the outlawed Sudeten German party, dashed across the border from Germany for a brief visit.

Upon the departure of Henlein, who brought five bus loads of Sudeten "free corps" fighters, the town turned out en masse to listen to the broadcast of Hitler's speech.

Crowds Listen Calmly.

Happy but remarkably calm, the Sudeten Germans hung on to every word the Fuehrer spoke. Thousands were jammed about the market square where loudspeakers were set up. Other thousands went to movie houses where the speech replaced the program of entertainment. Beer drinkers in cafes left their steins to listen. Kitchen help joined family circles for the occasion.

The speech capped the most tense day this part of the central European powder barrel has lived through since the present crisis became acute.

Upon reports from London of Britain's stiffened attitude, British correspondents were ordered out of Asch. They left on an hour's notice.

Trafic Rerouted.

Independence was being demonstrated by Asch residents tonight in many ways. At midnight trafic was ordered to begin using the right side of the road, as in Germany, instead of the left, as is Czechoslovakia's custom.

When Henlein arrived with his 150 shock troopers, the Sudeten Germans thought the German army had come.

"Now it's going to start!" they shouted.

But Henlein, who for an hour inspected his Sudeten free corps' front line and returned to his headquarters at Bayreuth, Germany, ordered his men to avoid combat with Czechoslovak troops.

Border Control Tightened.

German customs officials say they have strict orders not to step one foot into either Czechoslovakia or the Asch "free territory."

The border control was tightened within the last twenty-four hours. The personnel has changed, and the tolerance which sprang up after the Asch people declared themselves "free" has disappeared.

Henlein left orders for his followers merely to defend the "free territory" and not to attack nearby Franzensbad or Eger, where Czechoslovak authorities control.

Henlein led his fighters only to within three-quarters of a mile of Czechoslovak soldiers at Ober Lohma. It was Henlein's first appearance in Czechoslovakia since he fled to Germany Sept. 14 from a treason charge.

2D ARMY DIVISION IS ORGANIZED INTO MOBILE TEST UNIT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The war department disclosed today the army's second division would be reorganized into a highly mobile, streamlined unit as a probable model for other infantry forces.

This division, with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, will test for upward of a year the infantry reorganization plans which were given a preliminary field trial there last year.

The revamped division will number only about 12,000 instead of the 26,000 men of world war days, but army commanders expect motorized equipment and more modern weapons will enable it to move faster and hit harder.

Japan Approves Poland's Effort to Grab Czech Area

JAPAN REPORTED GAINING GROUND IN HANKOW DRIVE

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Japanese forces were reported to have crossed the Yellow river today in southeastern Shansi province to overcome a major barrier in their drive toward Hankow, China's military capital, 300 miles to the south. Severe fighting continued on both sides of the stream.

Advices from the Loshan sector said the Japanese gained ground in a drive on Sinyan, 100 miles north of Hankow, on the Peiping-Hankow railway.

South of the Yangtze the Japanese said their troops pushed back Chinese forces blocking their way to Yangsin, sixty miles east of the Hankow-Canton railway.

Japanese air raids on the Hankow airdrome, resulting in destruction of twelve Chinese planes on the ground, and on Kweiyang, capital of Kweichow province, were reported. Continued bombings in South China were reported from Canton.

purposes of Germany's foreign policy.

"German foreign policy, as distinct from that of many democratic states, is fixed in our philosophy of life. This philosophy of our people of the new third reich is based on the maintenance and safeguarding of the existence of our German people.

"We are not interested in oppressing other peoples. We do not wish at all to have other nationalities among us. We want to live after our own patterns and let others live after theirs.

"This, in a manner our philosophy—I may well say racially bound conception leads to limitation of our foreign policy; that is, our foreign political aims are not limitless or random ones nor are they aims determined by occasional happenings.

"They are laid down by determination to serve the German people alone, to maintain it in this world and to preserve its existence.

Says Trust Was Betrayed.

"What is the situation today?

"You know that at one time the German people, too, was imbued, under the slogan 'self-determination of peoples,' with belief in supernational assistance and that it thereby renounced utilizing its own strength to the very end.

"You know that this weak German trust of those days was shamefully betrayed.

"You know the result was the Versailles treaty, and you all remember what frightful consequences this treaty had.

"You remember how our people were robbed of their weapons and how the unarmed people were later mistreated.

"You know the terrible fate that befell us, that persecuted us for a decade and a half.

"And you know, too, that if Germany today has despite all become once more great, free, strong, it owes all to its own strength. Others contributed nothing to it.

"They tried as long as possible to blackmail and oppress us.

"Out of our own people grew this power to end this humiliating situation and to show the people a way to go, worthy of a free, great people.

Hits Profiteering Clique.

"Although we have become today free and strong through our own power, we nourish no ill feeling against other nations.

"We know that peoples cannot be made responsible for what an unprincipled clique of international profiteers and jobbers is to blame for.

"These profiteers do not recoil from pressing entire nations into the service of their mean interests.

"We bear no hatred in us against the surrounding world and we have proved it. German love for peace has been proved by these facts:

"First, we had hardly begun restoration of German equality when I proposed to the entire world, as a visible sign of renunciation of any so-called revenge, quite a number of agreements. They were in the line of limitation of armaments.

Tells of Disarm Proposal.

"My first proposal: Germany demands equality under all circumstances, yet it is willing generally to renounce armaments and weapons, if necessary to the last machine gun, and disarm completely if other nations do the same.

"This was not even taken as an occasion for discussion.

"Then came the second proposal: Germany is willing to limit her army, like other states, to 200,000 men with the same arms as the others.

"This, too, was rejected.

"Germany—another proposal—is ready if others do likewise to renounce heavy armament, the so-called aggressive weapons, namely, tanks, bombers, heavy and superheavy artillery.

"It was rejected.

"I now proposed an international regulation with a 300,000-man army, the same to apply to all European countries.

"Again this was rejected.

Sought to Outlaw Poison Gas.

"I then offered further suggestions: at least, the elimination of air fleets, elimination of bomb throwing, absolute outlawing of poison gas in war, the safeguarding of the homeland and of lands not lying in the line of attack, the elimination at least of the heaviest artillery and elimination of the heaviest tanks.

"That, too, was declined. It was all in vain.

"After I had thus for two years made offer after offer and received nothing but rejection after rejection, I now issued a command to put the German defense force in the best position that could possibly be achieved by us.

BOASTS OF ARMED MIGHT

"I can now admit that openly.

"We have now, to be sure, completed a rearmament the like of which the world has not seen.

"First, I offered disarmament as long as that was possible.

"After it was rejected I certainly made no more halfway decisions. In that I am National Socialist [Nazi] and an old front fighter.

"If they do not want an unarmed world, then, German people, bear arms that are stronger than others.

"I have armed up these five years. I have spent billions on arms. The German people know it.

"I have said: Let a new army be raised with the most modern arms possible. I have asked my friend [Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm] Goering to provide me with an air force that will protect the German people against all attack.

Proud of Defense Force.

"So we have built up a defense force that the German people today may be proud of, and which the world will respect whenever it makes its appearance.

"We have created the best anti-aircraft equipment and the best anti-tank equipment that there is in the whole world.

"Work has gone on day and night thereon these five years.

"On one single point I have succeeded in coming to an understanding, to which I shall refer later.

[This was taken to be in reference to the British-German naval agreement of 1936 by which Germany agreed to limit its navy to 35 per cent of Great Britain's.]

"Nevertheless, I have carried on politically my erstwhile thoughts of armaments limitation or a disarmament policy.

"In those years I have really conducted a practical peace policy.

"I have attacked all seemingly impossible problems with a firm will to solve them peaceably if at all feasible even at the risk of more or less important German sacrifices. I am a front soldier myself and I know how terrible war is.

Cites Problem with Poles.

"I wanted to spare the German nation this experience and therefore I took up problem after problem with a firm resolve to attempt everything to make an amicable solution possible.

"The hardest problem I found, my fellow citizens, was Polish-German relations. We faced the danger here of steering ourselves into, let us say, fanatical hysteria. The danger existed that in this case a conception like inherited enmity would gain possession of our peoples as well as the Polish people.

"This I wanted to forestall. I know perfectly well that I would not have succeeded alone if at that time there had been a democracy of western construction in Poland.

"For these democracies running over with peace phrases are the most bloodthirsty war instigators.

"There was no democracy in Poland, but there was a man. With him we succeeded in less than a year in arriving at an agreement which presently, for the duration of ten years, basically removes the danger of any clash.

Visions Peace With Poland.

"We all are determined, and also convinced, that this agreement will bring about lasting and continuous pacification, because problems in eight years are no different from those today.

"We do not have to expect anything from each other. We recognize this. We are two peoples. They shall live. One cannot annihilate the other. I recognize this and we must see it: A state of 33 million people will always strive for an outlet to the sea.

"Here the road to understanding had to be found, and it was found. And it is being widened and expanded.

"Of course, down there realities are often grim. Nationalities and little racial groups often fight with each other.

"But the decisive thing is: The two administrations and all sensible and reasonable people in both countries have a firm will and a firm resolve continually to improve relations.

Calls It a Great Deed.

"That was a great deed of mine, and a real act of peace which weighs more than all the jabbering in the Geneva league of nations palace.

"Now I have tried during this time also gradually to bring about good and enduring relations with other nations.

"We have given guarantees for the states in the west. We have guaranteed to all contiguous neighbors the inviolability of their territory so far as Germany is concerned.

"That is not a phrase—that is our sacred will.

"We are not interested in breaking peace. We do not want anything from these peoples. It is a fact that our offers were meeting with increasing acceptance and also growing understanding.

"Slowly more and more nations are departing from the idiotic delusion of Geneva; I should like to say, departing not from collective peace obligations but from collective war obligations.

"They are withdrawing from them and begin to see problems soberly and are ready for understanding and peace.

"I have gone further.

Extends Hand to England.

"I extended a hand to England. I renounced voluntarily ever again joining any naval conference so as to give the British empire a feeling of security, not because I could not build more—and there should be no illusion about that—but exclusively for this reason: To safeguard permanent peace between both nations.

[This was the reference to the Anglo-German naval pact promised earlier in Hitler's speech.]

"To be sure, there is here one precondition—it cannot be admitted that one part should say: I do not want to fight you any more and therefore I offer you to cut my armaments down to 35 per cent, and that the other party should say from time to time: We will fight again when it suits me.

"That won't do. Such an agreement is morally justified only when both peoples shake hands on an honest promise never to wage war upon each other again.

"Germany has this will. We all hope that among the English people those will prevail who are of the same mind.

"I have gone further. Immediately after the Saar had been returned to the reich I told France there were no more differences between France and us.

[Under league of nations auspices 540,000 voters of the mineral-rich Saar basin territory, lying between France and Germany, chose overwhelmingly in a plebiscite Jan. 13, 1935, to return to Germany. Transfer of the area was effected without incident after the vote, which was provided for in the Versailles treaty.]

"I said: Alsace-Lorraine does not exist any more for us.

[Alsace-Lorraine was taken from France after the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, and the peace treaties after the great war returned it to her.]

"These people really have not been asked their opinion in the last few decades. We believe that the inhabitants of those parts are happiest when they are not being fought over.

Want Nothing from France.

"And we all do not want any more war with France. We want nothing of France, absolutely nothing.

"And when the Saar territory was returned to the reich, thanks to—I will say so right here—thanks to France's loyal execution of the treaties, I immediately gave this frank assurance: Now all the territorial differences between France and Germany are settled.

"I no longer see any differences at all. There are two nations. They can live best if they work together.

"After this renunciation, irrevocable once and forever, I turned to another problem, solvable more easily than others because a mutual philosophic basis served as a prerequisite for an easier mutual understanding: Germany's relations with Italy.

FUEHRER HAILS DUCE

"Certainly the solution of this problem is my work only partially. The other part is due to the rare great man [Premier Benito Mussolini] whom the Italian people is fortunate to possess as its leader.

"This relation has long left a sphere of clear economic and political expediency and over treaties and alliances has turned into a real strong union of hearts.

"Here an axis was formed represented by two peoples, both of whom in their philosophical and political ideas found themselves in close indissoluble friendship.

"Here, too, I cut the cloth finally and definitly, convinced of my responsibility toward my countrymen.

"I have relieved the world of a problem that from now on no longer exists for us.

Speaks of "Political Liar."

"Bitter as it may be for a few, in the last analysis the interest of the German nation stands above all. This interest, however, is: to be able to work in peace.

"This whole activity, my fellow citizens, is not a phrase that cannot be proved, but instead this activity is demonstrated by facts which no political liar can remove.

"Without regard to history, origin of peoples, their national wishes, their economic necessities, they smashed up Europe and arbitrarily set up new states.

"To this, Czechoslovakia owed its existence.

"This Czech state began with one big lie and its father's name was Benes. [Cries of "Hang him."]

Says Benes Invented Lie.

"This Mr. Benes at that time turned up at Versailles and told them that there was the Czechoslovak nation. [Loud laughter.]

"He had to invent this lie to bolster up an insignificant number of his own nationals so as to make them seem more important.

"And Anglo-Saxon statesmen who are not so good at geographical and national questions did not think it necessary to put Mr. Benes' assertions to a test or else they would have disclosed pretty quick that there is no Czechoslovak nation, but that there are Czechs and Slovaks and that the Slovaks prefer to have nothing to do with the Czechs.

"At last the Czechs, through Mr. Benes, annexed Slovakia. As this state did not seem to be able to live on, it simply took 3,500,000 Germans against their right of self-determination and their will to self-determination.

"Yet this did not suffice. Hence, 1,000,000 Magyars had to be added, then the Carpatho-Russians, and at last several hundred thousand Poles.

Sympathizes with Oppressed.

"Thus this state was created which later called itself Czechoslovakia in contradiction to the right of the self-determination of nations and in contradiction to the clear wish and will of the raped nations.

"As I here talk to you now I feel sympathy for the fate of all these oppressed; I feel for the fate of Hungarians, Slovaks, Poles, Ukrainians—naturally I am speaking only for the fate of my Germans.

"When Mr. Benes lied his state together at that time he solemnly promised to divide the state into cantons according to the Swiss system because there were some among the democratic statesmen who had qualms of conscience.

CHARGES TERROR REIGN

"We all know how Mr. Benes solved cantonization. Now he began his system of terror. Then when Germans attempted to protest against this arbitrariness and rape they were blown to bits and a war of annihilation has raged ever since.

"In those years of Czechoslovakia's peaceful progress nearly 600,000 Germans had to leave Czechoslovakia for a very simple reason—they would have perished of hunger had they remained.

"The whole picture from 1918 to 1938 showed one thing quite clearly: That Mr. Benes was resolved simply to root out Germandom slowly and gradually and in this he succeeded up to a certain point.

"He has plunged countless people into deepest misery.

Says Benes Gags Millions.

"He has managed to keep millions of people in fear and trembling and with continuous application of terror he succeeded slowly in gagging those millions.

"It was then that the true reasons for existence of this state, seen from an international viewpoint, were revealed.

"It was no longer a secret that this state was destined to be used as a German baiter when the opportunity offered.

"The French air minister, Pierre Cot, a few weeks ago said blandly: 'We need this state because from its territory German economic and industrial life can be most easily destroyed.'

"So this state was used by bolshevism at its point of entry.

"It was not we who sought a contact with bolshevism, but bolshevism used this state to dig a channel into central Europe.

Claims Minority Rules Czechs.

"And now comes the scandalous situation: This state, which is ruled by a minority only, forces its nationalities to a policy that one day makes them shoot their own brothers.

"Mr. Benes rises and demands from Sudeten Germans: If I conduct war against Germany you must shoot Germans. If you do not want to, you are traitors and I will have you shot.

"And he demands the same from Hungarians, Poles, and Slovaks, that they defend aims which are indifferent to the Slovak people. The Slovak people want peace and no adventures.

"Mr. Benes, however, dares to stamp all these human beings either as traitors to the people or traitors to the nation. Either they betray their people and are ready to shoot or Mr. Benes says: 'You are traitors to the nation and therefore will be shot.'

"Fellow Citizens Shot."

"This is the greatest impudence thinkable—to force alien people under certain conditions to shoot their own fellow citizens because the bad, rotten, criminal state régime wants it.

"I can assure you right here, when we occupied Austria my first order was: No Czech needs or may serve in the German army, I never want to cause him qualms of conscience. I do not want him to do it, he shall never do it.

"Who, however, opposes Mr. Benes' total aims is being persecuted, terror breaks over him, he can be sure of jail and he will simply be killed economically.

"Democratic world apostles cannot remove this from the world. The results have been dreadful in this state of Mr. Benes. Here again I speak for Germans.

Says Mortality Is Great.

"Mortality is greatest there among all German tribes. Their death of children is the greatest; unemployment is the most terrible there.

"Suicides are more frequent. It is only a question as to how long this is to endure.

"For twenty years Germans in Czechoslovakia and German people in the reich looked on. Perhaps they had to look on, not because they were ever willing to take it, but because they were defenseless and could not help themselves from their tormentors and the world—these world democracies?

"Yes, when anywhere a traitor is locked in or if a man, if you please, who has been inciting against their race from the pulpit is merely taken into custody then there is excitement in England and indignation in America.

Despises Democracies.

"But when hundreds of thousands of humans are driven out, when tens of thousands are delivered into jails, when thousands are massacred—then these fine democracies are not moved in the least.

"We have learned in these years thoroughly to despise them.

During all this time and even today—this I must state—we find but one state, one great power in Europe and at its head, above all, one man who has a full understanding for this ardent need of our people.

THANKS MUSSOLINI

"It is, I think I may say this is my great friend, Benito Mussolini.

"We shall never forget what he did during this time and what attitude the Italian people took.

"If a similar hour of need should come for Italy I will go before the German people and urge it to take a similar stand.

"Then there will not be two states defending themselves, but one solid block.

"I said in the reichstag on Feb. 22 [Feb. 20] that this [meaning the Czechoslovak situation] must be changed. Only Mr. Benes changed it differently. He started a more radical system of oppression, greater terror, a period of dissolutions, bans, confiscations, etc.

"This went on until May 21, and you cannot deny, my friends, that it was truly endless German patience that we practiced.

"This May 21 was unbearable enough. I have told the story of this month already at the reich's party convention.

Assails Military Occupation.

"There at last were to be elections in Czechoslovakia. They no longer could be postponed.

"So Mr. Benes thinks out a way to intimidate Germans there—military occupations of those sections. [Shouts of "Bloodhound."]

"He still keeps up this military occupation in the expectation that so long as his hirelings are there nobody will dare raise a hand against him.

"It was an impudent lie that Germany had mobilized. That had to be used in order to cloak the Czech mobilization, excuse it, and explain it.

"What happened then you know. The infamous international world set at Germany. Germany had not called upon one man. It never thought of solving this problem militarily.

"I still had hopes that the Czechs would recognize at the last minute that this tyrannic régime could not keep up.

"But Mr. Benes believed Germany was fair game. Of course, he thought he was covered by France and England and nothing could possibly happen to him. And if everything failed there still was soviet Russia to fall back on.

Speaks of Nuremberg Demands.

"Thus the answer of that man was: No, more than ever shoot down, arrest and incarcerate all those whom he did not like for some reason. Then finally my demands came from Nuremberg.

"The demands now were quite clear. Now for the first time I said that now at last nearly twenty years after Mr. Wilson's right of self-determination for the 3,500,000 must be enforced and we shall not just look on any longer.

"And again Mr. Benes replied: New victims, new incarcerations, new arrests. The German element gradually began to flee.

"Then came England. I informed Mr. Chamberlain unequivocally of what we regard as the only possibility of solution.

"It is the most natural solution possible.

"I know that all these nationalities no longer want to remain with this Mr. Benes.

Calls Benes a Lunatic.

"In the first place, however, I speak of Germans. For these Germans I have now spoken and now given assurances that I am no longer willing to look on quietly and passively, as this lunatic believes he can simply mishandle three and a half million human beings.

"I left no doubt that German patience at last was exhausted. I left no doubt it was the way of our German mentality to take things long and patiently, that, however, the moment comes once when this must be ended.

"And now, in fact, England and France agreed to dispatch the only possible demand to Czechoslovakia—namely: to free the German region and cede it to the reich.

"We have full knowledge today of the conversations which Mr. Benes then conducted.

"He reached the decision in view of England's and France's threat no longer to sponsor Czechoslovakia unless the fate of the peoples therein were shaped differently and the regions liberated.

"In the face of these declarations Mr. Benes found a way out. He admitted that yes, these sections must be lopped off. That is what he declared. And what did he do?

"He did not lop off the territory—he drove out the Germans.

Says Game Is Up.

"Now that is something where the game is up.

"Hardly had Mr. Benes said this when his military subjugation began anew and in sharper measure.

"And now look at the figures: 10,000 one day, the next day 20,000, the next day 37,000, two days later 42,000, then 78,000, then it is 90,000, 137,000, and today 214,000.

"Whole stretches of land are depopulated. Villages are burned to the ground. An attempt is made to smoke Germans there out with grenades and gas.

"But Mr. Benes sits in Prague and is convinced 'nothing can happen to me. Behind me stand England and France.'

"And now, my fellow countrymen. I believe the moment has come for talking business.

"When anybody suffers such disgrace and such humiliation for twenty long years there certainly can be no doubt about his being peace-loving.

"If any one develops patience such as we developed it certainly cannot be claimed that we lust for war.

"And, finally: Mr. Benes has 7,000,000 behind him while here stands a people of 75,000,000.

LAST GERMAN PROPOSAL

"I now have addressed a memorandum to the British government with a last and final German proposal.

"This proposal is nothing else but the realization of what Mr. Benes already has promised.

"The content of the proposal is very simple: Territory that is nationally German and wants to join Germany is to go to Germany.

"Not when Mr. Benes has succeeded in driving out one or two million Germans, but right now, instantly.

"I have selected a frontier that is fair to Czechoslovakia on the basis of material compiled some decades past on ethnographic and language divisions.

"I am a more just man than Mr. Benes and I do not want to use the power I possess.

"I have, therefore, adopted this rule: This and this territory comes under German sovereignty, because it is essentially inhabited by Germans.

Frontiers Up to People.

"The final boundaries, however, I leave to a vote of the people there, meaning a local vote will be taken.

"And so that no one can say that this would not be fair enough, I have decided to adopt the Saar plebiscite statute as a basis for this vote.

"I was and am willing to have a plebiscite in the whole Czechoslovak territory.

"But Mr. Benes objects to this and so do his friends that this is to be only in certain sections.

"Very well, I have yielded there. I said 'Mr. Chamberlain, if you insist on the principle that it is to be only in certain disputed sections—all right with me.'

"And so that no one can say this plebiscite would not be fair enough, I was ready to give a vote supervised by an international control commission.

"Then I went farther. I was ready now to leave defining of the new borders to German and Czech commissions.

"Mr. Chamberlain asked whether this could not be an international commission. I even agreed to this.

"All right: An international commission should do it.

"Furthermore, I was ready even to withdraw troops during the plebiscite and today gave consent to invite the British legion which offered during this time to go into this region to maintain peace and order.

Ready for Border Commission.

"And then I was ready for such an international commission to draw a definite border.

"And I was ready to hand over all modalities [methods] to a commission consisting of Germans and Czechs.

"What exactly is the content of this memorandum?"

"It is nothing else than a practical execution of what Mr. Benes already agreed to and that, too, under the greatest international guarantees.

"There is, however, something that is unacceptable for Mr. Benes. Mr. Benes says this memorandum created a new situation. What does the new situation consist of?

"Because I demand that now, as an exception, Mr. Benes this time keep his promise. That is the new situation for Mr. Benes.

"What hasn't this man promised during his lifetime? He has kept nothing. And now for the first time he should stick to a promise.

"Mr. Benes says: 'Yes, we cannot withdraw from this territory.'

"He understood it this way—that this region will be credited to the German account, but it would not be returned and instead kept under Czechoslovak rule for further persecution.

'HAND OVER SUDETENLAND'

"That is past history. I have now demanded that Mr. Benes be forced to stick to the truth. He will have to hand the territory to us on Oct. 1.

"Mr. Benes now pins his hopes on the world. Neither he nor his diplomats conceal this.

"They declare: It is our hope that Chamberlain will fall, that Daladier will be removed, that revolutions happen everywhere. And our hope is soviet Russia.

"He still believes he can escape fulfilment of his duty. And there I can now say one thing: Two men are on the scene against each other. There is Mr. Benes and here am I.

"We are two such different persons that when Mr. Benes sneaked through the world during the great wrestling of nations, I then fulfilled my duty as an honest soldier.

Says Patience Is Ended.

"Today, however, I face this man again as a soldier of my people. I have little to say: I am thankful to Mr. Chamberlain for all his trouble and I assured him that the German people want nothing but peace, but I also declared that I cannot go beyond the limits of our patience.

"I further assured him and I repeat here that if this problem is solved there will be no further territorial problems in Europe for Germany.

"And I further assured him that at the moment that Czechoslovakia has solved her other problems, that is, when the Czechs have reconciled themselves with their other minorities, the Czech state no longer interests me and that, if you please, I give him the guaranty: We do not want any Czechs any more.

"But equally I want now to declare before the German people that as regards the Sudeten German problem my patience is now exhausted.

Yield or Fight, Benes Told.

"I have made an offer to Mr. Benes. It is nothing else than realization of what he himself has already conceded.

"He now holds in his hand peace or war.

"Either he will now accept this offer and at last give the Germans their freedom or we will now take this freedom for ourselves.

"And there is one thing of which the world may have taken cognizance: throughout four and one-half years of war and during the long years of my political life nobody has been able to charge me with having been cowardly.

"I now head the procession of my people as first soldier and behind me—may the world know this—there now marches a people and a different one than that of 1918.

"Errant mentors of those times succeeded in infiltrating the poison of democratic phrases into our people, but the German people of today is not the German people of 1918.

"Such phrases act like wasp's stings on us, but now we are immune.

Declares Germans Are United.

"In this hour the whole German people will be united to me, my will they shall feel as their will, just as I regard its future and fate as mandator of my actions.

"And we will strengthen this common will as we did in the times of our struggles, the time when I went out as a lone, unknown soldier to conquer a reich.

"Never did I doubt success and final victory. A body of brave men and brave women gathered around me and they went with me.

"And so I ask my German people: Fall in behind me man for man, woman for woman.

"In these hours we will take one holy common resolve. It shall be stronger than any pressure, any peril.

"And when this will is stronger than pressure and peril it will break the pressure and peril.

"We are resolved!

"Let Mr. Benes choose!"

U. S. COURT GETS 127 MILLION PLAN TO UNIFY TRANSIT

Shaw Offers Modernized System, Higher Fare.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

A $127,550,000 plan for merging Chicago's local transportation facilities and bringing them up to date was recommended yesterday by Walter A. Shaw, federal court traction advisor. The plan calls for improving the elevated railways and surface systems, building downtown subways, and an increase in fares.

Shaw submitted the plan to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. It was drawn up after months of study as a solution for the traction muddle and to get the elevated and surface lines systems out of receivership. Judge Wilkerson gave interested parties ten days to file suggestions and fixed a hearing for Oct. 10.

Shaw's report listed $31,530,000 as the cost of building downtown subways, $59,335,000 for improving street car and bus service, and $36,685,000 for modernizing the elevated, a total of $127,550,000.

Cuts Down Valuations.

The plan calls for use of $40,000,000 of the city traction fund for subway construction and other improvements for the rapid transit system. It proposes reducing the valuations of existing properties and outstanding securities of the elevated and street car systems. It would give the city title to all terminal and subway facilities in the central business district, including the elevated structure and right of way south of Chicago avenue, north of Roosevelt road, and east of Sangamon street.

Shaw reported that the transit companies are earning little more than operating expenses and that higher fares will be necessary to carry out a modernization program. He suggested that the increase be "equivalent to 1 cent on street car trafic only." He did not, however, definitly recommend a boost in the present 7 cent street car fare, but gave that as the amount of additional revenue the combined system would need.

Proposes Merger Plan.

Other important recommendations were:

CONSOLIDATION—Merge the surface and elevated lines through an exchange of securities, issuing $158,000,000 new bonds and preferred stock for outstanding securities with a face amount of about $233,500,000. Have the new company buy the Chicago Motor Coach company.

VALUATION—Give the new company a valuation for rate making purposes of $240,000,000 after it has been modernized. This would contrast with present book values of approximately $270,000,000.

NEW EQUIPMENT—Buy 1,000 new rapid transit cars and improve present cars at a cost of $26,000,000. Buy 2,100 new street cars and 750 buses for the surface lines at a cost of $42,635,000.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS—Spend $16,700,000 for other improvements to the surface system. Spend $10,600,000 for improving elevated structure, stations, and other property.

CITY COMPENSATION—Give the city 3 per cent of gross revenues [about $2,100,000 a year] so long as the new company earns a part of its interest and dividend requirements.

To finance the modernization program Shaw proposed that the new company sell $45,000,000 of new securities which would rank ahead of other issues. This sum, with $30,000,000 of surface lines cash now available, $40,000,000 from the traction fund and a $14,000,000 subway grant from the Public Works administration which the city seeks, would meet the requirements, he said.

He proposed that present holders of surface lines first mortgage bonds get an equivalent amount of new first mortgage bonds—$72,718,350—on which interest would be paid if earned. Holders of about $70,000,000 face amount of junior surface lines securities would get $50,000,000 worth of 5 per cent preferred stock.

Control to Street Car Group.

To holders of $91,000,000 of elevated railway stocks and bonds he would distribute $35,000,000 of the preferred stock of the new concern. The new company also would issue 1,000,000 shares of common stock, all of which would go to holders of the surface lines first mortgage bonds.

This group of security holders, he found, now has a first claim on all of the surface lines cash and property. They would have voting control of the merged companies through ownership of the new common stock. It would be given to them as compensation for surrender of their present rights.

That part of the Shaw report dealing with subways was based on the city proposal for a rapid transit tube in State street and street car tunnels in Washington and Jackson streets.

The subway program has been complicated by recommendations of a special Public Works administration engineering board which proposed two plans, both differing from the city's plan. The estimated cost of one PWA proposal is about the same as the city's plan, $32,000,000. PWA is asked to give 45 per cent of this as a grant.

City Officials Silent.

Although Mayor Kelly and other city officials and operating officials of the transit lines refused to talk about the action of the PWA board, there was considerable disappointment that it had not seen fit to approve the city's plan.

The PWA board favored a State street subway but one at a low level instead of the high level the city wanted. It discarded the street car tunnels and substituted a west side rapid transit subway.

Mayor Kelly said he and other city officials would attend a public hearing on subway plans in Washington on Thursday. The hearing was called yesterday by PWA Administrator Ickes. City officials will be asked if they are ready to accept the new plans.

Murder Victim

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The body of a second woman, reported victim of a modern Bluebeard, was sought today and inquiries were made into the whereabout of five additional women.

The dismembered body of a young woman was found near here Saturday a few hours after Joseph Ball, 46 years old, shot himself to death while officers were questioning him about the disappearance of one of his employés. The body was identified as that of Hazel Brown, 22 years old, who had been a barmaid in Ball's tavern at Elmendorf, Tex.

Elmer Wheeler, a colored laborer, said Ball killed the girl and forced him to aid in dismembering her body and burying her. The other body sought was that of Minnie Gehardt, another employé of Ball's, who, Wheeler said, was slain after a swimming and drinking party at the seashore. Four of the other missing women formerly were employés in Ball's tavern.

2 FIGHT AT CARDS; A HAMMER FELLS RAZOR WIELDER

Robert Collins, 41 years old, of 4522 Drexel boulevard, a taxicab driver, and Edward Radcliffe, 53, of 825 East 42d street, a WPA worker, settled a gambling quarrel with a razor and a hammer yesterday. After a two handed game of blackjack in a tavern at 43d street and Cottage Grove avenue Collins accused Radcliffe of cheating him. Radcliffe struck at Collins with a razor, inflicting a slash a foot and a half long down his back. Collins pursued and knocked Radcliffe unconscious with a hammer. The fight occurred outside the tavern. Collins is in a serious condition in the Chicago hospital. Radcliffe was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

OTTO JELINEK GIVEN ENGINEERING MEDAL FOR CITY TRAFIC WORK

Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer for the Chicago park district, was honored last night by the Western Society of Engineers for his work on trafic problems in the Chicago area. In the presence of several hundred engineers and friends he was awarded the Octave Chanute medal. The presentation was made at the society's sixty ninth annual dinner in the Palmer house. Mr. Jelinek is nationally known as a trafic expert. As a result of his work boulevards have been straightened and dangerous curves eliminated or eased. The result has been a boon to untold thousands of motorists and an acknowledged lessening of the trafic hazard, speakers asserted.

Fugitive Realty Dealer Accused in Second Fraud

A second warant was issued yesterday against George Kotaska, fugitive Berwyn real estate dealer. The warant, signed by Judge John J. Rooney, accuses Kotaska of operating a confidence game on Emil Kadlec, 2400 South Central Park avenue. Kadlec said that he paid Kotaska $3,000 on a mortgage, only to learn later that it was secured with nonexistent property. The first warant against Kotaska, taken out a week ago, accuses him of taking $2,000 from a Cicero woman.

AX MEN TO MAKE 800 CALLS; CHOP 8 DENS AS STARTER

State's Attorney Courtney's axmen set out yesterday to begin cleaning up a list of more than 800 handbooks. They seized the list last week in a raid on the offices of the Nationwide News service, a race information concern. They found that most of the big bookies had closed their resorts or quietly moved to new addresses.

Eight betting dives were chopped to bits, raising the total in the campaign against gambling to 253. They were at 518 Van Buren street, 6003 South Halsted street, 815 North avenue, 4708 Calumet avenue, 5109 Prairie avenue, the second floor at 2112 North Clark street; 9133 Baltimore avenue, and 1910 Birchwood avenue.

Resolutions calling for the eradication of gambling were adopted yesterday at a meeting of Protestant ministers in the auditorium of the Chicago temple, 33 North Clark street. The ministers asked that the state's attorney bring action against any public official guilty of closing their eyes to gambling conditions. They also urged the legislature to repeal the state pari-mutual betting law, which they termed one of the chief difficulties in the way of enforcement of the anti-gambling laws.

Seventy-one defendants seized in police raids on handbooks and policy game joints were freed for lack of warants yesterday by Judge Eugene J. Holland in South State street court.

Convicted Slayer's Wife Files Suit for a Divorce

Mrs. Helen Minella, 23 years old, filed suit for divorce yesterday against Albert Minella. Minella is serving a 30 year prison term for the moonlight murder of Herbert W. Lee, Evanston meat market owner. Lee was shot to death in a holdup Aug. 22, 1937, as he strolled in Grant park with his party girl sweetheart. Minella was one of the robbers.

MEN AT WORK

By CALEB

A YOUNG MAN, sincere and impatient, writes to inquire of Caleb, "Why don't the men in charge of business realize some of the faults in the present economic system, face them squarely and honestly, and set out to remedy them?"

The answer to the question can be given in five words: they do and they have! The failure of our young correspondent to recognize the fact is natural and understandable. He suffers from a delusion more or less common even in more mature quarters these days; namely, that Rome was and can again be built in a day. Rome, and other great achievements, can be and have been destroyed in a day by willful or misguided attack, but constructive effort bears results more slowly.

To begin with, it is a trifle difficult to say precisely what the "present economic system" is. That it has certain serious shortcomings few men—least of all business men—will deny. Simple business sense makes it plain that under today's close-knit system all productive activity must assume the added load of all unemployed labor—as well as every other economic maladjustment to which flesh is heir. Obviously, a better adjustment of our economic setup would reduce the cost of running a business so drastically that wages and profits would both rise sharply while prices fell.

No one who sits in on important business meetings today can doubt that business leaders realize and are facing squarely and honestly the shortcomings in our economic setup. Mechanization, population concentration, and mass production have etched so clear and sharp a picture of business' social responsibilities that even the most selfish and shortsighted can scarcely fail to catch its significance—and the typical American business leader is neither selfish nor shortsighted.

Finally, business leaders are working steadily and according to plan to remedy the defects they all know exist. But hasty and ill-considered steps—instead of advancing us all toward the desirable goal of mutual success and happiness—will plunge us instead into costly mistakes with irreparable harm to all concerned. Reasoned, measured and intelligent progress is the clear path of duty for every business leader. Hysteria, fear, and superficial thinking are more to be feared from business today than are greed, selfishness and the exploitation of others' rights.

WHY WPA TEARS UP STREETS, THEN DELAYS REPAVING

Jobs Mean Votes, While Asphalt Doesn't.

[This is the 17th article in a series on the Works Progress administration. Three Tribune reporters spent weeks in investigating 'his political octopus. This article tells why WPA paving gangs tear up the streets, but fail to repave them immediately.]

BY WILL O'NEIL.

"Yes, mister, we know the street's been torn up for some time. It'll be paved as soon as possible. No, I can't say just how soon, but we'll get around to it as soon as we can."

This is the answer given hundreds if not thousands of times by harried employés in the department of public works. It is substantially the answer that the equally harried commissioner of public works gives to the many aldermen who flood his office with complaints.

Q.—Who tore up the pavement?

A.—WPA laborers.

Q.—Why isn't the street repaved immediately?

A.—Because the city hasn't got the money for skilled labor to lay asphalt and WPA won't provide the funds.

Jobs Vote, Asphalt Doesn't.

Common labor jobs are meat and drink to WPA. And common labor jobs which do not call for much money for materials and supplies are particularly sought after. Jobs vote, but asphalt doesn't.

A pickax lasts a long time and doesn't cost much. The Works Progress administration pays the salary checks of the unskilled laborers who wield the picks.

WPA also gives the city [and all sponsors of WPA projects] what is known as a man month allowance. This means that for each man hired by WPA, WPA provides, in addition to his salary, an average of $7 a month for materials and supplies.

Obviously, pickaxes don't cost $7 for every man every month. So it doesn't cost the city anything to have the WPA laborers out ripping up the streets.

Hope for Paving Money.

It does, however, cost the city money to keep men on the direct relief rolls. WPA doesn't provide any of those funds. So the easy thing for the city to do is to sponsor a paving project, let the men go out and chop up the streets, and hope for the money to do the paving.

It costs, let us say, $1 per man per month for the pickax wielders [exclusive of their pay checks]. So for every man chopping up the street WPA has $6 that can be used for buying asphalt.

There are two sets of men that work on the asphalt paving jobs. One set are the WPA pickax men. The second set are the men that lay the new asphalt. The latter are known as "hot gangs" and are skilled men. They were hired by the city before the city ran out of money.

Suppose that the city has some but not quite enough money for paving a particular street. Experts in the city hall estimate that a gang of less than seventy union laborers can rip up pavement fast enough to stay ahead of a hot gang.

How to Get the Money.

The city needs $1,260 more than it has to keep the paving job going for a month. With seventy WPA laborers working in front of the hot gang WPA's extra $6 per man month will provide $420 of this needed money.

But 210 WPA laborers out in front of the hot gang would bring with them the needed $1,260 to buy asphalt. The city would get badly needed paving that it couldn't get in any other way. And an extra 140 men would be taken off the direct relief rolls.

So the city is in no position to object—and indeed is in a position to encourage—the overloading of the job with men. Without the overloading the pavement can't be done. So the break up gangs working in front of hot gangs were at least three times as large as they needed to be if every man on the job were allowed to do a day's work for his day's pay.

Interested Mainly in Jobs.

Oscar Hewitt, the commissioner of public works, is trying constantly to get some worth while results for the city from the work that WPA is doing. But WPA isn't interested in the work accomplished. WPA is interested in jobs.

Even with the overloading of WPA gangs the city and Hewitt can't get the paving done fast enough to keep up with the WPA pickax gangs.

A great many WPA men at work with pickaxes are needed to supply enough reserve funds for hot gangs out of the excess $6 that goes with each WPAer each month. The men must be kept on WPA and the more men that work on WPA the faster the city will have the money for repaving the streets.

This does not mean, however, that the WPA gangs will go on ripping up streets to a point where the city will never be able to repave them.

Ripped up for 2 Months.

Cottage Grove avenue from the 40s to the 60s tells part of the story of what the city is trying to do. Cottage Grove is an arterial street. The city is allowed to use its share of the state gasoline tax funds for paving arterial streets. These funds cannot be used for paving side streets.

Cottage Grove has been ripped up for nearly two months. The city stored up some money to its credit with WPA for every WPA laborer that worked on that job.

After a long struggle the city recently got part of its share of the gas tax funds from the state and began paving some of the torn up arterial streets. Then a week ago the city ran out of money to pay hot gangs working on the side streets.

Hewitt was forced to ask WPA to take its break up gangs off the side streets because he didn't have the money to pave those already torn up. The hot gangs, because of this shortage of city money, were shifted to the arterial streets, where they can be paid from gas tax money. And the city and WPA are trying to figure out some way to pave the torn up side streets.

Mrs. Eda Haussen Bartels, age 75, telling Postman E. Hampel of her objections to changing name of street.

The county recorders office will investigate the petition of property owners on block-long Haussen court who want the street name changed to Crawford avenue. It will be determined whether the petitioners own 60 per cent of the street frontage, as required by law.

Mrs. Eda Haussen Bartels, for whose father Haussen court was named, said she has signatures of enough property owners to block the change. Those who are seeking the change have admitted that their purpose is to prevent restoration of the name "Crawford avenue" to Pulaski road.

Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th] said that the claims of both the Haussen court and Pulaski road groups to the Crawford avenue name will be heard by the council committee on streets and alleys Thursday or Friday.

REBELS IN G. O. P. UPSET PLANS TO WOO HORNERITES

Rap Democratic Rule in Both State and City.

Plans of Cook county Republican leaders to confine their election campaign attack to the Nash-Kelly Democratic machine without mentioning the Horner state machine went awry yesterday at the county convention in the La Salle hotel.

There was a revolt among ward and township committeemen, who had not been consulted in the drafting of the county platform, against the omission of all reference to the Horner-Courtney-Jarecki combination. Under the leadership of William H. Reid of the 16th ward, an amendment was adopted which put the "Horner boss-ruled state machine" in the same category as the Cook county machine.

Try to Make Capital of Split.

The tentative draft of the platform before the convention was prepared originally by the candidates for county and other local offices. That led to a belief that the candidates had been moved by at least a hope that Horner-Courtney workers will concentrate behind County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, their only county primary winner, and will secretly throw votes to Republican nominees for other local offices in their effort to smash the Nash-Kelly machine.

In talking for his amendment, Committeeman Reid charged it was the Horner-Courtney-Jarecki combination, through its control of the Chicago election machinery that led many thousands of Republicans to vote in the Democratic primary [a switch that was illegal, according to the recent decision of Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski]. He also attacked them for the removal of thousands of registration cards from the election board files.

Calls April Primary a Crime.

"The April primary," he said, "was the greatest political crime in Cook county in fifty years."

State Representative Calvin T. Weeks of the 11th district supported Reid.

Reid's attack on Judge Jarecki led to a request that Theodore F. Ehler, Republican nominee for county judge, prepare an additional plank denouncing the conduct of the primary. Ehler proposed an amendment denouncing Judge Jarecki by name for depriving citizens of their right to vote.

After much discussion, the wording was changed by replacing Judge Jarecki's name with the words "the present county judge."

The platform, which was adopted after these and other amendments were inserted, called particular attention to the Democratic monopoly in public office in Cook county. It listed the six major governments in Democratic hands, and continued:

"We point out that under Democratic monopoly of government, operating expenses having no connection with relief have mounted enormously and with utter disregard for the plight of the needy and for the burdens of the taxpayer.

"We call attention to the fact that a monopoly of governmental power in the hands of one political party, entrenched with patronage and money, without any check or balance, inevitably leads to dictatorial arrogance, political corruption, disregard of public welfare and destruction of liberty.

Rap Democratic Boss Rule.

"The Kelly-Nash boss-ruled machine has such a monopoly of all our local governments."

All of the organization leaders except George F. Harding, national committeeman, attended the meeting. They included County Chairman Edward F. Moore, who presided; Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman; Mrs. Mabel Krutckoff, chairman of the women's division, and A. L. Stiles, chairman of the state central committee.

Otis F. Glenn, ex-United States senator; George E. Curran, nominee for county treasurer, and Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey also spoke.

CLARENCE LENDS HIS WIFE A HELPING HAND AS SHE GETS DIVORCE

When his wife couldn't prove by any one else that he'd deserted her the day after their marriage, Clarence Carlson came in and testified for her yesterday. Judge Philip J. Finnegan reprimanded him for changing his mind so easily and gave Mrs. Mae Carlson of 6041 Dorchester avenue a divorce. She's 34 years old. Carlson, who lives at 3103 North Francisco avenue, is 35. Questioned by her attorney, Leo Waxman, Carlson said he decided after he married her that he couldn't support her.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's veto of a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.] has stirred political echoes here. The Minton bill provided for the release of Dr. Bruce G. Cox, Evansville dentist, from the obligation of repaying the government $1,710 he received on false certificates which he made to the veterans' administration.

Orders for the recovery of $3,220.10 paid by the government on untrue vouchers made by Cox were issued in June, 1936, by Controler General John R. McCarl. McCarl retired as controler general at the end of that month.

Cox had signed certificates that he had personally done dental work for veterans actually performed by other dentists. Of the amount, Cox was held accountable for $1,710, Dr. Harris A. Alister for $1,430, and Dr. Ramon F. Dorset for $79.

Bill Passed in June.

A bill to relieve Cox of liability was introduced by Minton in the senate. The house combined it with a bill to relieve Alister. The measure was passed last June.

President Roosevelt vetoed the bill July 5. In his message he said: "I feel that persons who knowingly make untrue certificates in government vouchers should under the law be held accountable therefor and that there appear no facts or circumstances which justify singling out the beneficiaries named in the bill for preferential treatment."

Minton, sponsor of the bill the President killed, is said to be one of three radicals under consideration by President Roosevelt for the Supreme court vacancy created by the death of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo. He is of the McNutt-McHale-Townsend-Minton Indiana political machine and has been under strong criticism for introducing a bill designed to wreck freedom of the press.

Five Year Inquiry Made.

The veto followed a five year inquiry into certain phases of the veterans bureau which was started as a result of complaints made by Edwin V. Aleon, a veteran living here. Aleon is an old-time automobile racing driver.

In February, 1933, Aleon complained of the dental work done for him, charging that his name was forged to a dental voucher for $84, certifying the work was satisfactory. His chief complaint, as set forth in a letter sent to Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.] by Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator in 1935, was that Dr. Cox had farmed out the dental work. The work done on his teeth, Aleon said, was performed by Dr. C. J. Nenneker of Evansville.

Cox, however, had signed a certificate saying he had personally given the dental relief. Aleon filed a claim for dental disability, alleging it was the result of the "farming out" work. This was disallowed.

Complaints to Roosevelt.

Aleon made complaints in letters to President Roosevelt, James Roosevelt, the President's secretary; Senators Minton and Van Nuys, Representative John W. Boehne Jr. [D., Ind.], and others.

An investigation made as a result of his complaints caused the controler general to order a repayment to the government of $3,220 paid out on false certificates. Reports from the controler's office for the period in which untrue vouchers were signed by Cox covered about eight years, from 1926 to 1934.

Aleon now has a sheaf of records, some of them letters and some printed reports, and a full documentation. Apparently little local attention was paid here to the case until the President vetoed Senator Minton's measure.

History of Case Given.

Reports by R. N. Elliott, acting controler general, and Veterans' Administrator Hines set forth the history of the false certificates as follows:

Dr. Cox was employed by the veterans bureau as a designated dental examiner Jan. 1, 1924. He was to give dental service to veterans on a fee basis. April 1, 1926, Cox lost his right arm due to blood poisoning and he had another dentist perform the work.

In November, 1936, the veterans administration reported to the controler general's office as follows:

"Dr. Cox stated that while serving as designated dental examiner he lost his right arm April 1, 1926, as a result of septicemia. The misfortune was immediately reported by him to the proper regional office, but he was continued as designated dental examiner at the request of the chief dental officer of that regional office [Dr. Alister].

Office Sold by Cox.

"It was necessary for Dr. Cox to have another dentist perform the work, although he was present on most occasions to see that the work was done satisfactorily. He paid a dentist $200 a month for taking charge of his office, including the fee basis work, from April 1, 1926, to January, 1928, when he sold his office."

Dr. Nenneker bought Cox's office. He is a dental surgeon in the federal public health service. The reports show Nenneker continued to do the work, although George E. Ijams, assistant veterans administrator, in a letter to Aleon in March, 1935, said that this was without authority. He wrote that Nenneker was not connected with the veterans administration and that Cox was without authority to refer veterans to him for treatment.

Dr. Dorset became chief dental officer in Indianapolis in February, 1933. After Aleon had made his protests, Cox's contract was canceled in 1934.

Letter Sent to Senator.

In a letter to Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], chairman of the senate claims committee, Acting Controller Elliott, speaking of vouchers for $3,220 approved for Cox after he had lost his arm, said: "Payments of $3,220 were made on 53 separate vouchers. Each had a certificate signed by Cox reading 'I hereby certify that the foregoing dental relief has been rendered by me personally.'"

"Of course this was false," said the Elliott letter. "That Dr. Cox signed this certificate with full knowledge of its contents is disclosed by his testimony.

"In view of the untrue certificates . . . and the possibility of fraud and collusion if such practices were permitted . . . this office held that all amounts paid out on such vouchers should be recovered."

Denies Reading Affidavit.

Dr. Cox, a former Democratic member of the legislature, in an affidavit to the claims committee, said that after he lost his arm the veterans' administration asked him to continue the paper work and hire the dental work done by another dentist. He said he received $200 for his services, and that he failed to read the affidavit before signing and did not know what it contained. The checks went to the dentist doing the work.

Elliott's report to Senator Bailey said:

"In view of the circumstances under which Dr. Cox was continued as a designated dental examiner after the chief dental officer of the regional office had learned of his incapacity, there would appear to be some equitable basis for relief and it is the view of this office that the bill is not entirely without merit."

The claims committee reported the bill to relieve Cox from payment of his $1,710 liability favorably. Acting Controller Elliott reported to the house claims committee that the bill to relieve Dr. Alister of his $1,430 liability had little if any merit. But the two measures were combined, passed, and then vetoed.

Aleon, in July, 1937, put in a claim for one-half of the $3,220 in process of recovery on the ground he had supplied the information leading to the action. Four months later this was disallowed, according to a report last July from the controller's office.

The grounds were that no appropriation was available from which payment could be made and there was no legal authority for making such payment. Last November Senator Minton asked this decision be reconsidered. The decision later was sustained. Aleon received last week a copy of the report saying under the law there was no basis for payment of his claim.

In letters to Minton, Van Nuys, Boehne, and others, Aleon has urged criminal prosecution in the case. The position of the veterans administration, as indicated in a letter from Administrator Hines to Senator Van Nuys, is that although there was false certifying, there was no embezzlement or defrauding because the dental work on the vouchers was performed.

MRS. GERMAINE STARK.

Wives who read the letters they find in their husband's pockets got Judge Philip J. Finnegan's approval yesterday—under certain conditions.

Mrs. Germaine Stark of 6550 North Ashland avenue was asking temporary alimony from Edward Stark of 1733 Arthur avenue, an accountant, she is suing for divorce. She said her husband returned after a month's absence. She found three letters from other women in his pocket and read them, she told the judge. Her husband protested that she shouldn't have read them.

Judge Finnegan awarded Mrs. Stark $8 a week, and observed:

SLAYER SIKORA'S TRIAL DELAYED; VICTIM'S KIN ARE UNABLE TO ATTEND

The trial of Rudolph Sikora, charged with the murder of his wife's sweetheart, Edward Solomon, was postponed in Criminal court yesterday to Oct. 17. Judge James F. Fardy allowed the continuance at the request of Solomon's relatives. They said they could not attend the trial this week because of the Jewish holidays.

Rudolph Sikora.

Sikora, a slight, mild appearing man, shot and killed Solomon Aug. 22 at Clark street and Winnemac avenue, in sight of Solomon's home. After shooting him, Sikora waited for police to arrest him. His pretty wife, Margaret, admitted to police that she loved Solomon, and had hoped to marry him. At the same time she described Sikora as a model husband.

VOTERS BOUGHT AT OWN COST, LYONS CHARGES

Ottawa, Ill., Sept. 26.—(AP)—"Hidden" taxes were denounced tonight by Richard J. Lyons, whose Republican campaign for election to the United States senate included charges that Democrats are organizing relief clients.

The attack on the "drain of hidden taxes" was delivered at a Republican rally here. Previously, at Spring Valley, Lyons said:

"By a strange coincidence there always are a lot of WPA or PWA appropriations and AAA checks to be distributed just before election. The people of Illinois, at least, are sick and tired of being bought with their own money, like slaves. They are revolting against being herded to the polls to vote themselves into subserviency to political bosses."

SUBURBS BACK LOOP TO JOLIET SUPERHIGHWAY

Southwestern Areas Ask for an Early Start.

BY HAL FOUST.

Joliet, La Grange, Cicero, and neighboring suburbs petitioned the Illinois highway department yesterday to prepare plans for a superhighway southwest from the Chicago loop. This action was taken through twenty-six civic representatives and public officials at a luncheon meeting in Joliet called by the Chicago Motor club.

The proposed superhighway, as outlined by James E. Bulger, a director of the motor club, would consist of an elevated structure in Cermak road and Blue Island from the outer drive to Western avenue, thence southwest as a depressed highway on the banks of the Illinois and Michigan canal to the Willow Springs road, and thence southwest to Joliet as a modernized Archer avenue [Illinois route 4A].

State Senator Indorses Plan.

"Lack of safe and convenient access to Chicago," said Senator Richard J. Barr, a legislator from the Joliet district since 1902, "is retarding the growth of Joliet. I have been of a mind to recommend to the next general assembly a repeal of the automobile license tax, but if revenue is to be spent for something like this, I believe motorists will have less complaint about their taxes."

Warren L. Wood of Joliet, a state representative, said money now being spent by Illinois in the metropolitan area would be adequate for building a superhighway system if expenditures were concentrated on major improvements of statewide benefit rather than distributed over a number of comparatively minor projects of local benefit. The state highway department's 1938 program in Cook county consists of $3,000,000 worth of pavements and bridges.

Fulfills La Grange's Dream.

Walter P. Saunders, president of La Grange, said that the proposed I. and M. canal depressed highway has long been a dream of the western suburbs. It is contemplated that 39th street would be developed as a connection between these suburbs and the depressed superhighway. Also Du Page county has planned 55th street as a superhighway. Fifty-fifth would connect the I. and M. with Ogden avenue [U. S. 34] at Naperville, forming a bypass for this transcontinental route.

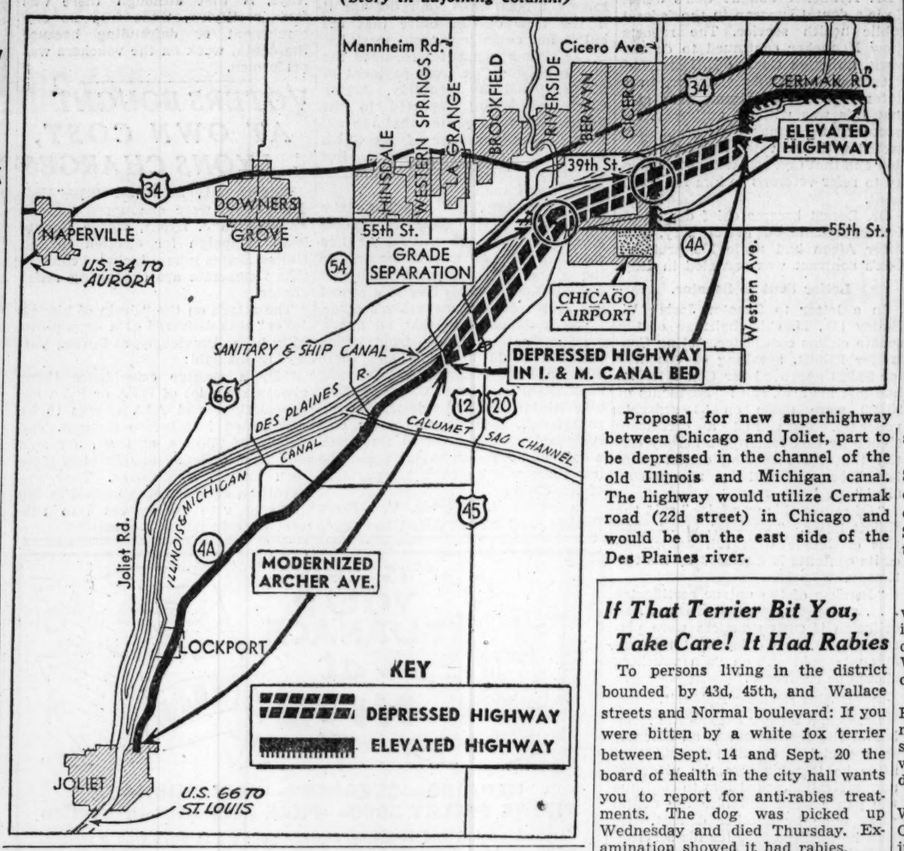
Thomas M. Filas, Cicero architect, a member of Gov. Horner's safety commission, said his town needed this superhighway as an outlet to Chicago and as an outlet to downstate.

In presenting the resolution addressed to the Illinois highway department, Saunders included in the petition a request that the state's engineers also prepare plans for modernizing U. S. 66 south of Joliet to Springfield.

The I. and M. depressed pavements and the elevated extension into the central business district via Blue Island avenue and Cermak road would form the Chicago terminal for U. S. 66, the main route between Chicago and St. Louis, Mo., as well as for U. S. 34.

Proposed Superhighway to Joliet

(Story in adjoining column.)



Proposal for new superhighway between Chicago and Joliet, part to be depressed in the channel of the old Illinois and Michigan canal. The highway would utilize Cermak road (22d street) in Chicago and would be on the east side of the Des Plaines river.

U. S. MILK INQUIRY CALLS FOR UNION HEADS AND DATA

Jury Demands Records on Salaries and Violence.

The federal grand jury investigating the milk industry in Chicago prepared yesterday to turn to labor phases of the inquiry. Subpenas were issued summoning high union officials to appear next Friday and bring their records and correspondence with them.

The officials called are Leslie G. Goudie, president of the joint council of the International Teamsters' union; Steve Sumner, veteran secretary-treasurer of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, local 753, and John Thibeau, secretary-treasurer of the Ice Cream Drivers' union.

Interested in Violence.

The subpenas, which were issued by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, ordered that records to be produced in court include copies of all correspondence, memoranda, dispatches, or other communications dealing with complaints against officers, agents, and members of the various unions.

The grand jury is particularly interested in records of violations of the law through bombing, arson, kidnaping, murder, property destruction, and other acts of violence.

The grand jurors specify that the correspondence include that sent to the state's attorney's office, to State's Attorney Courtney personally, and to Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office. Many of these letters of complaint are expected to contain information useful to the investigators.

In addition to this correspondence the union officials are ordered to produce all letters received from Dr. Herman N. Bundesen. As president of the Chicago board of health Dr. Bundesen sets the standards for the city's milk supply.

Call for Salary Records.

The officials also must produce the minutes of all their meetings, documents showing the salaries paid to them and other union officers, and records of wage negotiations and picketing as they affected independent dairy concerns.

Vouchers of the ice cream drivers' union also are requested. These must show salaries and fees paid to attorneys, fines assessed against members of the union for law violations, advances or loans made to individuals or companies engaged in the ice cream business, and contributions or donations made to any public officer or candidate for office.

The grand jurors have been investigating the milk industry following repeated outbreaks of violence and charges by independent dairies and milk stores that they are the victims of a monopoly. Up to this time the investigators have been hearing testimony by officials of milk and affiliated companies.

A Dog's Capture

Clarence Olsen, 2554 McVicker avenue, whose dog captured this porcupine in chase from back yard.

Myrtle [Little Poison] Porcupine went calling yesterday. She wore her most engaging smile and her little jacket of darts. And that's precisely the way she felt about it. She wanted to be friendly, but if trouble bumped into her that would be nice, too.

Trouble did. Pal, the dog, tried to tell Myrtle that Clarence Olsen wasn't receiving guests in his home at 2554 McVicker avenue. When Pal got loose again, he had just 41 darts in his snoot. Then he got his feelings hurt, which was worse. Mr. Olsen came out, said he was happy to have Myrtle call, and asked her in to tea.

Myrtle took carrots and bread dipped in milk, admired a cage she saw in the garden, and decided to remain indefinitely. Maybe you think the dog wasn't glad when a neighbor came and took Myrtle home.

G. O. P. CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR SLAMS PECORA

Penn Judge Fires Back at Lawyers' Guild.

Arthur H. James.

"We don't want any Tammany judge to tell us how we shall run Pennsylvania," he said. "All I can say to Mr. Pecora is, you'd better stay at home and clean your own skirts and let us people in Pennsylvania decide for ourselves the right of who shall be a candidate for governor of Pennsylvania.

"When a Democrat was a candidate for governor that was all right, wasn't it? But let a Republican judge be a candidate for the office and he is committing an unholy sin.

"They had a little meeting in Washington, a group of lawyers who call themselves the National Lawyers' guild. Who do you think was the presiding officer condemning Arthur H. James because he is a judge; none other than Justice Pecora of New York.

"You remember, he's the man who was trying the case against Hines. And just because Thomas E. Dewey, that fearless Republican district attorney of New York county, used the word "racket" instead of "business" in the course of an examination Justice Pecora grants a new trial to Mr. Hines."

TRAFIC ENGINEERS FACE A $100,000,000 PROBLEM—PARKING!

The lack of proper parking facilities for automobiles costs American motorists an estimated $100,000,000 annually in lost time, damage to their cars, and inconvenience, according to City Trafic Engineer Leslie J. Sorenson. That's why the parking problem will be the chief topic at a meeting of the Institute of Traffic Engineers in the Stevens hotel, beginning Oct. 9. Sorenson is president of the institute.

"For years trafic engineers have concerned themselves almost exclusively with the task of providing highways for moving vehicles," Sorenson asserted. "Now we must turn our attention to the problem of accommodating vehicles that are standing still. This problem is fast becoming our most annoying municipal headache."

TRUCE HALTS N. Y. TRUCK TIEUP; ACT ON PEACE TODAY

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Representatives of 15,000 striking truckmen tentatively accepted tonight a proposal by Mayor La Guardia to halt a city-wide trucking strike and keep vital supplies moving to storm struck New England and elsewhere. The proposal was reected several hours later by the 350 truck owners.

Michael J. Cashal, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters [A. F. of L.], announced the mayor's compromise agreement would be submitted to the union membership tomorrow. His committee of eleven quickly accepted the proposal.

The mayor delivered his proposal, declaring he would arrange emergency trucking service if it was not accepted, after 15,000 truckmen quit in New York, 20,000 more walked out in a separate strike in New Jersey and a school bus strike started here. The mayor proposed a two year contract with a forty-four hour week and no weekly pay reduction, as compared to the forty-seven hour week in a previous contract and the forty hours demanded by strikers.

NASH CLOSES TWO AUTO FACTORIES; C. I. O. IS BLAMED

Racine, Wis., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The Kenosha and Milwaukee plants of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation closed tonight as a result of a C. I. O. blockade of the company's factory here. Since Aug. 22 pickets have prevented the company from moving from the Racine plant tools and dies needed for the manufacture of its 1939 model cars at Kenosha.

Meantime, efforts were renewed to settle the long and mutually detrimental strife. Committees from the United Automobile Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate, company officials, and representatives of the Wisconsin labor board met in conferences. The meetings will be resumed tomorrow.

Conferences that had been held almost daily for a month were broken off Friday night when the company announced it would close all its Wisconsin plants if the union did not cease activities impeding its operations. The trouble arose when the company announced it would be forced to close the plant here and concentrate its car making in Kenosha.

SCHOOLS' HEAD IN HOSPITAL; BLAME FOOD POISONING

Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, entered St. Joseph's hospital yesterday. He became ill on Sunday, he said, after eating meat that he believes was tainted. Dr. Johnson nevertheless went to his office yesterday morning. There he was examined by a school board physician, who urged him to go to bed. He started home and then decided to go to the hospital. He said he would be at his office today. Dr. Lawrence E. Hines, his physician, said Dr. Johnson's condition is not serious.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

WALL PAPER UNION STRIKE AVERTED; WIN CLOSED SHOP

The national executive board of the United Wallpaper Craftsmen and Workers of North America agreed yesterday to suspend a nation-wide strike, scheduled for today, pending a conference with the manufacturers' representative in New York City.

Joseph M. Jacobs, attorney for the union, said the strike was postponed temporarily after the manufacturers conceded a closed shop for craftsmen and a preferential shop for unskilled workers. These were two of the union's chief demands. Other points in dispute, to be discussed in New York City with the Wallpaper Institute of America, include a new contract, vacations with pay, and seniority rights.

The strike had been voted last Friday when negotiations failed. The union represents about 6,000 workers in plants from New York to Illinois

IF WAR COMES.

President Roosevelt's note to Czechoslovakia, Germany, Britain, and France expressed the desire of all Americans that peace may be preserved in Europe. No nation, not even a victorious one, stands to gain as much as it will lose from a protracted war. That seems obvious to us in this country and probably it is equally well known in every chancellery in Europe.

The note might have carried greater force if Mr. Roosevelt had not already aligned himself in unmistakable terms against Germany and her allies. In the quarantine speech at the dedication of the outer bridge in Chicago Mr. Roosevelt definitly took sides. To that extent he is no longer able to speak as the leader of neutral opinion in the world. It is significant that no responsible English or French statesman has gone so far; indeed, the English and French have agreed to accept demands of precisely the sort which Mr. Roosevelt characterized as aggressions which he said must be met with the warlike measure of quarantine.

Still we may hope for the best, which is to say that we may hope that Mr. Roosevelt's note will be recognized as a sincere expression of good will and nothing more. The danger is that it will be read as a new venture in Wilsonian diplomacy, a first step toward an ultimate intervention. Americans who remember the note writing between 1914 and 1917 cannot fail to recall how earnest were our protestations of peaceful purpose in a warring world. One note led to another, however, with results which are all too familiar.

With this reservation, Mr. Roosevelt's note has the approval of the American people. We must continue to hope that war will be averted, but the temper of Mr. Hitler's speech is none too reassuring. The character of the war, if it comes, can already be foreshadowed.

The British navy today is in relatively a stronger position than it occupied in 1914. Germany can be blockaded fully as effectively as it was in the latter part of the last war and the British will have enough ships to impose, in combination with France, a tight blockade of Italy should she join Germany as an ally. Germany will be deprived of overseas commerce and so will Italy by a blockade of the Mediterranean at both ends.

Airplane bombing will be more destructive of life and property than it was in the last war, but the effects of all this terrorism are not likely to be decisive. This conclusion is reached by analysis of the indecisive air operations in Spain and China, and by knowledge of the greatly improved efficiency of the anti-aircraft weapons.

So far as the French and German frontier fortifications are concerned, it seems doubtful if there are engines of destruction sufficiently powerful to overcome them. If there are such weapons we have not learned of them in this country. The Czech fortifications are said to equal the French in strength, but because of the overwhelming force which Germany may bring against the Czechs the taking of these positions may be foreseen. If that happens, and Czechoslovakia is knocked out, the war is likely to become another stalemate on the western front, with the burden much heavier on Germany and any allies she may have than on Britain and France.

Even so, the cost to Britain and France would be enormous, and if the war lasts for anything like as long as the last one did the United States may find herself the only solvent and civilized power left on earth. That assumes, of course, that we maintain our sanity and resist the communist-inspired effort to engage us in the conflict.

MR. O'CONNOR'S DECISION.

John J. O'Connor has announced that he will run for congress in the 16th New York district as an independent Democrat. He was defeated by fewer than 600 votes for the regular Democratic nomination but won the Republican place on the ballot with a majority of more than 1,000. His opponent will also appear twice on the ballot—once as the regular Democratic candidate and once as the candidate of the so-called Labor party.

Ordinarily this kind of multiple partisanship would be frowned upon as confusing to the voters, but the decision of Mr. O'Connor does not add to the confusion. Rather it clarifies the issues. The Labor party is under C. I. O. and communistic influences, but its candidate is appealing for Democratic votes. By running as an independent Democrat, Mr. O'Connor is inviting the members of the party who disapprove the alliance with communism to express their judgment without going outside their traditional party allegiance to do so.

Earl Browder and his communists are openly supporting the Democratic party. Week by week the evidences of their influence in party councils are increasing. Mr. Roosevelt has attempted to read out of his party those men who can justly claim to represent its traditional liberalism and has embraced the phony liberals who look to Moscow for their concepts of human freedom. In any circumstances this tendency would be dangerous, but at present, with the communists favoring active participation of this country in a European war, those who believe that American foreign policy should be dictated by American interests must make their influence felt. Mr. O'Connor, in deciding to run as an independent Democrat, has done his part.

REGULATION OF THE WATERWAYS.

Whenever a line of business shows signs of going ahead it is sure to receive, depend upon it, the attention of burocrats. They never miss. Thus the increase in the freight carried on the Mississippi river system to 74 million tons in a year, from a comparatively insignificant amount a few years ago, makes it a business which simply can't be let alone. And so the government proposes to tell the inland waterway carriers how much they can charge for their services and where they may run.

Lachlen Macleay, executive vice president of the Mississippi Valley association, in a recent speech told of two proposals which are being advanced. One is to give the interstate commerce commission jurisdiction. The other is to create a lot of new administrative agencies, each with a little territory to look after. The second plan, in the form in which it has been advanced, calls for five different authorities to regulate trafic and prescribe rates in the Mississippi valley.

The waterways, now that they amount to something, are to receive the treatment given to the two new forms of transportation. The government simply couldn't keep its hands off trucking when it developed into a means for carrying a large amount of small freight. When individual initiative had created our magnificent commercial flying service and had carried it to the point where it was an important and safe means of getting about in this big country, the civil aeronautical authority was created to determine where planes could operate, how much should be charged for each trip, and how the companies should finance themselves.

The official regulation of trucking and aviation, and the proposed government interference with waterways is justified on the claim that it has to be done, because the railroads cannot stand the competition. The railroads which were regulated couldn't stand the competition of the kinds of transportation which were unregulated! The fact that railroads, with the dead hand of the government upon them, are losing business to forms of transportation which have been free, is made the justification for having the government hold back the other forms of transportation. No one should be for that but a burocrat.

If a horse with hobbles is running behind, it tends to make the race even if hobbles are used to slow down the other horses. An alternative is to take the hobbles off the laggard. Then not only is the contest equal but each contestant can do the best of which he is capable.

CHILDREN OF WAR.

"The faces of the children in the cities and in the child-feeding stations haunted my memory. They were gaunt, hollow-cheeked, big-eyed little victims whose deeply lined foreheads showed the strain of unnatural maturity and years of suffering. Over 125,000 of the war orphans of Serbia wandered about in rags, not knowing what fate was ahead of them, having lost both their parents and their relatives. They were lost waifs, many of them pitifully deformed by rickets or by some form of tuberculosis. Their little stomachs were swollen and bloated with either no food or the heavy stale slabs of bread that they might find to eat."

The reporter is Malvina Hoffman, the sculptor, who went to the Balkans for the Red Cross in 1919. American warhawks by proxy, communists and assistant communists, peace societies that yell for war, and all the others who shout that the dictators must be stopped at any price, will do well to ponder what the price really is.

ZONING THE AIRPORT.

The city council's committee on zoning has recommended an ordinance limiting to 66 feet the height of buildings to be erected within a third of a mile of the airport. The proposal is a sound one. Only in that way can the city's investment in the airport be protected, for if high buildings are erected in the vicinity the risks will become too great and another and safer terminal will have to be found. The airport increases the value of adjacent property and the added value can be retained only if the field remains safe. The ordinance is intended permanently to safeguard airplane passengers as well as the occupants of buildings near the landing field. At present buildings rising to 132 feet may be erected in the zone under consideration. There are many other sections of the city in which structures of this size can be built without harm to any one. Near the airport such buildings are a menace and should be forbidden.

POLITICS AT ITS WORST.

[Memphis Commercial-Appeal.]

Kentucky Democrats went to the polls last month to nominate a candidate for the United States senate. The majority leader, Alben W. Barkley, was up for reëlection. All of the strength that the national administration at Washington could lend was lent to Senator Barkley. His opponent was Gov. Chandler. No novice himself, the governor had a powerful state machine at his beck and call.

The country knows the result. The country also knows that a deplorable situation developed during the campaign, in which two machines tugged away against each other.

Now the facts and figures are coming out. According to a report released by the Sheppard campaign funds investigating committee, here are a few of them:

Employés of the Kentucky highway department chipped in $56,099 to aid Gov. Chandler—a department financed partly by the federal government.

WPA workers were canvassed to determine whether they would support Senator Barkley, were asked to sign papers stating that they would support him, and those who would not support him were fired.

Chandler forces collected a total of $71,543 from employés of the social security department, financed largely by the federal government.

Barkley campaign headquarters asked for the preparation in WPA offices of a list of 17,200 WPA workers in thirty-two counties, and 340 WPA timekeepers were used on the job.

It so happens that this was a primary campaign. But it could just as easily happen in a general election.

That such a situation demands attention admits of no doubt. Free government cannot survive many orgies of this kind. It may be that federal supervision of elections is not the answer. In fact, we hope it is not. But one thing is certain, and that is that the people will be quick to exhaust every remedy they have.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

The European crisis appears to have burned the humor out of this column's contributors. The ghastly menace has passed the punning stage, and the sense of fun that normally chuckles through the Line's mail has been almost hushed for several days. Therefore, to ease the minds of every one, if possible, and to seek escape from the harsh tolling of alarm bells, we ordain another Poetry Day. While minstrels can sing there is hope for peace in the world; so give ear to this cabaret in verse.

Our first number is in the American mood and deals with the spirit that pervades the midwestern scene, evoking ancestral memories:

PRAIRIE CHANT.

Across a sea of gold and green
The dying day one last red finger bends,
And from the shadows of the coming night,
Down through the years a misty dream descends.
A bit of scarlet flame, a wisp of smoke,
Figures around a campfire kindled there,
Music . . . voices, eyes alert to watch
Small cabins from whose tiny windows shine
A light to pierce the darkness all around;
And from the gnarled tree behind the house,
Softly the wind is shaking apples to the ground.
And ever in that darkness stealthy figures lurk
Whose movements, quiet as the breeze which sways
the corn,
Will vanish like the myriad stars above
When daylight ushers in the golden morn.
But now 'tis silent all around
And still the darkness of the night does reign supreme.
When all this dream from yesterday is rudely put to flight
By the intruding automobile's headlight beam.
Homeland . . . oh, my beloved rolling hills of green!
Though crossed with highways, always there remains
For those who wait to hear, across the night

Willemina Phillips.

The next is a brief piece of pragmatic wisdom which reflects the mood of a great, kindly and sagacious man who gave notable service in the founding of this republic:

POOR RICHARD'S ADVICE.

Ben Franklin wrote that folks should write
All injuries in dust,
And benefits in marble white
That ne'er would turn to rust.

'Twas good advice, for injuries
Should quickly blow away;
While benefits dull hours beguile
And should be ours for aye.

Alonzo Newton Benn.

The Linemaster now introduces his sound and modest Quizzicuss, who has a deft hand at turning a sonnet and who, with Elizabethan gallantry, pays his compliments to the Line's little girl secretary, known around the office as "Bubbles":

FOR A LAUGHING GIRL.

We should lose heart, now each day doth diffuse
But dismal tidings of a world insane
In love of war. The columns of our news
Tell naught but hate and death, and fear and pain;
Except that Lines like this still somehow give
The proof to reassure the anxious mind
That love and beauty somewhere dare to live
And hold their beacons for weak humankind.
There is a strength in laughter, deep and sure,
To heal our woes; I think each paragraph
That "makes the Line" owns much of its allure
Because it first of all has made you laugh,
And from that test it gains a youthful wit
Constraining us to love each word of it.

Quizzicuss.

Light verse is always in order in this department, and those who woo the humorous mood frequently practice the trick of parody. Here is a parodic treatment of Leigh Hunt's famous rondeau, "Jenny Kissed Me," which may be found in all the anthologies:

OLD SONG, NEW STYLE.

Jenny socked me when I kissed her,
Socked me hard and yelled, "Now beat it!"
You old gossipers who whisper
Things about folks, don't repeat it.
Say I'm clumsy, say I'm stout,
Say that dames have always mocked me,
Anything—but leave this out:
Jenny socked me!

Mildred Luton.

September is a fertile time for nature verses, and one of the column's liegewomen of the pen, who has been silent lately, gives these rimed glimpses of the season's mood:

SPENDTHRIFT AUTUMN.

The autumn leaves are drifting there
Like monarch butterflies in air;
Cicadas' calls are shrill and loud;
The hollyhock stands tall and proud;
The grass is bronzing; country sod
Bears Queen Anne's lace and goldenrod;
The ditch is dry where water flowed;
And yarrow races down the road.
The red-eye vireo sings clear
A vesper for the fading year,
While gold is scattered everywhere
As mullein rockets burst in air.

Clara Edmunds-Hemingway.

Much of the verse that comes to the Line deals with bereavement. The following quatrain, we think, says everything without wearing its mourning too sadly:

BRIEF THRENODY.

The King has chosen
One more precious gem
From earth's jewel box
For His diadem.

The Young 'Un.

"ROSE RASH" IN YOUNG CHILDREN.

SEVERAL days ago we had something to say about infantile eczema which can be relieved, as a rule, if it is studied carefully. Otherwise many a youngster will spend a most unhappy babyhood with a blotchy, encrusted skin. The disorder may arise from some food to which the tot is sensitive.

While the very young are subject to many rashes, some of which may be of little consequence, the origin of each as it appears should be sought for and removed, as an eruption on the surface of the body is always annoying; in fact, it may influence the disposition.

A puzzling and peculiar malady termed "rose rash" was described nearly 30 years ago by John Zahorsky. It is seen rarely after the age of 2½ years, although it is relatively common and every physician who has had much to do with infants has encountered it frequently. Less likely to break out than measles, it ranks with scarlet fever, however, in the number of cases, and is found practically everywhere in the United States. During the summer months it may lie dormant, only to exhibit itself in the autumn and spread during the winter, diminishing, as far as incidence is concerned, with the approach of the warmer season.

The cause is not known, although a filtrable virus probably is responsible. Nevertheless, the symptoms are quite characteristic and at the outset the victim is restless and feverish during the night. The mother may have been awakened by the baby's tossing about, and a hand placed on the forehead frequently will detect a temperature. There is no appetite, but within two or three days the fever will drop to normal and the sufferer feel perfectly well. Then comes a curious phenomenon—the occurrence of a measleslike eruption which spreads over most of the body. This in turn will persist for a day or two and then vanish with complete recovery.

Fortunately the difficulty is never fatal, although older boys and girls may complain of severe headache, pains in the vicinity of the stomach, and vomiting. Now and then a convulsion will usher in the malady. A few will be troubled with cough and a nasal irritation, but these manifestations are generally of little moment. In fact, it is quite possible that the child may have a cold at the same time.

The difficulty takes its name from the reddish blotches, which are but slightly elevated above the surrounding skin and which are almost identical with those which come with German measles [rubella]. Occasionally only a dozen spots will be found, although sometimes they may be so plentiful that they will form large collections or patches on the back, abdomen, and neck. Scarcely any region of the skin is exempt, although the arms and legs are less likely to be involved. The discolorations bleach out about as abruptly as they come on and there is no peeling or browning.

Apparently the affection, quite apart from its effects upon the cuticle, disturbs the nervous system severely. Many of these little patients will be extremely restless, waking at night with so much wailing that pain is suspected. This is the reason that quite often, particularly if a nose and throat infection is present, an abscess within the middle ear may be thought of. Only rarely will stupor be observed, and all signs pass with the fading of the eruption.

Scores of cases no doubt are mistaken for measles—the temperature, the nasal cold, and the blemishes all pointing to this infection—in a light form. But a thorough inspection of the lesions rules out this ailment. In fact, the main point of difference is that in true measles the fever rises when the rash appears and falls after it has become fully developed. We can distinguish the disease from German measles by the fact that this latter condition affects older children, as a rule. Furthermore, the glandular enlargements which typify the Germanic variety are not found in rose rash.

PROBABLY A LITTLE SLOW.

Mrs. K. writes: We have a 17 month old baby who does not talk except to say "dis" for "this" and "dada." Do you think there is anything wrong with her speech organs or is she just slow? She has been saying these two words since she was 9 months old. She understands everything we say to her.

REPLY.

There probably is nothing to worry about. Many children will not use words until after the age of 3. When the flow of language comes it is likely to resemble the proverbial "blue streak."

AVOID SPEEDY TANNING.

B. G. writes: What are the advantages of nudist colonies?

REPLY.

During the season when the rays of the sun become more direct and the beams contain more ultraviolet, exposure of the skin to light is beneficial. Sun and open air during the summer should be sought for eagerly, but only on a program of exposure that will bring about a protective tan gradually. The business of parboiling for long hours at a time with the body stripped is foolish and dangerous.

RATIO OF ACCIDENTS VARIES.

Mrs. N. writes: I notice street car posters say that most accidents occur in the home. Does this include automobile accidents?

REPLY.

About as many fatal accidents occur in the home as on the highway; in fact, in some years there have been more. For instance, in 1936 35 per cent of all accident fatalities happened in the home, and 34 per cent on the highway. In 1937 there were fewer casualties in the home and more on our highways.

SUPPLY OTHER FOOD.

Mrs. H. S. writes: I have a 4 year old son and for some months he seems to have a dislike for potatoes in any form. He eats everything else and drinks a quart of milk daily. Should he be forced to eat potatoes?

REPLY.

Not at all. One can omit potatoes and preserve a balanced diet. Make certain, however, that other vegetables such as spinach, cauliflower, turnips, cabbage, string beans, etc., supply needed minerals.

SYPHILIS AFFECTS SIGHT.

E. H. writes: Does syphilis affect the eyesight?

REPLY.

Yes. It may affect practically every tissue of the body.

QUERY FOR MUSSOLINI.

Hastings-on-Hudson, Sept. 23.—Signor Mussolini's second fiddle advocacy this week of the right of self-determination for Poles, Hungarians and Carpatho-Ruthenians cries aloud for him to answer this question: Will he practice what he preaches and return the Greek speaking peoples of the Dodecanesian Islands to Greece, the German speaking Tyroleans to Germany? RIVES MATTHEWS.

UKRAINIANS IN POLAND.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Poland has presented a demand to Czechoslovakia for the liberation of some 100,000 Poles whom the Versailles treaty awarded to the Czechs against their will.

In my opinion Poland would be justified in her demand if she would do likewise to her own minorities who consist of some 15 million people. Take the Ukrainians, one of her largest minorities, consisting of some 7 million people.

In recent months the Polish government has made a purge against Ukrainian churches, demolishing most of them, à la Russia style, and all those priests who demand justice to pray in their own way were arrested.

This example of Polish justice has been enacted upon the Ukrainians since the world war. Right now the prisons of Poland are filled with Ukrainian prisoners, mostly children ranging between 16 to 25 years of age, just because they demanded liberation from the Polish heaven. Poles believe in rights for themselves and misery for those who demand the same right from them.

AN ECONOMIZER.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—A new economizer appears on the horizon in the person of our municipal bailiff. His economy, of course, is not inspired by envy or politics.

Now that Mr. Courtney has only sixty-five cases pending in the Criminal court as the result of the work of the judges and the police department, and now that the calendar of cases is cleaned up, if the bailiff could persuade his friend, the state's attorney, to raise his tomahawk for about five minutes and lop off his force of attorneys, investigators, employés, etc., who now have no work to do, the taxpayers would be saved a few cents.

Maybe the bailiff could also reduce the premiums on bonds of his employés and state bonds which he gets, and help taxpayers. JOHN CEPEK.

IT'S "SWEET," NOT "SOOT."

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I recently bought a little new furniture and shopped around considerably in doing so. I discovered an interesting phenomenon and I wish some furniture man would explain it.

Invariably every furniture man I talked with, even in the foremost houses, pronounced the word suite as "suit" or "soot," instead of correctly calling it "sweet." The question is: don't any of them know any better, or do they call it that so as not to embarrass their customers, of whom possibly 90 per cent also call it "suit"?

At any rate, I'd like to broadcast the correct pronunciation, which is like "sweet," to the world and to furniture people particularly. L. L. P.

COFFEE 10 CENTS A CUP.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—All eating places should not charge more than 5 cents for a good cup of that delicious beverage, coffee. This drink for a good many years was not more than 5 cents a cup. Then some one started the 10 cents a cup idea. Why was it started? W. O. H.

NOISE MAKING CHILDREN.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—I read with interest Dr. Cutter's article on "Assaulting the Ears." Our little home, into which we moved with high hopes of happiness, is ruined for us because the people next door teach their children and their playmates that it is their privilege to make all the noise they want to because they live in a house.

We have lived elsewhere in Chicago, but nowhere have we been forced to endure the nerve racking torture that makes our summers one long nightmare—and leaves us so nervous that we cannot even sleep well of nights.

We asked our neighbors if they would coöperate with us by calling a truce for just one hour a day during the summer months. Their answer was "no."

How futile it seems to hope for a world peace, which is dependent on one nation's consideration for another nation, when one neighbor refuses to show another neighbor any consideration.

I, too, am a mother, and love and understand children, and know it would not hurt any child to rest for one hour of the day. D. I. M.

HURRY THOSE BRIDGE REPAIRS.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The 18th street bridge has now been closed for repairs for six months. The job was to have taken at the most not more than four months. There is no east and west traffic except at Roosevelt or Cermak road.

What is holding back the completion of this tremendous project? The people who are compelled to use this bridge for car transportation are absolutely disgusted. P. H. D.

PUZZLE FOR ECONOMISTS.

Villa Park, Ill., Sept. 23.—Replying to "Horse and Buggy Economist's" remarks, what would he do in the following circumstances?

If he had worked hard and economized all his life, and the bank where he had his money closed its doors, what would he do when the gas company shut off his gas, the electric company shut off the juice, and the water company shut off the water? I suppose he would take his horse and buggy, if he had one, to northern Wisconsin, haul home his next month's supply of fuel, feed the horse on the leaves of the trees, and run out to Lake Michigan for water. As to his own food, I suppose he would feed on the memory of the bank account he once had.

As for earning his living by the sweat of his brow, will he tell us where he can find jobs for thirteen million people?

TWENTIETH CENTURY THINKER.

SUBURBANITES, TAKE NOTE.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—When will the people of Chicago rise up against the hue and cry of the suburban communities for elevated highways? The people of these communities contribute nothing but lunch money toward defraying the tax burdens of Chicago. They earn their livelihood in Chicago, but buy their groceries, gasoline, homes, and wearing apparel in their suburban communities. They pay nothing toward the Chicago taxes. Improve Chicago for Chicagoans, don't elevate for the suburbanites.

MORTGAGE NOTE.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a mortgage note is made against real estate in [1] favor of one party and [2] other party named trustee, after [3] payments have been made or paid to party owning or holding note, [4] does the trustee have to cancel all interest coupons and issue trust deed for same?

5. Has he any authority as to whom and when [6] it should be paid [7] since party named on note is satisfied?

8. If said trustee dies before note is paid, who acts in his place as trustee for said note to give payer clear title to estate? A. H.

1. Under the forms in common use in Chicago the creditor would not be named in the trust deed or in the notes.

2. Ordinarily a third party is named as trustee. Your facts are not clear.

3. You do not make clear whether you mean payments in full.

4. As each interest coupon is paid it should be canceled and turned over to the party making the payment. Nothing would be done with the trust deed at the time of these interest payments.

5 and 6. The antecedents of your pronouns are not clear.

7. See 1.

8. It is common for a trust deed to name a successor in trust. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the wording of your papers. If your questions relate to your making a final payment, then you can be guided by the following: If your papers are in the usual form you should receive the canceled trust deed, principal note and interest coupons, together with insurance policies and abstract or other evidence of title. Take the trust deed and notes to the trustee, obtain from him a release deed, and record it.

RIGHT TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My brother passed away recently leaving a small lot located in Lake county. There was no will and there are no other heirs except myself. There still is a balance due of $430 on said lot.

1. Could I finish paying the amount due and get a clear title without having this lot go through probate?

2. The owner of the property is willing to give a clear title if it is legal. A. S.

1. Yes, if the contract vendor is willing to deal with you.

2. If you can furnish him with satisfactory proof that you are the only heir and that all of the debts have been paid, we would consider it safe for him to deal with you.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TAX PURCHASES.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Where can I obtain information about tax delinquent residence lots in Chicago?

2. How does one go about buying such property?

3. Is it necessary to hire a lawyer?

4. Can it be purchased from the tax department or must it be bought through a broker? M. B.

1. At the office of the county clerk in the County building.

2. In general, a tax deed is regarded as a cloud on the previous title rather than as establishing a title in itself, hence we advise you not to embark on such an enterprise without first employing an attorney and determining how you will plan to clear the title.

3 and 4. See previous answers.

3 CONFESS PLOT TO COUNTERFEIT $400,000 BONDS

Moran Gang Printers and Engraver Seized.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Jimmie Johnson, robbery changed to larceny, sentenced to one year in county jail by Judge Walter Stanton.

An engraver and two printers yesterday confessed that they counterfeited nearly $400,000 in New York Central railroad bonds and American Express travelers' checks that were offered for sale throughout the country last spring. They were seized Saturday by state's attorney's police.

George [Bugs] Moran, prohibition era gang leader, and nine other persons are under indictment in connection with the counterfeiting plot. Yesterday's arrests completed the prosecution's case, which had been greatly weakened by failure to seize the men who actually made the bonds and checks.

Seize Copper Plates.

Those arrested, after several weeks of investigation by Lieut. Thomas Kelly, are Berger Hanson, 6647 Kenwood avenue, the engraver; Emil Ahrens, 3549 Reta street, a printer, and Del F. Bruno, 3140 North Knox street, also a printer who lately has been employed as WPA timekeeper.

In an office in the Rand-McNally building, 538 South Clark street, which had been rented by Hanson, the police found copper plates used in printing the bonds. The check plates had been destroyed.

Genuine Bond His Pay.

The bond plates, Hanson told Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright, were made from a genuine $1,000 bond which was purchased by Moran. Hanson kept the genuine bond as his pay for making the plates, he said.

The far flung plot collapsed when three of the gang's operatives prematurely cashed two of the bogus checks. They and others had been traveling through the country, establishing branch offices and disposing of the bonds and checks to local gangs of check passers.

They were selling the counterfeit paper for 20 per cent of its face value. The checks were in denominations of $20, $50, and $100. The premature checks were cashed in Chicago and Pittsburgh by Robert Sexton, Frank Quigley, and Daniel Keller. They were arrested in Pittsburgh and the roundup followed.

Express Agents Penetrate Gang.

The roundup too, was premature, inasmuch as agents of the express company knew of the plot and had their agents working in the organization. They had hoped to have the entire gang seized at once.

Between $300,000 and $400,000 in bonds had been struck off as well as $42,000 in travelers' checks. It was planned to dispose of $1,000,000 in bonds.

Hanson told Assistant Prosecutor Wright yesterday that Moran was the brains of the gang and directed its activities from Chicago.

The others under indictment, in addition to Moran, Quigley, Sexton, and Keller, are:

Frankie Parker, the airplane bootlegger of prohibition days; Harvey Dwight Anderson, former Buffalo bootlegger; Walter Nolan, expert counterfeiter and ex-convict; Frank Ross, the gang's sales manager; Mason Schlitz, a former furrier, and Margaret [Mitzi] Ribble, a bogus check passer who is also known as Mrs. Walter Nolan.

They were indicted last June 3 after being arrested April 21. Trial has been set for Oct. 27.

Elevator Bandit

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

RUSSELL HARDING.

Chicago's elevator bandit, who has robbed more than fifty hotels in the last year, was seized yesterday as he lounged in the sun at Leland avenue and Broadway.

He is Russell Harding, 34 years old, 4619 Kenmore avenue. He was recognized by Stanley Sather, 4718 North Racine avenue, one of his victims who called two policemen. Sather was a clerk in the Eastgate hotel, 162 East Ontario street, last May when Harding entered, gun in hand. He took $165, then put the clerk and three other employés in an elevator. "Go up and stay up!" he ordered. They did.

That was his technique in all his robberies, Harding explained to Capt. Patrick O'Connell and Sergt. George Brady of Town Hall station. He averaged one holdup a week and his average haul was $50. Police arrested his wife, Elfrieda, who said she thought Harding had an early morning job. A .45 caliber army pistol was found in the pocket of Harding's topcoat which was hanging in a closet.

2 GUARDS FIRED OVER ESCAPE OF 5 MAD CONVICTS

Menard Prison Fugitives Are Still at Large.

Chester, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Two guards at the Menard prison were discharged today because of the escape of five insane convicts from the psychiatric division of the prison early yesterday. The fugitives, all dangerous criminals, were still at large tonight.

The ousted guards were both recent Democratic political appointees. They are Harry Sledge, a farmer, and Lionel Harshbarger, who had been an insurance salesman. Both are from Mount Vernon.

Sledge was appointed a guard at the prison six weeks ago. He is a precinct committeeman of Farrington township in Jefferson county. He is 35 years old and married.

Long Active in Politics.

Harshbarger received his appointment last March. He has participated in county politics for years. Four years ago he ran unsuccessfully for nomination as county treasurer. This spring he campaigned vigorously for a candidate for sherif who died before election. Harshbarger is 36 year old, married, and the father of three children.

Milton Forsythe, chairman of the Democratic central committee of Jefferson county, could not be reached tonight for comment regarding the political sponsorship of the two appointees.

Superintendent of Prisons Joseph E. Ragen said the two guards obviously were at fault in the escape. It was Sledge's duty to walk past the cells of the five convicts every twenty minutes during the night. He was relieved at 6 o'clock yesterday morning by Harshbarger. Neither knew that five of their charges had fled during the night.

Bars Later Found Cut.

Supt. Ragen said Harshbarger marched his remaining prisoners to breakfast without knowing he was five men short. During breakfast another guard discovered the bars on two cells had been sawed through.

As nearly as Supt. Ragen could determine, the felons escaped about 3 o'clock Sunday morning when a freight train made considerable noise. He has been unable to find any one who heard the men sawing the bars or breaking through the wood and slate roof.

Neither has Ragen been able to find any one who knew how the convicts obtained the saws. The tools used in cutting through the roof were obtained from the office of the prison dentist, the superintendent said.

Search for the fugitives centered tonight at Dupo, and in the neighborhood of Valmeyer. Dupo police said a man believed to be Walter Brown, one of the five fugitives, attempted to obtain cash at a restaurant there on a meal ticket a resident of Dupo had lost.

The disappearance of a suit of clothes and several suits of overalls from the caboose of a freight train at Valmeyer led authorities to suspect they were taken by the escaped convicts. The freight train stopped in Chester at 3 a. m. yesterday, about the time it is believed the men fled.

All five of the felons had been inmates of Joliet penitentiary. Under the state law the state welfare board is empowered to transfer prisoners to the psychiatric division of the Menard prison upon the findings of a medical board that they are insane.

Called Homicidal Types.

The five were found insane at the Joliet diagnostic depot and duly transferred, one at a time, to the southern Illinois prison. Supt. Ragen said all of the men were of the homicidal maniacal type.

Mathew Nowak, who was serving a sentence of 100 years for murder, was ordered to Menard on a report signed by Dr. Marvin Sukov on Dec. 14, 1937. The report said he had "limited intelligence, irritable personality, and his adjustment in a general group is not probable." Nowak was convicted in Chicago on Aug. 14, 1933, for killing in a holdup a doctor he had lured by a fake telephone call to attend a supposed dying woman.

Brown was ordered to the psychiatric division on July 19, 1937, by a report in which Dr. Sukov said the prisoner is an "unstable psycopath." Brown was sentenced from Bloomington on July 9, 1933, to life imprisonment for the murder of a McLean county deputy sherif.

Three Convicted Robbers.

John Bartz was sent to Menard on Nov. 13, 1934, on a report signed by Drs. R. G. Barrick, E. H. Schaller, and John A. Larson, who said he was "markedly unstable" and had "an inadequate personality." Bartz was convicted in Chicago in 1931 as an habitual criminal after a bank robbery there.

Charles Clayton was ordered to Menard on Dec. 14, 1937, on the recommendation of Dr. Sokuv, who said he was of "average intelligence" and "potentially suicidal." Clayton also was convicted in Chicago of robbery.

Robert Stilley was moved to Menard on the recommendation of Dr. Sukov who said on July 19, 1937, the prisoner had a "marked maladjustment." Stilley was convicted in Peoria of robbery.

SLAIN WOMAN'S BODY IS FOUND NEAR GALESBURG

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The body of an auburn haired young woman about 22 years old was found this afternoon in a cornfield ten miles south of here. She apparently had been strangled, beaten about the head, and raped.

Deputies who sought to identify her said she was clothed only in a slip and shoes and stockings. She wore a plain gold wedding ring but it bore no name or initials.

Authorities said she had been dead about a week and apparently had been killed elsewhere than the spot where her body was found. Broken weeds indicated she had been dragged forty feet into the field from a lonely cross-road. Plaster casts were made of a man's footprint found near the body.

"I'm so grateful for what Siler City School taught me about COLDS"

Says Mrs. J. B. WHITLEY

"Every winter Margaret used to come down with one cold after another," Mrs. Whitley says. "Then the clinic started at her school. Soon she was catching fewer colds, and getting over them quicker. It certainly opened my eyes. Since then our whole family has followed Vicks Plan—and colds don't worry us now like they used to."

17,353 VOLUNTEERS
Take Part In Great Colds-Clinic

Over 7,000 School Children Do Their Part

Both the number and length of colds were drastically reduced . . . Sickness from colds was cut more than half (50.88%) . . . School absences due to colds were reduced even more (57.86%)!

These are actual figures—the average results of the four winter series of clinical tests in which 17,353 people (including 7,031 school children) took part. Thirty-seven doctors were on the supervisory staff. Over 500 teachers, nurses, and other trained workers assisted them.

A SIMPLE GUIDE. This great clinic proved the worth of Vicks Plan. Vicks Plan is a simple guide which emphasizes the importance of proper personal care and the use of two specialized medications—Vicks Va-tro-nol and Vicks VapoRub—for relief of symptoms in different types and stages of colds.

When colds threatened—at the first nasal irritation, sniffle, or sneeze—Va-tro-nol was used to help prevent the development of many colds. When a cold got by all precautions, its discomforts were relieved with VapoRub.

The results speak for themselves. Vicks Plan may do less for you—or it may do even more. But with such a record it certainly is worth a trial. It is simple and easy to follow in any home. You get the full directions in each package of Va-tro-nol or VapoRub.

Helps PREVENT COLDS

Va-tro-nol is specialized medication—expressly designed for the nose and upper throat, where most colds start. You feel this tingling, stimulating medication go right to work. Used at the first sniffle or sneeze—a few drops up each nostril—it helps to prevent many colds from developing. Keep it handy and use it early. VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

RELIEVES misery of COLDS

VapoRub is a family standby for relieving misery of colds. Rubbed on throat, chest, and back, VapoRub acts two ways at once: (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct on irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors. This double action loosens phlegm, clears air-passages, eases cough, relieves local congestion. VICKS VAPORUB

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It isn't a moment too soon for you women who're usually troubled with chapped hands to begin to condition yours so they'll go through the winter lily white and satin smooth.

We believe in the regular use of a hand brush for the daily scrubbing. The right kind of a hand brush does more than assist cleanliness. Its regular use improves circulation, and faulty circulation is the cause of more hand redness than you'd suspect. A brush we like particularly is one with an open metal back. Because it's nonabsorbing, your brush won't get soggy and the back and the wires can't rust. The bristles are the happy medium—not too stiff.

We also believe in being fussy about soaps. Use superfatted soaps if the skin is thin and inclined to dryness. Rinse well and dry well. The half done job of drying is fatal, especially in cold weather.

Use a lotion during the day after each hand washing. There are dozens from which to choose. At night, use either your lotion or a cream. We're a bit partial to the rich, oily cream for massage at night. It takes time, but it's worth it. And whether you use lotion or cream remember that the massage stroke should be upward—and fairly vigorous. And don't slight the finger tips!

If your cuticle is thin and crackling work cream into it every night. This is a habit easy to establish and to keep up.

Also for your nails, get the buffing habit. Buff right over polish if you like. In this way the nails get the stimulation and "exercise" that they sadly need.

You won't be desperate later about the state of your hands if you begin to coddle them now.

Nine Congregations Will See Lutheran Movie Film Tonight

Congregations of nine United Lutheran churches in the Chicago area tonight will view a sound motion picture, "The Thunder of the Sea," depicting the history of the Lutheran church in America. It was produced as a part of the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of a merger of synods which created the church.

Fears Quints Can Never Be Really Happy

BY MARCIA WINN.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, caught last night in reflective mood, sighed and observed that the Dionne quintuplets are in many ways the five most unfortunate children alive.

To be sure, they are Canada's royal princesses, admitted the genial little country doctor who brought 1,500 babies into the world in twenty-seven years and then in 1934 brought the quintuplets. But, he added, they can never expect real happiness.

From Emilie, who looks like Pa-Pa Oliva and weighs 36 pounds, to Marie, who looks like Ma-Ma Elzire and weighs 43, their health is sublime, he said. Likewise their French, considering their youth.

He termed their musical ability exceptional [they know twenty songs and sing in Greek chorus tradition, one carrying the tune, the others chiming in]; their deportment ladylike; their appetite good. Nor are they yet aware that they are unique.

"But the only privacy they will ever have," he said sadly, "is what they will buy.

"That," he explained, "is one reason we are anxious to have enough money to educate them. We want them to grow up normal, ordinary children.

"And so far," triumphantly, "they are."

That, he said, is why an invitation to exhibit them at the New York World Fair has been turned down. "And worth a lot of money, too," he explained. Also, a fabulous offer from Scotland.

Dr. Dafoe refused to discuss the matter which has brought him to Chicago, but it, too, deals with public displays of his charges. This is a $1,000,000 civil damage suit against the little doctor and three other defendants, brought by Ivan I. Spear, Chicago promoter.

The suit, which comes to trial today before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, charges the defendants conspired to break a contract between Spear and Papa Dionne, giving Spear exclusive rights to exhibit the babies at the 1934 A Century of Progress Exposition. The contract allegedly was signed three days after the babys' birth.

Dr. Dafoe, in his filed answer, admits learning of the contract on July 13, but asserts that the babies then were "hovering between life and death" and that there seemed "little chance they would live."

But the quints never got to Chicago. Nor, says Dafoe, will they get to New York.

"That would thwart our plan to keep them normal," he smiled. "Too, they would charge to see them—and you don't charge to see the royal family!"

Dafoe will be represented by Arthur G. Slaght of Toronto, king's councilor and member of the Canadian parliament, and Jay Fred Reeve of Chicago.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Some defenders bear a rather startling resemblance to mice. In fact, I am being unkind to the mice in this analogy. When they are caught in a trap, their frantic scurrying about is understandable because there is no escape for them. The defender, however, often does the same scurrying when actually he could push a door and saunter blithely out of the trap. East, in today's hand, could hardly qualify as a Houdini.

South, dealer.

4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's opening two spade bid was justified by the fact that he held five honor tricks [including the plus values of the heart queen and diamond jack] and only four and one-half losers by the most optimistic count.

West opened the heart king and continued with the ace. Declarer ruffed the second round, drew two rounds of trumps, and then, for want of a better play, laid down the ace, king, and jack of diamonds. East won the third round with the diamond queen, and gloomily accepted the fact that he was in an end play. Obviously, he could not return a heart without affording declarer a ruff and a discard, since dummy still had a trump and now was void of hearts. This left only clubs as an exit and, probably with a resigned feeling, East cashed the club ace and then led the seven spot. Perhaps he hoped that declarer, if he held the club king, would be "fooled" as to the position of the queen, but declarer had no choice in the matter: he had to duck to the second club lead as the one reasonable chance of fulfilling the contract. Dummy's jack won and it was all over.

Considering that the dummy had no entry, declarer had played the hand as well as possible, but the fact remained that he should have been defeated and undoubtedly would have been if East had been less mouselike. East, after being thrown on lead with the diamond queen, had been right in his observation that only a club return was conceivable, but his selection of the ace followed by a low club was scarcely the best solution. The correct return was the club queen! Nothing but logic was necessary to its selection. If by any chance West had the club king, the queen lead would be on a par with the ace lead. But if the club king was in declarer's hand, where it certainly figured to be, the lead of the queen was the only one that might [and would] have a satisfactory result. Only by this lead could East retain the semblance of a tenace over dummy's club jack. Of course, if declarer happened to have the ten spot as well as the king, there was nothing to be done about it, but there was a very good chance that West had the ten-nine or the ten-eight of clubs.

Note how this would work out. Declarer must cover the club queen or concede two club tricks on the spot. After he covers, however, he is helpless. If he leads the six of clubs, West can play any card and North's jack loses to East's ace. West's ten spot then takes the setting trick. If declarer leads the club nine after winning with the king, West, of course, covers with the ten, forcing the jack, and the eight spot then becomes the master card.

I recommend that my readers study this and other "escape" plays.

Smart Details Give Swank to Newest Gloves

BY RHEA SEEGER.

They must sit up nights scheming and seaming the newest gloves! Even the daily stuff, that is, the gloves designed for the average life of daily duty, are put together with all sorts of gayety and wit.

For instance, the half and half doups in sturdy dull black kidskin and soft suede. The palms are smooth kidskin, the thumb an exact division of kidskin and the suede in vertical lines, and the flared short cuff and the band that keeps the gloves smooth at the wrist do the duet trick with a flourish. Such numbers wear and wear and fit circumspectly every minute you have them on the hand. In brown, black, and wine, they're the ideal street or all purpose gloves.

Plain black doeskin slipons, unquestionably the smartest gloves any well dressed woman wears, are in. They're the last word in smooth swank, they come in a lot of slick new fall colors and take the necessary soapsuds with all the equanimity of a water baby. And they are guaranteed not to rub off black, which is SOMETHING. While they're not cheap the price is reasonable for all the smart simplicity and service obtainable.

If you like detail you'll probably squander all your money on gloves this season. For suedes, doeskins, pigskins, and kidskins are made with a staggering amount of exquisite detail. Fine seaming in an almost limitless array of patterns—such clever ideas as three slenderizing rows of intricate lacings, sometimes in self color, sometimes in contrast.

Appliqued motifs of tiny leaves, embroidery of flowers, buds, and French knots are other decorations. Even tiny bows decorate some gloves without making them too gingerbready. Short gloves are the newest—brief, chubby little things with the scantiest of cuffs or wrist flares. These, however, are strictly for street and suit wear.

The Housewife

The woman who does her own laundry can't be blamed for wanting to eliminate as many items as possible from the weekly collection of soiled clothes and linens. We're sure she will like to learn that there are actually pillowcases on the market that can be thrown away after they're mussed and dirty. They're made of paper, you see, and a big package of them costs very little.

They are so sturdy that they won't tear unless you get vicious with them. They are soft and absorbent and they have wide hems just like linen or cotton pillowcases. Standard size, too.

They will also serve as protectors if you want to pull your own linen slips on over them.

Popular as "Date" Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

As a "date" dress this shirred frock is a real "find." Popular business girls and co-eds will find themselves rushed off their feet with engagements if they wear this flattering model. Men like the girls they escort to be the epitome of charming femininity, and this frock certainly is feminine. The V neckline may be left plain or may have a brief, contrasting collar. The sleeves, which may be either long or short, are shirred to within an inch of their lives. More of the shirring is found between neckline and hip, defining the waist without the aid of a belt. The flared skirt fits beautifully at the hips and gradually widens toward the hem.

All colors and almost every type of silk will make up effectively. Plain shades are especially suitable for this model, since the simple lines of the dress allow color every opportunity to shine alone.

Style No. 2940 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 5¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Monday, current events; Tuesday, science; Wednesday, the history of Chicago; Thursday, book reviews and literature, and Friday, musical programs with choruses from the various elementary schools participating. The programs, designed for children of the elementary schools, are prepared by employés of the school board under Kent's direction.

The radio council was organized more than a year ago to aid in keeping the pupils abreast of their work while the schools were closed because of the outbreak of infantile paralysis. The material is intended to fit in with the regular classroom work.

September Notes.

Those day cruisers and speedboats in the river at Michigan avenue look forlorn these days. Especially without the colored tap dancers who all summer flung themselves about on the wharves to the tune of washboard-kitchen-kettle rhythm bands. Missing, too, the stentorian voices of the radio announcers over the public address systems which the boatmen had hooked up to their radios. . . . "Air-cooled" signs on restaurants look as out of place as the cruisers and speedboats, in spite of the September sun. . . . They're singing a new Russian song, Serdze, at the Yar, meaning "the heart." And two new de luxe gay spots are opening soon, the Pump room at the Ambassador East and a cocktail room at the Blackstone with a copper dance floor. . . . Hair worn down is beginning to look old-fashioned, even if you don't like it up. . . . A friend back from Paris reports a chi-chi note: A woman all in black looking as if she had lost her lover at Toledo, except for the Shocking pink taffeta leash on her black poodle and her Shocking pink lipstick. . . .

The red and yellow four o'clocks in front of apartment houses on Walton place and the Lake Shore drive are dying, but their fragrance still perfumes the air. . . . The little yellow breasted birds that twittered for a week have disappeared. . . . There are garden dahlias on the tables at the Saddle and Cycle club. . . . Barbecued spare ribs ought to taste good. . . . We received an autumnal present today—a harvest ear of corn in its sere, crackling husk from a reader on vacation in Iowa where the tall corn grows. We're going out to find a horse to give it to.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Bryan S. Reids' two older daughters both were planning to be married in October, but when the tentative wedding date Mrs. Reid Chatillon and Russell Trufant Foster had set was postponed a week, to Saturday, Oct. 8, Miss Margot Reid and Alanson Donald put their wedding off for a later date, too. They will be married on Nov. 12.

The two wedding will be at opposite extremes, for Mrs. Chatillon and Mr. Foster are to be married at the Reid apartment, with only the families present. Miss Reid and Mr. Donald, on the contrary, will be married at St. Chrysostom's, attended by a retinue of bridesmaids and ushers, with a reception following either at home or at the Casino.

Mr. Foster's parents, the noted economist, Dr. William T. Foster, and Mrs. Foster, will come from Newton, Mass., for the wedding on the 8th.

Will Make Their Home in Cleveland Suburb.

Young Mr. Foster will spend this week-end in Pittsburgh on business and will not arrive in Chicago until just the day before the wedding, so there will not be any prenuptial parties for him and Mrs. Chatillon. Mr Foster is engaged in business in Cleveland, and after Nov. 1 he and his bride will be at home in a house in Shaker Heights which they selected a week or so ago.

Mrs. Reid, Miss Reid, and Mr. Donald just have returned from the wedding in New York on Saturday of his brother, Remson Donald, and Miss Camilla Morgan. Remson Donald is to be the best man at the Donald-Reid wedding. Most of the ushers will be eastern friends of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Chatillon is to be her sister's matron of honor and Joan Reid, who will return from Chatham hall for the Foster-Reid wedding, will come home again to be maid of honor at the wedding on the 12th. Among Miss Reid's eight bridesmaids will be Miss Judy Butler, Miss Sylvia Peter, Mrs. Robert F. Carr Jr., Miss Margaret Driggs of Waterbury, Conn., and Miss Anne Ayer of Hamilton, Mass.

Good Morning!

Riches and good sense, poverty, pride, and prejudice go to the mat in this little family drama.

The principals are a wealthy young employer, Bill Harrison, and his secretary, Joan Thayer, whom he would wed. She loves him, but feels that the difference in their circumstances is almost too great for bridging.

To prove to the adamantine idea-ed femme that she's all wet and that real folks are real folks no matter how their pockets are lined, Bill goes to live at her house and hobnob with her family.

Here he becomes acquainted with her philosophical mother, her kindly unsuccessful father, her young sister, Helen, who yearns to be "society," and her cousin, Henry Thayer, a socialistic ranter, who is deeply resentful over the wrongs he believes visited by upper strata on the "white collar" class, and is constantly out of a job because of his determination to take nuthin' from nobody.

Comes a day when the Thayers are informed that Bill has seen the light and is about to give all his worldly goods away! Ah ha!—does THAT cause a hasty reshuffling of mental cards!

Robert Young, Lew Ayres, Guy Kibbee, and Sarah Padden give believable performances. Newcomer Lana Turner is pretty good as the younger sister. Ruth Hussey, in her first feature lead, is handsome though self-conscious. Experience will probably mend this failing. . . . Rita Johnson in a "bit" part, is blasé, but able.

The piece has some suspense and a few laughs. . . . It passes the time away pleasantly enough.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Go West, Young Man

Winslow, Ariz., Sept. 26.—The songwriters who penned "A Star Fell Out of Heaven" must have been born hereabouts, because this is the meteor country. In some prehistoric age they showered out of the Arizona skies. This is known as "The Meteor City," because of the 600 foot deep gash caused by a tremendous outcast from the heavens. Museums all over the world are supplied with tons of meteoric iron from this area, and meteors weighing two tons can be found at most of the trading posts. It is an unusual state. The Hopi Indian women won the right to vote in tribal councils as far back as the seventeenth century. I told one of the old Indian crones that Katharine Hepburn's mother was one of the original suffragettes in Hartford, Conn. She said: "Probably she Hopi." There are close to 45,000 Indians in the state.

The Indian and Spanish influence is predominant all through this section. The Grand Canyon was discovered by Don Pedrode Tovar, commanding a division of Coronado's Spanish troops in 1540. At Wingate, N. M., is a 300 year old inscription celebrating the safe return of Captain General Juan de Onate from his discovery of the Gulf of California in 1606. Albuquerque was named in 1701 after Don Francisco Fernandez de la Cueva Enriquez, duke of Albuquerque in Spain. You couldn't get that name on a theater marquee. The duke would have to be content with shorter billing.

At Santa Fe Gen. Lew Wallace wrote "Ben Hur." . . . Taos, N. M., was the locale of "Night Over Taos," in which Franchot Tone played on Broadway. . . . Cimarron, N. M., suggested Irene Dunne's first motion picture at RKO. Cimarron was a typical frontier town on the old Santa Fe trail. Maxwell, feudal prince of the area, gave lavish parties at his ranch in Cimarron and Kit Carson was a regular visitor. So, too, was Buffalo Bill.

Before reaching New Mexico, the Chief passes through Colorado. Colorado has forty-seven peaks that tower more than 14,000 feet. Switzerland has nine. Colorado has 1,000 mountain peaks above 10,000 feet. Switzerland has about twenty-five. The Colorado names are striking. Rio de las Animas Perdidas is the river of the lost souls, and a mountain range is named Sangre de Cristo, blood of Christ. . . . It was from the town of Las Animas that Lieut. Zebulon Pike discovered the peak that bears his name. It would have been more astonishing had he failed to see it. . . . Just recently they had the annual cantaloupe day celebration at Rocky Ford, for this is a great melon country.

You enter Colorado through Kansas,

and one of the first towns in Kansas is Olathe, which produced Buddy Rogers. Olathe is an Indian name meaning beautiful, so you can make up your own jokes. At Lawrence, Kas., founded by and named after Amos Lawrence, Massachusetts merchant, is one of the rarest of factories—a horse collar factory that supplies most of the midwest farmers. Topeka, you learn, is an Indian name for "a good place to dig potatoes." Wichita sends out most of the whiskbrooms you use in your house or office. Dodge City, Kas., was a noted shipping point on the old Texas and Montana cattle train. In 1883, the old settlers will tell you, 8,000,000 cattle passed through, with 4,000 cowboys herding them along.

The thought drives home, when you see America first, that Americans who bewail our lack of traditions don't know what they are talking about. Arizona's history goes back to 1539. New Mexico can trace back living people to 1606. Cabrillo was on the southern coast of California in 1542. Thirty-seven years earlier Sir Francis Drake anchored there to repair his ships. As far back as 1679 Father Hennepin discovered coal in Illinois and made a record of his discovery. We have plenty of historic incident behind us, if only we familiarized ourselves with it.

It is an amazing country, this land of ours, and not the least amazing and comforting feature about it are the twin oceans, Atlantic on the east, Pacific on the west, dictator deadlines. Now if we will only fill up those two oceans with navies big enough and strong enough to stand off European or Asiatic flotillas, we can be assured that our sons and grandsons will be able to call this their own, and marvel at its beauty as a westbound columnist is marveling at it en route to Hollywood.

A Door Closed Softly

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright, 1938, By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, accompanies his cousin, Alison, to a party at Lady Wibbe's. By mistake they go to the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. But 13 year old Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. While in the house David had seen a favorite book of his former love, Betsy Greentree, with her initials in it. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David breakfasts next morning with Alison and her friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke. Penelope calls to tell them their neighbors have acquired a parrot. Colin directs David to an animal shop in Camden Town, where he learns the proprietor had sold a parrot that morning.

INSTALMENT VIII.

A DOCTOR'S CALL.

The bird kept quiet on the journey . . . David's pulse gave something between a leap and a thud. He requested a description of the purchaser, but found his informant annoyingly vague. The gentleman had been on the tall side, slim built and well dressed. Properly spoken, but in a hurry to get his bird and take it home.

"Catching a train 'e was. Seems as 'ow larst night the old parrot they 'ad died on 'em, sudden. It was 'is sister's—and he didn't like leaving 'er to fret and mope. That's why I obliged 'im, to save 'im 'opping way down to Whitechapel. See?"

"O, so that was it, was it?"

David felt punctured. Had there indeed been a minor tragedy the sounds of which both he and Alison had imaginatively distorted? Yet somewhere there seemed a flaw in the explanation. He'd got it! The cage . . .

"He bought a new cage, didn't he? What was wrong with the old one?"

"Gone groggy. Poor brute got 'is neck 'ung between the bars and choked to death, struggling. Wouldn't do to run that there risk again, now would it? He took one of them big brawss affairs, like you see 'anging over your 'ead—and a good stock of feed."

"Yes . . . Well, might I just look at that check to make sure it was my friend?"

"Don't see why not. It's dated quite proper."

Thirty seconds more, and from the doorway he was watching his visitor taking long strides towards the tube station.

"Barmy!" he mused, tucking a pound note away with the check. "Pity more of 'is sort don't come my way . . ."

The investigator, meanwhile, was congratulating himself on his rather breathtaking luck. Although the sight of the somewhat arrogant signature —Geoffrey Scarpath, plain as precision could make it—had caused his heart to flop over, it was one thing to be harried by doubt, another to know.

The possibility that Scarpath might not be the man who lived in the Heath Crescent house seemed too remote to bother with. No, it must be Elizabeth's husband who had taken such extraordinary pains to neutralize a thoughtlessly told lie. The vision of what might be going on in that decayed house brought acute torment, nor was it lessened by a daylight view of the premises—a sodden, ugly wreck, in its derelict state sordid.

Sauntering slowly past, he took in the singularly retired position of the house. Not only was it set well back from the road and shielded by mangy cedars, but owing to the curve of Heath Crescent it faced at an angle on the Wibbe's side garden, with much space intervening between it and its neighbor.

The two places showed a glaring contrast. On the one hand admirable order—smooth shaven lawn, a stone pergola which in summer would be a riot of roses, neat flowerbeds, a red tennis court; on the other, rank desolation in every respect.

Both houses rejoiced in turrets, both had been built at the same regrettable period, but there the similarity ended. Only a foggy night had made it possible to confuse them. And supposing they hadn't made the mistake? He grew cold inside at the thought. What an unbelievable thing to be asked to a house cheek by jowl with Elizabeth Greentree's!

He wondered what was wrong with her. The doctor came, it was said, about three times a week. Insanity? No! He refused to accept it. It was sheer, crashing impossibility. He had known this girl too well to accept any such ghastly explanation.

He moved rapidly on, for at this very moment a car—imposing, chauffeur driven—purred smoothly up to the gates. Looking round he saw the single passenger alight, enter the drive, and disappear round the bend. The glimpse had shown him a man of middle age, wearing a well cut overcoat and dark gray spats. His black bag made it almost certain he was the doctor. Paying that unusual thing, a Sunday call? Last night, then, might have marked some crisis.

David crossed the road diagonally to where a walled lane offered cover. He found an opening in the syringea bush topping the bricks in front of him and prepared to take observations.

Suddenly he described the parrot, hidden till now. There it was, on the upper balcony, poisonously green behind bars of new, glittering brass. As he stared it let out an ear-splitting screech. Similar to last night's scream? Not a chance.

The doctor was leaving. The door had opened, and he and another man were exchanging remarks on the threshold. Remembering that Elizabeth's husband could not know him from Adam, David strolled forth and made another casual crossing just in time to catch the last sentence hurled back from the man in the drive with what seemed irritable impatience.

"Rubbish, Scarpath! There's just one iron clad rule, isn't there? Stick to it and don't look for trouble!"

Out trudged the man in gray spats, banged the gate with ruffled petulance, and in a thoroughly fed up manner got into the car. There was that about his supreme respectability and generally affluent look which should have reassured. It would have done, in way, but for the wording of that final comeback, evidently a silencer to some anxious question.

David did not like the sound of it. The mere idea of Elizabeth Greentree needing to be subjected to any iron clad rule made him squirm with misery. The two might not have been talking of her at all, but he felt certain they were, and that the argument had to do with last night's episode.

Scarpath had gone in and closed the door. All was quiet except for the parrot making raucous noises.

"No business of mine," David reminded himself morosely. "He's the man she chose—and by current accounts something of a winner. Out of the top drawer, attractive—and an athlete, by heck!"

He felt a jealous stab, aware that his own tennis, fair by amateur standards, would never get him to Wimbledon's sacred courts.

"Which, blast him, isn't the point. It's how does he treat her? It's damned funny a couple of strange Americans getting into that house would start such a panic. . . . What's going on now?"

"Dear Elizabeth:

"I'm in London just for a few days, about to start in on a new job which will keep me moving about England. Is there any chance of seeing you and having a chin about old times? I got your address from a woman I ran into—her name escapes me, but that's how I'm able to drop you this line.

"I spent August in Woods Hole. Some of the old crowd were there, but it wasn't quite the same. This place will find me. Hoping to hear from you and to make your husband's acquaintance, I am,

"Yours sincerely,
DAVID BEDDOES."

He read it over. No, nothing in it to which any husband, should it meet his eye, could possibly object. It seemed most unlikely the woman in brown had ever heard his name before or from a single mention of it would retain any recollection. Was there then any reason why the writer of this harmless note should be connected with the man who got in by error on Saturday evening? Surely not!

Quickly he dropped the sealed envelope into the hall box.

700 Freshmen Sign for Autumn Term at U. of Chicago

Seven hundred freshmen registered for classes yesterday as freshman week began at the University of Chicago. Most of the women students listed medicine or teaching as their desired professions, although one wants to be a teacher of abnormal children. The men's tastes run to journalism, business, and law, but one hopes to become a fashion designer, another a city manager.

President Robert Maynard Hutchins told the new students that they were free to "seek the truth and grow up to become free men and women." William E. Webbe, student chairman of the social committee, announced that social fee books would be placed on sale at $1.50 each. This step, he explained, was to dispel misconceptions about the lack of social activities on the Midway. The books will contain tickets for five social functions on the campus during the autumn quarter.

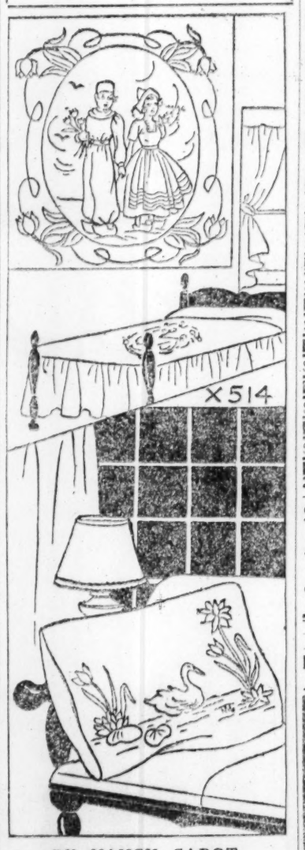
Open Missionary Institute Today at the McCormick Y

The second interdenominational missionary institute under the auspices of the woman's department of the Chicago Church federation will be held today and tomorrow in the McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A., 1001 North Dearborn street. Dr. Sam Higginbottom, veteran missionary from Allahabad, India, will address a mass-meeting for both men and women at 8 o'clock this evening in the Fourth Presbyterian church.

Transfer Pattern Suggests Duet of Striking Motifs



BY NANCY CABOT.

The hot iron transfer pattern for embroidery, No. 514, contains two striking motifs which may be used for various purposes in home decoration. The Dutch boy and girl may be used as a wall hanging, for the center of a bedspread, or for a pillow. The embroidery stitch is done in outline. Swans and water lilies always are excellent choices in embroidery because they work up so effectively and possess all the grace and dignity of the subjects from which they are adapted.

For the hot iron transfer pattern, No. X-514, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated; you probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines. It's this mass that helps a bowel movement.

The common sense thing to do is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast may give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal-tonic, vitamin B_1. All-Bran is not a drug, not a medicine. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Walk Your Way Into Shapely Contours of Legs and Ankles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

If anything, the skirts are up a notch, with legs and ankles becoming a sharper focus for observing eyes.

The fall stockings are a shade or two darker, which helps the plump leg.

Regarding this feature, we would beg women to desist from wearing ugly dark gray hosiery on the erroneous theory that it reduces the apparent size of legs and ankles. It merely calls attention to them. We do not speak of the extremely fine thread hosiery, of course, through which the flesh tint shows. We speak of the heavy grade of dark stockings whose heaviness thickens the calf and ankle regardless of color.

We will grant that slenderizing the legs is one of the most difficult forms of reducing. For some ungodly reason that fat clings harder than anywhere else. On the other hand, we have seen amazing changes in leg contours accomplished with exercise and professional massage.

If one is a general reduction case, the leg fat will be removed automatically with the rest of the weight loss, but too often the leg weight is not allied with all-over weight, and this is the kind one has to fight with courage and infinite patience.

Walking does not sound like a particularly interesting form of leg reducing exercise, but it is effective. But we mean WALKING, not sauntering along window shopping. Not just going a block or two, returning to report a long, long walk. No, you've got to make a brisk business of walking if you want that leg silhouette improved. One mile a day at first at a fast clip. Two miles later. When you're tempted to ride, don't. Walk instead.

Walk part way to work and part way home if you can't manage the whole trip on foot. And when you walk, walk with a spring, up high on the broad forepart of the foot and down. Up and down. It may seem a bit bouncy at first. Don't mind. Just keep on bouncing along until you feel a pull on the leg muscles. That's what's going to pry the fat loose.

If you can afford it, get yourself lined up with a good massage parlor which features the leg reducing machines and treatments.

League of Women Voters.

The board of directors of the Cook County League of Women Voters will hold its first fall meeting from 10:30 to 2 o'clock today at league headquarters, 225 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. William M. Bryant is president.

Practice makes perfect was never so true a maxim as when applied to making yeast bread and rolls. Few women have what is known as "beginner's luck" when working with yeast doughs, but there is an almost invariably progressive improvement the second, third, and succeeding trials.

Proper fermentation and the right amount of kneading are requisite to good bread and rolls. Don't let a dough rise for too long, don't let the "warm place" in which it is left to rise be warmer than 80 to 82 degrees, and don't fail to knead the dough until it is elastic, pliable, and smooth of texture.

Parkerhouse Rolls.

[1½ dozen.]

2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup scalded milk
1 cake compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 egg beaten
About 3½ cups flour

Put shortening, sugar, and salt in a bowl and pour over them the scalded milk. Crumble yeast into lukewarm water and mix it to a thin paste. When milk mixture has cooled to lukewarm, add yeast solution and beaten egg. Stir in flour gradually to form a soft dough. Beat vigorously, put in a greased bowl, cover, and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Toss on a lightly floured board and roll or pat out to ½ inch in thickness. Cut with a large, round biscuit cutter, brush each circle of dough with butter, and crease down the center with the dull edge of a knife. Fold over and press the edges together. Place rolls on a greased baking sheet, brush lightly with butter, cover with a clean cloth, and let stand in a warm place until they have doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 400 degrees, for 15 to 20 minutes.

There are innumerable variations for these rolls, as for any yeast roll. They're changed into cloverleaf rolls if, instead of being shaped with a cookie cutter, the dough is pinched off into small balls, and these are arranged in greased muffin pans in sets of three, to rise. They become cinnamon rolls if the dough is rolled or patted out, buttered, sprinkled with cinnamon and sugar, rolled up, and sliced off.

Orange rolls may be made cinnamon roll fashion if the mixture used as filling consists of creamed butter and sugar [½ cup of each] plus the grated rind of an orange. Butterhorns are made by rolling the dough into a large circle, cutting it in wedge shaped pieces, spreading with butter, and then rolling the wedges, starting at the wide end.

Finger rolls may be made by cutting the rolled dough into narrow strips 2½ inches long, then lightly rolling each strip. For crisp salad sticks, the same procedure is followed, but the finger rolls are brushed with butter and spaced an inch apart on the baking sheet.

Graham Refrigerator Rolls.

[3 dozen.]

½ cup sugar
¼ cup shortening
1 tablespoon salt
2 cups scalded milk
2 cakes compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs
5 cups white bread flour
2 cups graham or whole wheat flour

Put sugar, shortening, and salt in a bowl and pour the scalding milk over them. Crumble yeast into lukewarm water and blend. Add to the milk mixture after it has been cooled to lukewarm. Stir in the well beaten eggs. Add 3 cups flour and beat batter until it is smooth. Add remainder of flour and mix well. Put batter into a greased bowl, cover tightly, and keep in the refrigerator overnight, or until ready to use. Form dough into small balls and put them in greased muffin pans, two or three balls to a cup. Cover pans and let the rolls rise until their bulk has doubled. Then bake at 400 degrees for about 20 minutes.

Love Dies in Girl's Heart, but He Hopes

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"My home is in one part of the state. I have relatives in another part of it. A year ago I went to my relatives for what I intended to be a visit. Instead, I got a job and stayed. Within a month I met a girl. We became deeply attached. I loved her and still do. She told me she loved me, so we became engaged and began to make plans for marriage. We got along perfectly, never a cross word between us.

"A few months ago I got word from home that my mother was very ill with an ailment the doctors pronounce incurable. They wrote me that it was only a matter of time and they thought I should come home. Through worrying and everything, and a slackening up in work on the job I had, I lost the position. When I told my girl to whom I was engaged about it all, she informed me that she had found out that she did not love me any more. That upset me more. Having lost my job and my girl, and with my mother near death, I had a bad week of it. Anyway, I came back home. My mother is still living, although she never will be better. And I got a job back here, a better one than I had upstate.

"I get a letter about once a week from the girl. She writes, wishing me the best of everything and tells me how sorry she feels that things took the turn they did with her. The worst of it is, I love her still. Could you make any suggestions for me to follow to get the girl back again? O. J."

That's life for you, O. J. Troubles never come singly, do they? You got a heavy measure of trial and disappointment meted out to you all at once.

But into every life, at one time or another, comes such a series of blows. You just happened to get yours young, O. J.

It is tragic when love suddenly ends, as in the girl's case, a state over which she probably has no control. She is honest, at least. She does not want to lead you on when she knows in her heart she can't go through with it.

Discriminate in Advantages You Give Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Some parents who have had no education strive to give their children that particular thing they have missed. They work, even slave, to keep their children in school long after their working papers would be obtainable. If it's a still higher goal of education they are aiming for they put their children through college.

Other parents who have known toil and hardship and poverty want to give their children ease and riches. A father who has worked since he was 13 or 14 will be spurred by the ambition to lavish cars, club memberships, and luxurious living at college upon his son. A mother who had no pretty clothes nor chance to play as a young girl will want to spare her daughter duties and obligations, and will indulge her every whim and fancy and try to shelter her from the workaday world.

Sometimes this desire for ease and riches for one's children benefits them. Sometimes it doesn't. A great deal depends upon the parents' wisdom and sense of values, and a great deal depends upon the qualities they are able to pass on to their children—that is: their heredity.

It is a beautiful impulse in parents to want to give their children something better in education or material advantages than they have had themselves, but it should be done counting the cost. Wise parents know this. Many a wealthy man has weakened and overindulged his children to their detriment, but also many wealthy men know the real values of life and rear their children with those in mind.

Some mothers will manage thriftily so their children can have certain real advantages; others will without real need go out to work for all of every day so that their children will have better clothes for school and church, or lessons in this or that, depriving them of their own presence at home.

There will be more about this tomorrow.

planned to be married as soon as Miss Nicol arrived in Germany, but the present unsettled condition in Europe has caused them to postpone their wedding plans. If conditions look more favorable Mrs. Nicol, Miss Nicol, and the Beckers hope to sail some time next month.

Letters and a telephone call from London from Dr. Trevor Stamp and Gordon Padley will keep Mrs. Stamp and Mrs. Padley, who have been visiting their mother, Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth, in this country for a few weeks more. They will not sail for their homes in England until the situation in Europe looks calmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse, who still are in Germany as far as their children know, have not sent word yet just when they are returning, but they are expected in Lake Forest next month. Their son-in-law, Baron Beck von Peccoz, is sailing Oct. 14 in the Bremen to return to Germany. Baroness Beck and the children will remain in Lake Forest this winter.

Arts Club Will Open Season with a Tea.

The Arts club will open for the season with a tea from 4 until 6 o'clock on Oct. 6. The first exhibition will not be hung until Nov. 1. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, president, will be at home for the opening tea. She is expected to arrive in Chicago the latter part of this week from Osterville on Cape Cod, where the Goodspeeds have a summer home. Fortunately their house is in a protected spot, so they suffered little from the recent storm.

Chicago relatives and close friends have had word that Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers are well and safe and that they planned to leave their Watch Hill, R. I., home for Chicago today. Their house suffered little damage except for doors and windows being blown in during the recent hurricane, but the house next to theirs was demolished.

Mrs. John J. Mitchell is expected to return the end of this week from Santa Barbara, where the Mitchells spend every summer. Mr. Mitchell came back to Chicago a week or two ago.

Mrs. Mitchell's mother, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, is returning tomorrow from her home, the Timbers, near Traverse City, Mich.

Miss Florence Bartlett is enjoying an early fall holiday at her New Mexico home. She and Mrs. Arthur G. Bissell returned three weeks ago from a trip abroad and Miss Bartlett went south immediately to spend six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Mather-Smith, who are spending this month in Winnetka with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Allen Turner, will return to their home in Oakland, Fla., on Oct. 1.

Laura Lea are the names Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Price Jr. have given to their infant daughter, born a week ago today at the Evanston hospital. She is the first child of the former Gretchen Onderdonk and Mr. Price, and the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Price and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Onderonk of Winnetka.

The roller skating Derby at the Coliseum will provide after dinner entertainment at a party the Tavern club has arranged for tonight. Alfred MacArthur, Leon Mandel, Hays Macfarland, Emile Rosier, William M. Hillborn, and George Hartford are among those who have made reservations for dinner at the club preceding the Derby.

CUBS BATTLE PIRATES TODAY; DEAN TO PITCH

DEFEAT CARDS, 6-3; TRAIL BY GAME AND HALF

Face Tobin in Series Opener.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs this hopeful morning are 1½ games behind the league leading Pirates. Bill Lee, Stan Hack, Carl Reynolds, and the rest of the lads gained a half game on the Pittsburghers when they whipped the Cardinals 6 to 3 in the series final in Wrigley field yesterday. Lee registered his twenty-first victory, the most he ever won in the majors, raised the Cub winning streak to seven straight and 17 out of 20, and shed nary a tear because he failed to set a new National league record by accomplishing his fifth straight shutout.

The Pirates will open a three game series in Wrigley field today and if Dizzy Dean has his say the Cubs will be a half game out of first place come dusk tonight. For Diz is going to pitch. He's going to make his first start since Aug. 20. The big boy is rarin' to go and points to his excellence in three relief appearances to prove that Manager Gabby Hartnett was no chump when he nominated the great man. Jim Tobin will oppose him.

Gabby Is Secretive.

There was some attempted secrecy about the selection of Dean. Wise tracks on the bench before yesterday's game, reminiscent of the way Connie Mack nursed along Howard Ehmke for one big shot in the opener of the 1929 world series, failed to bring a committal blink of the eye from either Manager Hartnett or Dean.

Gabby would not make the announcement till the ninth inning of the game, though he might have caused much pleasure among the boys in the counting room if he had given more time for ballyhoo. There had been a general suspicion of the Dean announcement when Lee was not held over.

Cubs Make Hits Count.

But let's get back to yesterday's success. The Cubs kept their hit total under ten as usual, but they wasted few smacks. They made their six runs on nine hits. The Cards made 12 hits, but gleaned only half as many runs as the Cubs.

Stan Hack scored four of the Chicago runs, Carl Reynolds the other two. Stan opened the Cub offensive with a single and later scored on Demaree's single. In the third Hack tripled and scored on Demaree's single. In the fifth Hack walked and scored on a double by Herman. In the seventh Stan doubled and scored on a single by Demaree. The Cards didn't keep Hack away from the plate until they retired him in the final inning. As for Reynolds' scoring: Carl scored on Collins' long fly after tripling in the fourth and he scored again in the eighth after leading off with a single.

Cleanup Hitters Hitless.

All the hitting was done by four men, Hack, Herman, Demaree, and Reynolds. Augie Galan, the cleanup hitter, Hartnett, Collins, Jurges, and Lee all failed to get anything that looked like a hit off the two Cardinal pitchers, former Cubs, Curt Davis and Lon Warneke.

Lee became the leading National league pitcher in point of victories when he achieved No. 21. Though Paul Derringer beat him to No. 20, Derringer has blown two shots at his 21st. Lee's best major league record prior to this season was 20 victories and six defeats in 1935. The Cubs gave 40,000 for him after he had won 21 games and lost 9 for Columbus in 1933. That record is the same as he

Traynor Picks Tobin, Klinger, Bauers to Hurl

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 26.—(AP)—While listening to returns of Chicago's victory over St. Louis today, Pie Traynor declared his Pittsburgh Pirates "don't expect any help and they're going to win 'em themselves."

"If we win five of our remaining seven games, it doesn't make any difference how many the Cubs win," Traynor said as he fidgeted with a cigaret. "And we'll get those five."

The Pirates left tonight to play the Cubs three games in Chicago.

"I'm going to play my three aces—Jim Tobin, Bob Klinger, and Russ Bauers—one right after the other. We've won eight of our last ten games and these three have accounted for six of those eight. That's doing pretty good in my book," Traynor continued.

"We don't care who Chicago pitches against us. They don't have anybody who could put more on the ball than Paul Derringer did yesterday for Cincinnati. He had everything and we hit him hard."

PIRATES DUE EARLY

The Pirates are due to arrive at the Union station at 8:30 o'clock this morning. They will go directly to their headquarters in the Belmont hotel.

Eight of the swarm of photographers in Wrigley field yesterday prevented Stan Hack from scoring from third base on what would have been a wild pitch. The hypo squad was banked solid a few feet to the right of the plate waiting for shots at Hack breaking the tie which existed at the time when Davis caromed a wild pitch off Owen's glove. Owen plunged into the huddle and got the ball. Hack could have scored easily had he been able to see just where the ball was. The interference made no difference in the score, for Demaree promptly came through with a single which scored Hack after all. The umpires, however, scattered the photogs, but with sympathetic appreciation that the lads simply were earning an honest dollar.

Ducky Medwick was out of yesterday's starting lineup because he hurt his shoulder when he sprawled in going after Reynolds' hit in Sunday's game.

Sacramento, San Francisco Meet in Coast Finals

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Sacramento and San Francisco, which finished third and fourth, respectively, in the regular season, will open the final playoffs of the Pacific Coast league here Wednesday. Sacramento eliminated Los Angeles, which finished first in regular play, and San Francisco, which qualified by only two percentage points for a playoff berth, beat the second place Seattle club.

If—

Following the three game Cub-Pirate series opening in Wrigley field today, the Cubs will wind up the season with three battles with the Cardinals, while the Pirates are playing four contests with the Reds.

If the Cubs win two of the three Pirate games and sweep the three against St. Louis, they can take the National league pennant, if Pittsburgh breaks even with the Reds. The final standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	90	62	.592
Pittsburgh	88	62	.587

On the same basis of two to one against the Pirates and three straight over the Cards, the Cubs would fail by a single percentage point, if Pittsburgh should win three of its four games with the Reds. The standing in that case:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pittsburgh	89	61	.593
Chicago	90	62	.592

If the Cubs lose two games to the Pirates, Pittsburgh would need only one victory in its four games with the Reds, even if the Cubs should sweep the Card series. This would make the final standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pittsburgh	88	62	.587
Chicago	89	63	.586

The rivals cannot finish in a tie because of the difference in total games played, unless there is more rain.

Clean Out Wins by Three Lengths in Belmont Feature

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Vera S. Bragg's 6 year old mare, Clean Out, gained her third straight victory in the Firearms purse that topped the Belmont Park program today. Favored at 8 to 5, Clean Out, under Johnny Longden's guidance, spurted to the front rounding the stretch turn and won by three lengths over Joe W. Brown's Spillway. G. N. W. McNaughton's Princess Bull was third.

Sox Open with Indians Today in Cleveland

Cleveland, O., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Manager Jimmy Dykes will report to the White Sox here tomorrow after attending a funeral in Philadelphia, and plans to start his regulars against the Cleveland Indians in the series opener.

The Indians, slated for a third-place finish unless the Red Sox lose practically all their remaining games, plan to use Rookies Oscar Grimes at shortstop and Tommy Irwin at second base.

Both players have had a good year with the Milwaukee American association club and each has a chance to break into the regular lineup next season. Manager Oscar Vitt, with that thought in mind, wishes to get a good look at the youngsters in action against good pitching, such as the White Sox will offer in Monty Stratton, Thornton Lee and Johnny Rigney during the three-day stand.

Lyn Lary, regular shortstop for the Indians this season, is reported to be through here and Odell Hale at second base, leaves much to be desired if the Indians hope to catch the Yankees next season.

Dykes plans to use the regular lineup because of the possibility of a city series. However, the Sox from Dykes down to the lowliest recruit, are pulling for the Cubs to win the National league pennant, despite the fact that it would cost the Sox a few tons of coal if they do.

WHIZZER WHITE AND PIRATES WHIP BOSTON

Boston, Mass., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Whizzer White and the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Boston Shamrocks, 16 to 6, tonight. White threw four passes that enabled the Pirates to travel 83 yards overhead. He also scored their second touchdown on a two yard buck in the fourth period, after the Pirates had traveled 78 yards in six plays, including White's 30 yard pass to Eggs Manske, former Northwestern and Bear end.

Paul McDonough opened Pittsburgh's scoring in the first period with a 35 yard placement field goal and Tom Burnette scored the first touchdown by picking up a fumble by his teammate, Swede Hansen, and racing 20 yards to the goal line.

Giants Vote to Cut Series Split Into 31 Full Shares

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The New York Giants, whether they finish second, third, or fourth in the National league race, have voted thirty-one full shares of the world series money to regular players who went through the full season, Manager Bill Terry said today.

NORTHWESTERN ELEVEN HOLDS BLOCKING DRILL

Prepares for Game with Kansas State.

Highly critical of last Saturday's performance against the freshmen, Coach Lynn Waldorf opened a week of intensive drills for Northwestern's football team yesterday in preparation for Saturday's opener with Kansas State.

Waldorf regards Kansas State as the strongest opening opponent to face the Wildcats since he became coach four years ago and on the basis of Saturday's showing he is extremely dubious about Northwestern's chances of success.

"The freshman game showed that we were not as far along as we hoped to be at this time and also that we are not as strong in some positions as we expected to be," Waldorf said.

Brush Up Blocking.

Principal faults which need brushing up this week, Waldorf said, are blocking and passing. Inability to shake any backs loose on long runs and completing only three out of eighteen passes indicate the need of additional work in these two departments, he said.

The freshman game revealed that a strong three way fight for the full back position is well under way between Jay Laskay and George McGurn, juniors, and Francis Purtell, sophomore. Both Laskay and McGurn showed marked improvement in their line smashing over last year, while Purtell's kicking places him in a strategic position.

Ryan Has Competition.

Strong competition for Jack Ryan has developed at left half, where Red Hahnenstein and Paul Soper, sophomores, turned in impressive performances against the frosh. Both are good ball carriers and passers.

The Wildcats will face Kansas State minus the services of Tom Eby, regular left end, who sustained a leg injury in the freshman game which will keep him on the sidelines for over a week. He will be replaced by either Ted Grefe, rangy junior, or Jim Smith, sophomore, from Aurora.

KANSAS STATE HAS POWER.

Manhattan, Kas., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Two line smashing full backs, Bob Briggs and Elmer Hackney, will form the spearhead of the Kansas State attack against Northwestern Saturday. Coach Wesley L. Fry has been rehersing the squad in ball carrying tactics since the beginning of practice and believes the team's most powerful offensive weapon is either Briggs or Hackney crashing into the opponents' forward wall.

NO COAL, NO HOT WATER FOR PREP FOOTBALL SQUAD

The Ottawa High school football team is hoping for an extended Indian summer. After practice yesterday the squad of forty raced into the gymnasium for showers. There wasn't any hot water.

Labor trouble was given as the explanation resulting in the discontinuance of intramural sports and the physical education classes.

The school had only a small supply of coal and no deliveries were being made because of the failure of five janitors to join a union. Board members said they were not empowered to force any employé to join a union.

Brooklyn Dodgers May Change Lineups for Cards

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—One or two changes in the lineup are likely when the Brooklyn Dodgers meet the Chicago Cardinals at Ebbets field Sunday. Stan Kosel, 195 pound full back, and Wendell Butcher, 200 pound half back, impressed Coach Potsy Clark at Paterson Sunday and may start.

Another Point of View.

Recently "John Purdue" listed eleven Purdue All-Americans and complained that none of them had received THE TRIBUNE'S Most Valuable Player Award. This is really a tribute to Purdue team play. Football depends on all around team play. If a club is good and yet no one player is a standout it means the team coördination is nearly perfect.

HARTNETT GETS THE CREDIT FOR CLUB'S REVIVAL

Rises Steadily Under New Leader.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

"Traveling Uphill with Gabby Hartnett." That would make a fitting title if the portly gentleman now managing the Cubs should feel the desire to take a whirl at literary work. All that Gabby would have to do would be to detail in his own inimitable New England style, the ground his team has covered since the day he began carrying player duties on one shoulder and managerial cares on the other.

Gabby Hartnett.

Hartnett's volume might become a best seller, especially if the Cubs should happen to stray into the world series because they really have covered the ground.

Starts on a Rainy Day.

Hartnett could start his book from July 20, the rainy day on which he supplanted Charley Grimm as boss. The Cubs were in fourth place at the time, but by the time Gabby actually made his maiden managerial effort the next day they were third. They had moved without exerting themselves, because the Reds played a night game July 20 and lost. This game, however, didn't change the interval between the Cubs and the leading Pirates. It remained at five and one-half laps.

For a time Owner P. K. Wrigley's surprising shift of managers availed nothing. The new broom, as the owner termed it, failed to sweep effectively. The Cubs continued to show the same weaknesses that had cost Grimm his job. By the end of July they were eight games behind. They stayed either at this mark or close to it until Aug. 18. On the 20th they touched their season's low. They slipped to nine games from the top and, with both the Pirates and Giants hot at the time, there wasn't much room for pennant thoughts.

The Procession Starts.

By Sept. 4 their predicament became less trying. They nudged themselves to seven games from the top. Then the new broom took hold, mainly because of sudden effectiveness against the teams blocking their upward clumb—the Pirates and Giants. The seven game margin began to shrink. They whittled it down to two and one-half games by Sept. 14. It was still the same on Sept. 17. They dropped to three and one-half the next day and remained that way through Sept. 22. The next day, by whipping the Phillies twice, they cut it to two games and that's what it was until yesterday.

Cubs Start Slowly.

The Giants and Pirates put on healthy winning streaks at the start of the season and the race hadn't gone far before the Cubs were much in arrears. By May 17, four weeks away from the starting post, they were trailing by six and one-half games. A boom set in and by May 25 they were two behind. They stayed in this neighborhood until June 3, when the margin was reduced to one and one-half games by Bill Lee's three hit shutout against Boston. The next afternoon French reduced it to a half game.

On June 5 when Carleton beat the Phillies, the Cubs enjoyed their first appearance as first placers. It was only by a half game margin, but it was comforting. They stayed there through June 6. On June 7 the Giants, who became the challenging team—the Pirates having taken one of their periodical dives—came to Chicago. The Cubs knocked them off in the first of a four game series to make a one and a half game lead, but the pennant bee didn't buzz for long. The Giants won the next three to take the lead.

DAVEY DAY AND WALLY HALLY TO FIGHT TONIGHT

Lightweights to Meet in Marigold Arena.

Davey Day will defend his high rating in the lightweight division in a ten round bout tonight in Marigold outdoor arena, Broadway and Grace street, against Wally Hally, who made his mark in big league competition on the Pacific coast.

Hally may not wreck his Chicago opponent's championship aspirations, but indications are that the fighter from Los Angeles will give Day one of the hardest struggles he has encountered.

In forty-four contests during a four year career Hally has scored thirty-three triumphs. He earned four draws and lost seven. Three of these setbacks were suffered at the hands of Baby Arizmendi and a fourth at hands of Henry Armstrong. Day has a string of eleven victories. Victims of this chain include Harvey Woods, Norment Quarles, Pete Cara, Tommy Speigal, Charley Gomer [twice], Johnny Morro, Enrico Venturi, Johnny Durso, Jimmy Garrison, and Charley Baxter.

Dick Kist, Danville 147 pounder, clashes with George Nelson in the five round semi-final. Contests of four rounds bring together Norman Roth and Joe O'Signac, Gene Spencer and Earl Gibbs, and George Nyberg and Georgie White.

Francis Smith, Aurora lightweight, is paired with Jesse Yarber of Waukegan, Ill., in a feature encounter on the amateur card this evening in Northwest stadium. . . . Harry Hannon, head of the newly formed Windy City Boxing club, will hold cards in the Park Casino Oct. 26, Nov. 2 and 9. . . . Chairman Joe Triner presided at yesterday's meeting of the Illinois athletic commission. During the session Buck Everett was reinstated after being under suspension four years for an alleged runout of a contest with Joe Louis in Marigold. At the same time Illinois concurred with the California commission's suspension of Eddie Simms in the wake of the Cleveland heavyweight's unsatisfactory fight with Phil Brubaker.

Donald S. McLeod, Chicago Stadium manager, has postponed application for Nov. 18 on which to conduct the fight inaugural pending receipt of confirmation on the matter from James Norris Jr., vice president of the building. Nate Lewis, recently reappointed Stadium matchmaker, and Norris are to confer in Detroit tomorrow, during which time plans for six shows will be outlined for presentation this winter. F. M.

Ferebee Plays in Milwaukee, Chicago Today

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Limping sorely but sporting a wide grin, J. Smith Ferebee, Chicago's golfing broker, passed the halfway mark in his scheduled 600 hole play in four days and in eight different cities here tonight.

Flood lighted trucks were wheeled along the Norwood Hills course as Ferebee swung along on his final round of the day. The last eighteen holes took him almost two hours, but he came in with an 87 and a grand total of 332 strokes. His other eighteen hole scores here were 84, 78, and 83.

Touring the long Blue Hills course in Kansas City before arriving here by airplane, Ferebee posted 333 for seventy-two holes to give him a total of 665 strokes for his second day's work. In his earlier rounds here Ferebee posted scores of 84, 78, and 83.

Ferebee left by plane for Chicago, where he planned to stop overnight, moving on at daybreak to Milwaukee, where he is to play seventy-two holes. The other seventy-two holes he has scheduled for the day are to be played at Olympia Fields, near Chicago. Wednesday he plans to finish his marathon in New York and Philadelphia.

Windy City League Playoffs in 2d Round

Yankees Beat Red Sox, 4 to 3; Won't Scout Cubs and Pirates

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Rookie Pitcher Steve Sundra pulled the New York Yankees out of the doldrums today by beating the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 3. It was the American league champions' second victory in their last ten games.

Bill Dickey.

Joe Glenn, second string catcher who replaced Bill Dickey, ill with ptomaine poisoning, was the chief factor in the Yanks' winning three run rally in the sixth. He doubled scoring Selkirk and Gordon and crossed the plate when Pinky Higgins threw Sundra's grounder past first.

Cubs Defeat Cards; Gain on Pirates

Lee Finally Surrenders Run.

The Cubs stepped out into a 1 to 0 lead in the first inning. After Lee had made the Cards pop three flies to the infield, Hack opened the offensive with a single to center and advanced while Myers was throwing out Herman. Demaree then smashed out the first of his essential singles, scoring Hack. Galan popped to Myers and Reynolds bounced to Mize.

Lee's chance to set a new National league shutout record vanished when the Cards tied the score with two out in the second inning. With one out, Mize doubled off Reynolds' shoelaces. Brown was called out on strikes, but Owen doubled to right center. Demaree made a hard try for the ball but couldn't quite get to it. Mize scored to stop Lee's string of scoreless innings at 39. Lee tossed out Myers.

Hack and Demaree put on the second of their three productive collaborations to put the Cubs ahead in the third. After Lee had fanned, Hack tripled off the right field wall, held on while Myers threw out Herman and scored on Demaree's single to right.

Reynolds Hits Triple.

The Cubs' third run was rung up in the fourth inning. Reynolds tripled to right, held third on Hartnett's tap to Myers and scored on Collins' long fly to Moore.

In the seventh the Hack-Demaree act was put on for the third time, on this occasion at the expense of Warneke. Hack doubled to left center, and, after Herman had flied out, scored on Demaree's single to center.

The Cards had a little harmless fun for themselves in the eighth. After Stu Martin had fanned, Slaughter, batting for Bordagaray singled. Padgett doubled to right center, scoring Slaughter, and took third on the throw to the plate. Padgett scored on Mize's bouncer to Herman.

Reynolds added the final run of the game in the eighth on his single, Warneke's error on Hartnett's bunt, Collins' sacrifice, an intentional pass to Jurges, and Lee's long fly.

Schnabel Beats VonSchacht in White City Mat Windup

Hans Schnabel won the wrestling windup in White City last night when Fredrick Von Schacht got caught in the ropes and was counted out by Referee Tony Hadjich. The time was 32 minutes 4 seconds. Von Schacht substituted for King Kong, who was injured in an automobile accident Sunday morning. Pete Schu made short work of Mike Markoff in four minutes three seconds; Angelo Martinez tossed George Masor in 11:32; Rudy Kay threw Otto Schnabel in 18:00, and Roy Richenbacher beat Fritz Schnabel in 13:20.

White Team Takes Lead in Coliseum Roller Derby

The White team went into the lead in the roller skating Derby in the Coliseum last night on the skating of Johnny Rosasco, captain of the boys' team, and bespectacled Ivy King, woman's world champion, captain of the girls' White team. The score is 77 to 72.

UNSELFISH WINS AGAIN AND HIS OWNER PROSPERS

Mrs. Emick Proves She's a Good Picker.

Unselfish furnished additional proof at Hawthorne yesterday afternoon that he never should have been dropped into $3,250 claiming race last June 17 at Lincoln Fields. On that afternoon, Unselfish raced for William O'Toole's Blue Ridge stock farm and was beaten a length by Shining Heels.

Mrs. A. M. Creech claimed Shining Heels that day and later won the Sheridan handicap with the filly, Mrs. George Emick took Unselfish, and though the colt has yet to win a stake, he has more than paid out his claiming price.

Unselfish ran six furlongs in 1:13, fastest time since the big rains came, to defeat Sly Gal and Woodsaw yesterday. It was the sixth consecutive money effort for the son of Carlaris and Nell McDonald and he has been out of the money only once since his new owners acquired him.

Woodsaw Is Favorite.

Unselfish was ridden by Henry Hauer. The crowd made Woodsaw the favorite and at the start Woodsaw and Unselfish raced together, content to let Opera Star and Sly Gal make the pace. When the far turn was reached the trailers made their moves. Woodsaw chose the rail with Unselfish running wide.

Hauer's move proved the wiser, for Unselfish was not hindered as he moved up steadily on the outside and drew away from his rivals under pressure. Woodsaw was forced to come out from the rail in the stretch and the best he could do was third, as Sly Gal held on for second money, a length back of Unselfish. Unselfish paid $7.60.

Favorites Are Disappointment.

Not a favorite was able to get home first during the first five races, although Doug Brashear, winner of the fifth, was a well backed second choice to Le Miserable, which ran second.

The daily double on Firm Hand and Our David paid $170.60. Grape Vine, in the third, surprised the crowd and her owner as well. She was the first winner in three weeks for Mrs. Emil Denemark's extensive stable.

Grape Vine, a juvenille, had scored once in eleven starts this year. She drew away from her field at the start and, after racing wide in the early stages, speeded up in the stretch to win by two and a half lengths from Master Mort, with Gay Jane third. Grape Vine paid $26.40.

Lady Fitz Finally Wins.

A 6 year old maiden, Lady Fitz, captured the fourth, and then came Doug Brashear to make the form players feel better. Le Miserable set the pace, but Jocky McLean always had Doug Brashear in a contending position and they drew clear in the stretch to win with ease. Cold Spill finished third. Doug Brashear paid $6 for his first Chicago victory.

Mrs. E. O. Hanna's ability to pick place horses as well as winners won her the $500 Hawthorne rating contest yesterday. Mrs. Hanna, who lives at 2726 Pine Grove, picked five winners in the first seven races, along with eight others. Her four second choices broke the tie.

St. Paul Wins, 7 to 1, from Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 26.—(AP)—St. Paul, 1938 American association champion, gained a three games to one lead over Kansas City in the final playoff series tonight by defeating the Blues, 7 to 1. Art Herring received credit for the victory, although he was taken out for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning.

Jack La Rocca, who started for Kansas City, was wild, his two passes and doubles by Ollie Bejma and Bob Boken giving St. Paul a lead in the first inning which it held. Tony York of the Saints got his eighth straight hit of the series in his first time at bat, but then was stopped. He had three hits for the game. Score:

INDIANA RETURNS TO DETAIL WORK FOR OHIO STATE

McMillin Concentrates on Blocking.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Seeking to correct defects revealed in Saturday's practice game, Coach Bo McMillin sent the Indiana university football squad through a lengthy drill on fundamentals today.

Blocking for the wing backs and ends was stressed as the Hoosiers renewed preparations for their opener against Ohio State at Columbus Saturday. Russ Higginbotham, Anderson sophomore, who was shifted from end to the back field, was impressive. Other bright spots included the line plunging of Full Back Joe Tofil, the passing of Ray Bringle, and the ball carrying of Red Zimmer and Floyd Tipmore, all sophomores. Vincent Oliver, Whiting veteran, and Joe Nicholson, Evansville sophomore, were engaged in a fight for one of the starting half back assignments.

OHIO STATE CHANGES PLAYS.

Columbus, O., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Coach Francis Schmidt made over the Ohio State back field today in working plays around Jim Langhurst and Forrest Fordham to replace the injured Johnny Rabb at full back. Many of the plays to be used against Indiana Saturday had Raab as the ball carrier.

The remainder of the lineup seems to be about settled. Bliss and Bartschy will be at ends, Schoenbaum and Kaplanoff at tackles, Hoffmayer and Marino at guards, and Magg at center. Scott has definitly taken the left half position while Kabealo probably will be at quarter back and the choices at right half favor Zadworny

GOPHERS SEEK RESERVES

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Because of funeral services for President Lotus D. Coffman, who died last week, University of Minnesota football practice was curtailed today. Work was confined to a half hour scrimmage, within which the reserves who did not get into the Washington game Saturday, were used.

Saturday's game indicated to Coach Bernie Bierman that the Gophers need to build up their reserve strength. Although 31 men were used against the Huskies, only 17 showed ability for regular duty. With a heavy schedule coming up, and Nebraska next in line, it is imperative that the Gophers have more reserve strength.

Coach Sig Harris returned from scouting the varsity freshman scrimmage at Nebraska. He found the Huskers will have more offensive punch than last year. The Huskers have lost virtually a whole line and two star half backs who figured heavily in the defeat of the Gophers last year.

HUSKERS STUDY PLAYS.

Team physicians, however, said they believed he would be able to play in Saturday's opener with Minnesota at Minneapolis. Brock did not participate in today's drill, which Coach Biff Jones centered around Minnesota plays brought back by Assistant Coach Harold Browne, who scouted the Minnesota-Washington game last Saturday.

MAROONS CANCEL SCRIMMAGE.

Hot weather yesterday kept Chicago's Maroons out of their heavy uniforms and forced cancellation of the scrimmage session Coach Clark Shaughnessy had scheduled. Instead the Maroons went through signal drill and practiced kicking, passing and defensive tactics.

With the greenest line in the Big Ten, Maroon coaches are frankly worried about the opening game against Bradley Saturday. In its own league the veteran Bradley line has not been scored on in two years, and last year the Peoria team held Iowa to a 7 to 7 tie until the last minutes of the game. Having watched Bradley defeat St. Louis university last week, Shaughnessy rates Panish, Bradley half back, good enough for a conference back field.

Backs Show Improvement.

Sophomores Willis Littleford and Joe Howard seem to have clinched the starting positions at end. Dave Wiedeman appears certain to start at left tackle, but right tackle is a tossup between Woodrow Wilson, Don Wilson, John Bex, and Hugh Rendleman. Walter Maurovich will be at right guard, but left guard is being contested by Ted Fink, John Wichman, and others. Jack Plunkett has the call at center but may lose out to Jim Casses.

The back field remains the bright spot, and stress seems to be much improved over last year, but the backs can't do all of the blocking and tackling.

PURDUE MAY LOSE HUMPHREY.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Purdue's victory over Detroit Saturday was a costly one. As the Boilermakers opened drill this afternoon for the Butler game which will mark the first invasion of Indianapolis in more than thirty years, it was learned that Co-Captain Paul Humphrey may be lost to the squad until after the Big Ten opener with Minnesota a week from Saturday due to a chipped bone in his left wrist.

With Humphrey out of action, the Boilermaker center duties will fall to Augie Morningstar, junior letterman, and Ted Axton, sophomore.

Lou Brock, who was carried from the field in the final quarter with a leg injury, merely suffered a severe charley horse and is expected to be back in uniform in time to take his post against Butler, defending Indiana intercollegiate champions, on Saturday. Dr. Gordon A. Thomas, Purdue team physician, also expressed the opinion that Co-Captain Joe Mihal, left tackle, who suffered a slight sprain in his back, will be ready for action by the middle of the week.

Test Defense at Wisconsin for Marquette

Madison, Wis., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—With two weeks of hard work in the background, Wisconsin's football squad was sent through a brisk defensive drill this afternoon in preparation for the first game of the season against Marquette here Saturday.

Reasonably well satisfied with the varsity's offense on the basis of its heavy scoring against the freshmen Saturday, Coach Harry Stuhldreher kept the first and second teams on defense today against a freshman squad using Marquette plays.

Indications that the Badgers will start against Marquette with veteran players was seen in the varsity lineup that included Bob Weigandt and Ralph Moeller at the ends, Robert Eckl and Gene Brodhagen at the tackles, Lynn Hoviland and John O'Brien at the guards, Jack Murray at center, Vince Gavre at quarter back, Bill Schmitz and Roy Bellin at the halves, and Howie Weiss at full back. Sophomores are given an even chance to start only at the end positions, where Al Lorenzo of Oak Park, Ill., may replace Weigandt, and Gordon Gile of Shorewood is Moeller's biggest worry.

MARQUETTE STRESSES DEFENSE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Hopeful of an upset victory in Saturday's opener with Wisconsin in Madison, the Marquette university football team today dug in deep in its preparations for the Badgers and for the night game with Southern Methodist in Soldiers' field, Chicago, Oct. 1.

Coach Paddy Driscoll watched the varsity regulars and reserves swamp the freshmen Saturday, 41 to 0, and today set out to remedy defects which cropped out in the first regulation game. Defensive assignments particularly are being stressed.

Although Marquette will depend heavily on sophomores in its campaign, not more than two or three are likely to start in the Wisconsin game. It is likely that newcomers in the lineup against the Badgers will include Don Vosberg, Dubuque, Ia., and Gil Thomsen, Kenosha, Wis., ends, and Ray Apolskis, Chicago, center, who may be used at guard.

COLUMBIA SPEEDS UP DRILLS FOR GAME WITH YALE

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Columbia today began the third week of preparations for Saturday's opening football battle with Yale with a long workout. Defense was emphasized as the second team used Yale's style of passing and running attack. The Lion varsity showed considerable improvement over previous defensive showings.

YALE PASSES, KICKS.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Passing and kicking were stressed in Yale's light workout with Bud Humphrey doing most of the tossing and John Miller, former end, the kicking. Bill Stack, center, and Joe Zilly, end, have recovered from scrimmage injuries.

Notre Dame Tests Defense Tactics for Kansas Game

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The Notre Dame football squad began preparations for Saturday's opener with Kansas here by reviewing mistakes made by three varsity teams against the freshmen in defeating the yearlings, 20 to 0 Saturday. After studying motion pictures of the game, the players drilled on blocking, tackling, and timing.

Assistant Coaches Chet Grant and Bill Cerney, who scouted the Jayhawks' 19 to 18 victory over Texas Saturday, set about mapping a defense aganst Ralph Miller, sophomore back, as well as the rest of two sets of efficient ball carriers in the Kansas camp. Miller threw one touchdown pass and he returned an intercepted pass 90 yards for another score.

KANSAS SQUAD IN SHAPE.

Lawrence, Kas., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Kansas players who did not get into action Saturday had a heavy scrimmage today, the regulars meanwhile going through a long session on running plays.

PATE SEEKS TO KEEP BUDGE IN AMATEUR TENNIS

The sternest tennis battle of the year now is in progress—and it's being waged in a railroad train that is somewhere between Chicago and the Pacific coast.

Principals in this transcontinental tussle are Don Budge, who retained his United States title in Forest Hills last Saturday by routing Gene Mako, and Walter Pate, captain of the United States Davis cup team. They passed through Chicago yesterday.

The argument, which may not be settled for weeks, concerns Budge's future. If he turns pro, amateur gate receipts will tumble and the cup very likely will be won by Australia.

Budge is on the fence. He'd like to remain under the standards of the United States Lawn Tennis association, because he's tremendously fond of the amateur game and all the social trimmings that go with it. But his family wants him to turn pro, and he may accede to their wishes.

Pate is making the trip to California with Budge and Mako because he feels Don will need counsel and guidance when some promoter waves a pro contract under his nose.

Stewart to Quit Hospital Thursday, Hawks Informed

Manager Bill Stewart will leave the hospital Thursday, according to word received by the Chicago Blackhawks from Boston yesterday, and plans to take the squad to Champaign for training on Oct. 14. Stewart is recovering from an appendectomy. If he is unable to accompany the squad to Champaign Paul Stewart, veteran wing, will conduct early conditioning.

Fight Decisions

At Des Moines, Ia.—Tom Kenneally stopped Robert E. Lee [4], Johnny Paycheck knocked out Ed Wills [2].

Illini Shift Signal Calling to Peterson

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Coach Bob Zuppke said today that Cliff Peterson, sophomore from Moline, Ill., will call signals for Illinois from left half back against De Paul here Saturday. He said Mel Brewer, who directed play against Ohio university, would remain at quarter back because of his line backing and blocking ability.

It was the only change to follow the Illini's surprise 6 to 0 defeat Saturday. Al Lundberg, 215 pound tackle letter winner, returned to the squad today after a ten day absence caused by a torn leg muscle.

Peterson and Bob Wehrli suffered injuries today, Peterson a minor nerve injury during a tackling drill and Wehrli a twisted knee in a stiff scrimmage that followed pass defense and ball handling drills. Both will be ready for Saturday's game.

STUDY ILLINI PLAYS.

De Paul university's football team will scrimmage against Illinois plays as presented by the freshmen this afternoon. Scout Harry Postaer, who saw Illinois lose to Ohio university said the Illini, are better than they appeared.

Coach Ben Connor was dissatisfied with the blocking in Saturday's victory over Ripon. Yesterday he sent the squad through a pass defense. Dick Nee suffered a severely lacerated mouth and Al Hackett has a bad ankle.

GIANTS RETAIN PASSING LEAD IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—In a close race for passing honors, the New York Giants are showing the way to other National Football league teams.

Statistics released today showed the Giants have completed 22 out of 39 for an average of 56 per cent. The defending champion, Washington, has made good 30 out of 54 for 55 per cent. The Chicago Cardinals are third with 32 out of 62, and the Green Bay Packers fourth, with 22 out of 44.

The entire league has averaged 44.6 per cent, which is 6.1 per cent better than the record set last year.

Increased yardage on passes also has elevated the league average for ground gaining with Washington holding a slight lead over Cleveland, 317 yards per game to 296. The Redskins also hold the lead in scoring with 79 points against 64 for the Philadelphia Eagles, and 54 for the Packers.

90,000 Will See Michigan Battle State Saturday

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Coach Fritz Crisler sent the Michigan football squad through a rehersal of defense for Michigan State plays today.

The meeting of the state rivals Saturday is expected to draw more than 90,000. State will be seeking its fifth successive victory over the Wolverines.

Two sophomores, Half Back Paul Kromer and Quarter Back Jack Meyer, appeared in Michigan's first string lineup today.

Michigan will be near top strength for the opener despite a long series of minor injuries. End Elmer Gedeon and Sophomore Half Back Bill Luther alone are definitly out of the game, although Roland Savilla, veteran tackle, will see service only if a special headgear is fitted to protect a fractured cheekbone suffered a week ago.

SPARTANS RELY ON PASSES.

East Lansing, Mich., Sept. 26.—Indications are that Michigan State will rely heavily on a passing attack next Saturday in an attempt to hand Michigan its fifth successive defeat.

The tackle problem that confronted Coach Charles Bachman and his staff last week has been relieved by the performances turned in against Wayne Saturday by Alex Ketzko, Ernie Bremer, George Gargett, and Heldge Pearson.

The squad was cheered today by the prospects of having two of their leading center candidates returning to practice this week. They are Tom McShannock, out with a broken hand, and Herbert Schaffer. Al Diebolt, regular quarter back, did not take part against Wayne because of an injured side.

PERRY ARRIVES TO PRACTICE ON ARENA COURTS

Fred Perry, brilliant English tennis player, arrived yesterday for the national professional tournament which will open tomorrow in the Chicago arena. He will run through several practice sets today and tomorrow to get accustomed to playing conditions.

In addition to trying for the singles championship, Perry will seek the doubles title with Vincent Richards as his partner. This will be the first time he has competed in a tournament since turning professional.

Nearly all the leading professionals in the country are included in the field. Quite a few of the local players also are entered.

Four Battles on Suburban Opening Card

The 1938 campaign for the football championships of the West Suburban conference and the Suburban league will start Saturday afternoon. Three games will be played in the West Suburban conference, Downers Grove High playing at Glenbard, Maine opposing York in Elmhurst, and Riverside meeting La Grange on the latter's field.

One game, Waukegan at Evanston, will start the Suburban league race. Other teams will play nonleague opponents, Oak Park meeting its traditional rival, Austin, in Oak Park stadium; Emerson of Gary, Ind., meeting New Trier at Winnetka and Highland Park traveling to Cicero to oppose Morton.

Jack Kilroy, Fenger's 172 pound center, has been lost to the south siders for the remainder of the season. . . . Kilroy, son of Art Kilroy, who played for Englewood in 1903, was injured in scrimmage last Thursday. . . . Bob Braun, Lake View's senior half back, played his freshman year at Lane Tech. . . . Marshall boasts one of the heaviest guards in the City league. . . . He is Francis Taglia, who weighs 245 pounds.

Coach Len Sachs of Loyola academy believes Fenwick is the team to beat in the north section of the Catholic league and rates Mount Carmel as the top squad in the south division. . . . Loyola opens its season against Andy Pilney's Weber eleven Sunday afternoon in Loyola stadium. Lake View's line averages 181 pounds and the back field 187. . . .

Several coaches believe Bob Stenberg of Lane Tech will develop into the outstanding half back of the season. . . . In last Saturday's game with Roosevelt, which Lane won, 51 to 0, Stenberg scored four touchdowns, three of them on runs of 70, 45, and 35 yards. . . . Dr. Larry Faul, St. Philip football coach, is a former Loyola university athlete. . . . Loyola and St. George have two of the lightest quarter backs in the Catholic league. . . . Loyola's Jimmy Goesling weighs 125 pounds and St. George's Jerry Welland 135 pounds.

Leo, defending champion of the Catholic league, which lost to Bill De Correvont's Austin team in Mayor Kelly's all-city game last December, starts its march for another title against Catholic High of Joliet in Shewbridge field Sunday afternoon. . . . Coach Chuck Kassel of Proviso issued more than 100 suits to varsity, junior varsity, and lightweight candidates at the start of practice.

Hunters to Hear Report Tomorrow on 1938 Duck Crop

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois duck hunters will have an opportunity to hear an eyewitness report on the 1938 duck crop in Canada when Arthur M. Bartley of New York addresses an open meeting of duck shooters tomorrow noon in the Sherman hotel.

Mr. Hartley recently returned from a 1,200 mile survey of the duck situation in Canada. He visited some of the biggest marshes up there to check on the number of birds and to inspect some of the water fowl conservation projects started this summer by Ducks Unlimited, the American sportsman's organization that is working seventy preserve duck breeding areas in the Canadian provinces.

The luncheon meeting scheduled for tomorrow noon in the Bal Tabarin room of the Sherman is sponsored by Ducks Unlimited of Illinois. It is open to all sportsmen interested in water fowl hunting and conservation.

In addition to Chicago hunters many duck and goose shooters from downstate are expected to hear Mr. Bartley's report of his trip through Canada's famous "duck factory" in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba. Motion pictures and slides will be used to illustrate the talk.

Ducks Unlimited, which now has a strong Illinois organization, was started in 1936 by More Game Birds in America to deal specifically with the dwindling supply of water fowl in America.

During the past spring and summer Ducks Unlimited has spent $100,000 in Canada to build dams to flood marshes, restore water levels of possible duck nesting areas, and for other projects to aid ducks, geese, mudhens, and shore birds. This work, plus fortunate weather conditions, has been responsible for better duck hunting prospects in Illinois this fall.

This open meeting for water fowl enthusiasts comes just a little more than two weeks before the hunting season starts in Illinois. The federal law specifies an October 15 opening in this and adjoining states in the intermediate zone.

FOOTBALL GAME SUNDAY.

BURKE'S 286 FOR 72 HOLES LEADS IN $13,500 MEET

Holds Two Stroke Margin on Field.

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Billy Burke, winner of the 1931 United States open title, shot 75—72 at the Fenway Golf club today to hold his lead in the $13,500 Westchester 108 hole open golf tournament. His total is 286 for seventy-two holes.

Nearest to Burke in the battle for the $5,000 first prize were Paul Runyan, P. G. A. champion, Jug McSpaden and Mike Turnesa, one of the six pro brothers of United States amateur champion, Willie Turnesa. They all had 288s.

Revolta Has 292.

Sam Snead picked up two shots on Burke with a 73 and 72 for 290 which left him tied for fifth place with Harry Cooper and Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va.

Alone at 291 was Jimmy Hines. Johnny Revolta, Ed Dudley, and Ed Oliver were together at 292, Ralph Guldahl and Ben Hogan at 293. Such stars as Byron Nelson, Ray Mangrum, Vic Ghezzi, Henry Picard, Dick Metz, Denny Shute, Jimmy Thompson, Craig Wood, Ky Laffoon, and Sid Brews of South Africa were from one to ten strokes farther back.

Only Four Par Rounds.

The evidence against the slickness and bumpiness of Fenway's greens was overwhelming as 63 golfers with scores of 306 or better qualified for tomorrow's final 36 holes. The 83 who played today, among them virtually all of the nation's best pros, were, on an average, 21 strokes over par for their 72 holes.

Only four par 70 rounds were posted today, Turnesa, Guldahl, twice United States open champion, and Shute, P. G. A. winner in 1936 and 1937, getting them this morning.

USE U. S. CASH AS BAIT IN ELECTION ON HYDRO POWER

Grants Held Out as Lure to Swat Utilities.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Five Texas towns in the Colorado river valley are voting this week on the question of issuing bonds to finance municipal power distribution systems. Seven other towns have had their elections and all voted in favor of the bond issues.

The lure held out to voters in the dozen towns is cheap power. The power is to come from four hydro-electric plants located at four Colorado river dams that originally were supposed to be built for flood control. The dams and power plants are to be administered by the Lower Colorado River authority, a creation of the legislature patterned after the Tennessee Valley authority.

Twenty million dollars for construction of the dams has been supplied by the Roosevelt administration, which also is encouraging the movement for municipal power distributing systems. Liberal grants have been promised to the towns if bonds are issued to finance part of the program.

Damage Rouses Protest.

Tremendous flood damage in Texas since the Buchanan dam was built has stirred wide protest against attempting to disguise a power dam project as a flood control plan. The two programs, engineers are quick to declare, are not compatible.

Flood control dams should be kept empty so that flood waters may be stored and released gradually to prevent the overflow of streams, while power dams must be kept filled to insure a constant and continuous flow of power.

Charges that the flood gates of Buchanan dam were kept closed after heavy rains in the watershed, to permit salvage ot contractor's equipment below the dam, and then opened with resultant damage of millions of dollars to residents of the lower valley, resulted in an investigation by a state senate committee.

This committee has concluded its hearing, but some months will be required to compile the vast amount of testimony in a report to be given to the legislature in January. Some engineers testified in the committee hearings that delay in opening the gates had little to do with the flood damage. Lay witnesses were not convinced and gave their version.

One Proposal Stands Out.

One recommendation to the committee stood out. R. J. McMahon, state reclamation engineer, made an investigation of the part power dams played in the flood and concluded in his report that uncontrolable spillways instead of movable gates should be installed.

Spillways, McMahon contended, would prevent the authority from storing water for power purposes above a safe level for flood control. He also expressed belief that dams alone will not prevent an annual loss of millions of dollars from Colorado river floods. He recommended the building of levees.

Testimony before the committee also revealed the Texas Power and Light company and the Central Power and Light company are targets of the river authority's federally sponsored drive for municipal power.

Lyndon Johnson, chairman of the river authority, has been campaigning actively for the bond issues in all towns. Last week he spoke in four towns in one day, telling his audiences the power companies were charging exhorbitant rates and that their only interest was to make a profit for stock and bondholders, who he said were entrenched in Wall street.

Power Companies Enjoined.

Johnson also complained to Attorney General William McCraw that the power companies were sending men into the towns where bond elections are to be conducted, resorting to improper methods in a campaign to defeat the municipal power schemes. McCraw got a court order last Thursday restraining the companies from whatever activities they were engaged in.

John W. Carpenter of Dallas, president of the Texas Power and Light company, immediately sent a telegram to District Judge Raymond Gray telling him terms of the injunction would be kept strictly by his company. He also reminded the court that the existence of the company was threatened, with consequent loss to thousands of Texans who own the company's stock and bonds.

Carpenter protested against the order because, he said, it prevented the company from presenting the facts to the voters so they might decide the proposition on its merits.

Statements made at the conclusion of the senate committee hearing insured that the legislature will be called upon to provide means for equitable adjustment with the power companies where their service is abandoned for municipal power.

HEALTH TESTS URGED TOWARD OFF WORK ILLS

Seen as a Protection Against Layoffs.

Regular physical examinations are necessary if industry is to keep men at work, Dr. C. D. Selby said yesterday before the second annual occupational disease symposium conducted by Northwestern university. He is the medical consultant of the General Motors corporation. The symposium is being held in Thorne hall on the Chicago campus.

Information gained from an examination should be kept in strict confidence, between the man examined and the physician, Dr. Selby said, and should not be used to discriminate against the employé.

Protects Industry, Employé.

Dr. Selby said the purpose of regular examinations should be to protect both the industry and the employé who may have a job endangering his health.

Prof. Philip Drinker, of the Harvard University medical school, called for continued and intensive research into the problems of occupational diseases.

Prof. Drinker said the three major problems facing research workers are: [1] A careful study of the effect on the human system of new substances used in manufacture; [2] continuing research into dust hazard problems, such as those attendant upon silicosis, and [3] the effect on employés of air conditioning used to further industrial processes.

Work of Doctors Told.

Doctors engaged in general practice treat 85 per cent of those suffering from occupational diseases, said Dr. Carl Peterson, secretary of the council on industrial health of the American Medical association. These doctors give adequate medical treatment for industrial injuries and diseases, he asserted, but they are not schooled in the medico-legal aspects of industrial compensation.

Dr. Peterson urged that local medical societies undertake the task of seeing that their members become acquainted with this phase of the industrial disease problem.

AT 91 SHE ACTS AS ATTORNEY IN ASKING PENSION

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Louise Dean Moyer, 91 years old, of Marion, O., acted as her own attorney today in seeking to compel the veterans administration to pay her a civil war widow's pension.

She mailed to the federal district court a forty page petition in her own handwriting, including a plea that the court act quickly because, she said, mortality tables gave her a life expectancy of only 1.9 years.

Mrs. Moyer contended a divorce won by her first husband, Henry Dean, civil war veteran, was obtained in 1905 in Erie county, O., by means of a false affidavit of residence, and that when he died in 1913 she still was his legal wife. She said she was married to Dean in 1862 when she was 15 years old and separated from him in 1900 because of his cruelty. Her second husband, Jacob Moyer, is dead. She married him after Dean's death.

DR. GRAHAM TAYLOR, A PIONEER IN SOCIAL SERVICE, DEAD AT 87

Dr. Graham Taylor, pioneer social worker and founder of the Chicago Commons, died yesterday in his home, 1297 Wade street, Ravinia. He was 87 years old. The funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Commons, 955 Grand avenue. Burial will be at New Brunswick, N. J.

Dr. Graham Taylor.

Dr. Taylor, who had become professor of social economics at the Chicago Theological seminary in 1892, founded the Commons as a social settlement in 1894 and through it for more than four decades he ministered to the needs of the underprivileged.

He leaves three daughters, Miss Lea Taylor, head resident of the Commons; Mrs. George Wallace Carr of Highland Park, and Miss Katherine Taylor of Cambridge, Mass., and one son, Graham Romeyn Taylor of New York.

ACT TO ENLARGE AIRPORT IS SET FOR FINAL STUDY

The proposed ordinance authorizing expansion of Chicago airport will be given its last preliminary consideration Thursday at a public hearing before the city council committee on aviation and recreation. Then it will be ready for passage by the city council next week.

Joseph F. Grossman, assistant corporation counsel, said yesterday the city and the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad have agreed upon all terms. Later the ordinance will be submitted to the Illinois commerce commission and the Bankers Trust company of New York, mortgage trustee of the railroad.

Expansion of the landing field through removal of the C. & W. I. tracks to a new location north of 54th street is sought in the ordinance proposal. The tracks now bisect the square mile area bounded by 55th and 63d streets, Central and Cicero avenues. Only the south half of this field can be used until the tracks are relocated.

FIND DEADLY GAS IN DOWNSTATE BUSES; CITY NEXT

The Illinois commerce commission reported yesterday that it has completed a survey of the amount of carbon monoxide gas in 510 buses in downstate communities. Chicago buses will be inspected soon. Two months will be required to make the tests in 567 buses here.

The downstate survey showed that 14 per cent of the buses contained more than a "normal" quantity of the deadly carbon monoxide. Presence of more than .03 of 1 per cent of the gas was found to be due usually to faulty location of exhaust outlets and poor maintenance of exhaust lines, combined with loose body and floor conditions. Corrections were ordered.

Smelly fumes from exhausts are harmless. No tests were made regarding these fumes, which result from incompletely burned engine oils. Carbon monoxide is odorless.

U. S. OFFICIAL'S WIFE VANISHES ON SEA VOYAGE

Daughter Found Alone as Ship Arrives.

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—The disappearance of Mrs. Georgia Peiker of Washington from the French liner Champlain at sea Saturday night was revealed today, 24 hours after the vessel docked on her voyage here from Cherbourg.

The tragedy was not discovered until Harry C. Peiker, an official of the Home Owners Loan corporation, living in Washington, boarded the boat off quarantine to greet his wife and their daughter, Nan, 11 years old.

Daughter Found Alone.

Peiker intended to surprise his family. He boarded the liner and went to his wife's cabin. When he opened the door his daughter flung herself into his arms, crying, "Mother's disappeared."

Nan had a note addressed to her father and also one for herself. She had read her own message but had said nothing to the ship's officers. Neither the letter to the husband nor the one to the daughter was made public, but customs officials understood that in the note to Peiker his wife said she had found it "impossible to go on and this is the best way."

Search Reveals No Trace.

Nan said that her mother had put her to bed, kissed her good night, and then had lain down beside her. It was presumed that after the child had fallen asleep, the mother wrote the notes and then jumped overboard.

The ship was thoroughly searched and no trace of her was found.

DEWEY PRAISED BY 12 JURORS IN TRIAL OF HINES

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—All except two members of the jury which heard the policy racket trial of Tammany Leader Jimmy Hines issued a statement today resenting "unjust criticism" of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey by one of their colleagues, Saul M. Dash.

The statement praising Dewey was made public by Elliott R. Brown, foreman, on behalf of himself and eleven jurors, including two alternates.

In the Dash statement, which was published in the New York newspapers, said the twelve jurors, fitting tribute was paid to Justice Ferdinand Pecora, who presided at the trial, but unjust criticism was made of District Attorney Dewey with the added implication that this opinion was shared by the remainder of the jurors.

"It seems only proper and in the interests of fair play, to offer a contradictory statement, based on the facts of the case. On behalf of the jurors, it can therefore be stated that the observations expressed by this one particular member [Dash] are his own, and in no way indicative of the regard in which Mr. Dewey is held by them."

COUNCIL VOTES DOWN EVANSTON BUILDING BONDS

The Evanston city council last night voted down three ordinances providing bond issues of $495,000 for the construction of a new city hall, a new police and fire building, and a new fieldhouse in Foster field.

The vote against the city hall was 10 to 5, the vote against the police and fire building 8 to 7, and the vote against the fieldhouse 9 to 6. The biggest item was the city hall ordinance, calling for an expenditure of $250,000.

The projects would have been financed up to 45 per cent with federal grants. Various aldermen went on record against easy money. "Some one has to put a stop to this government spending some time, and it might as well be Evanston," said Ald. E. S. Brandt.

RAIL UNIONS PUT PAY CUT DISPUTE UP TO PRESIDENT

Vote to Strike Late This Week.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Intervention by President Roosevelt in the railroad wage dispute was made certain yesterday. Nineteen railroad unions set their zero hours for striking against the proposed 15 per cent wage cut. Despite the strike threats it will be at least Dec. 1, under the machinery set up by the railway labor act, before the men may walk out. About 930,000 workers are involved.

George M. Harrison.

George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association, announced at the Morrison hotel last night that the eighteen unions which his organization represents will walk out at 6 p. m. next Friday. Earlier in the afternoon A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, announced at the Stevens hotel that the trainmen will stop work at 12:01 a. m. next Saturday.

Says Roads Won't Budge.

Informed of the action taken by the unions, H. A. Enochs, chairman of the Carriers Joint Conference committee, said last night that the railroads will not budge from their determination to put the wage cut into effect Oct. 1. His committee represents the managements of the roads.

Announcement of strike dates was necessary under the terms of the railway labor act before President Roosevelt could intervene. The act provides that in the event of an emergency the President is to appoint a fact finding commission to investigate the situation and make recommendations.

Under the law the status quo must be maintained for sixty days from the date the commission is appointed —thirty days while the commission is meeting and making its recommendations, and thirty days from the issuance of the recommendations. The President is expected to appoint a commission today or tomorrow. Hence it will be about Dec. 1 before any actual strike move can be made.

Bristle at Each Other.

Both Enochs and Harrison issued bristling statements in support of their positions and both discussed their stands on the radio.

Neither Harrison nor Whitney gave out definite figures on the strike votes. Harrison said that more than 800,000 had voted in favor of the strike. He estimated that about 96 per cent of the ballots favored a walk out. The trainmen's vote was reported as being almost unanimous in favor of a strike.

The eighteen unions headed by Harrison and the brotherhood headed by Whitney have been treating separately with the railroads in the wage dispute because of discord between Whitney and the Harrison group.

Leiserson Is Notified.

Both Harrison and Whitney sent telegrams to Dr. William M. Leiserson, chairman of the national mediation board, informing him of the strike plans. Dr. Leiserson will inform President Roosevelt of the developments, whereupon the President will appoint the fact finding commission.

Commenting on the strike threat, Enochs said: "Our employés are just making faces at us."

"Peculiarly enough," he continued, "the law practically compels railroad employés to make these faces at the railroads to bring into operation the final method of settling disputes as provided in the railway labor act. That act provides, in sequence, for joint conferences, for mediation, for optional arbitration and finally for a presidential emergency board.

Calls It Vote for "Paper Strike."

'In our joint conferences and in mediation the employés refused to face the facts and we got nowhere." Enochs said that the strike vote announced yesterday was "a vote for a paper strike to produce an emergency board and was not a vote for a real strike."

Enochs said the carriers are ready to appear before an emergency board "with evidence so incontrovertible that the railways' position cannot be challenged."

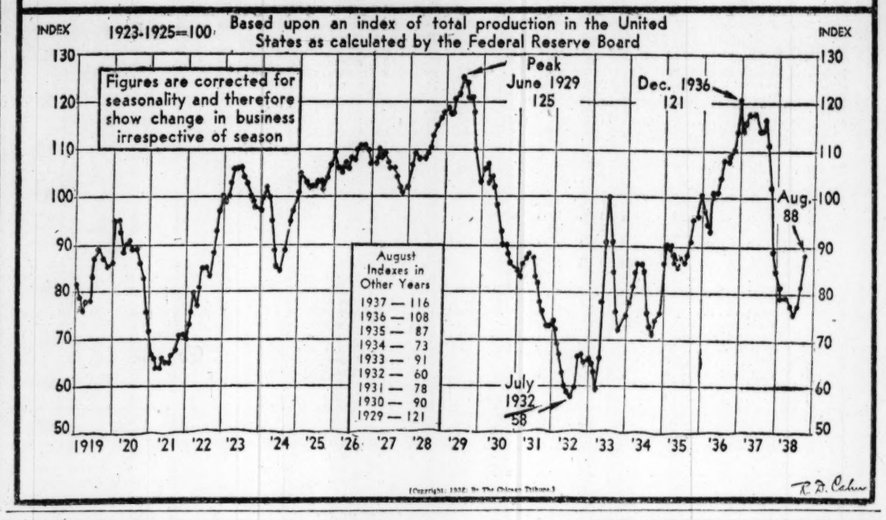
Defending labor's position, Harrison declared that "a wage cut of 15 per cent, or any other per cent, would be an injustice to railroad workers because their present wages, taking the industry as a whole, are inadequate. Because of persistent propaganda of railroad managements, many people have been misled as to wages paid railroad workers."

Harrison Estimates Wages.

Harrison said that the average annual amount of wages per employé for 1937 was $1,115, or about $93 per month. This included irregular as well as regular employés. The average for those employed regularly throughout the year was $1,785, or $150 a month, he said.

The wage dispute began last May when the railroads stated officially that they proposed to cut wages 15 per cent. This was followed by direct negotiations between the carriers and the workers which started in Chicago in July. When the negotiations failed Dr. Leiserson came to Chicago and tried unsuccessfully to mediate the dispute.

Industrial Production in the United States as Reported by the Reserve Board Governors



Italian Loans Lead Slump in Bond List

New York, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Led by European dollar loans, all sections of the bond market took heavy losses today under "war scare" selling.

Italian government 7s led the slump in foreign bonds with a drop of more than 16 points. Domestic corporate issues lost from 1 to 5 points. United States governments slipped 5-32s to 25-32ds in one of the worst dips in several months. Treasury obligations lost still further in over the counter trading after the stock exchange closed.

Minor Rally Develops.

A minor rally in the list developed near the close after an attempt was made to put a peaceful interpretation to some of Chancellor Hitler's opening remarks. Hitler's speech, however, was not finished until after the close of the market.

After falling 16 points, Italian government 7s closed at 56½, down 13¾. Losses ranging from 1 to 10 points were suffered by loans of France, Germany, Australia, Milan, Rome, Poland, Canada, and Japan. Italian municipals were off 6 to 7 points. German government bonds slipped 1 to 2 points. There was no trading in Czechoslovakian obligations.

New Edison Issue Off 2⅛.

Among corporate bonds, speculative issues were the biggest losers, but even the high grade loans gave ground. Commonwealth Edison new 3½s were off 2⅛ at 101⅝. International Hydro Electric 6s finished down 3 points at 67 and International Telephone 5s lost 2¼ to close at 60.

Among the heaviest losers in the rail group were Illinois Central 5s, which slumped 8 points to 50, and Mobile and Ohio 4½s, falling 4 points to 19½. Cleveland Union Terminal "C" 4½s closed at 64½, off 4½.

BUSINESS ON 'EVEN KEEL' DESPITE WAR FEAR, SAYS JOURNAL

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The October issue of "Banking" says "The general disposition of business is to proceed on a fairly even keel, in spite of war worries and several obvious motives for caution." The statement is made in an article by the magazine's editor, William R. Kuhns.

The magazine is the official publication of the American Bankers' association.

The depleted conditions of inventories in all lines of trade and manufacturing, it says, "is only one factor in the fourth quarter outlook, but may turn out to be the most important of all."

The magazine lists as other favorable factors: "The largest reservoir of capital in the country's history, a long pentup demand for replacements in industry and in many lines of consumer goods, and the prospect of a vigorous program by the federal government through the Export-Import bank to stimulate trade with Latin America."

As some of the unfavorable factors, the magazine lists "The burdens of heavy taxation and the threat of higher levies; the growing mass of regulations hindering the freedom of business; the understandable hesitancy of new capital; uneasiness about the monopoly investigation; chronic unemployment, and a relief problem that grows during prosperity as well as depression."

Greece Pays U. S. Portion of Interest on 1929 Loan

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—D. Sicilianos, minister of Greece, transmitted to the secretary of the treasury through the secretary of state on Sept. 20 a check for $87,168. The check represents payment by the Greek government of 40 per cent of the semi-annual interest amounting to $217,920 due May 10, 1938, on the 4 per cent loan of 1929. Secretary Morgenthau announced the payment today.

British Pound, Other Foreign Moneys Drop

The British pound sterling plunged 2¾ cents and other European currencies also broke to new low levels in foreign exchange dealings yesterday. Gold and the dollar again were in heavy demand as new dangers in the European political crisis sent capital fleeing to America.

In New York the pound fell to $4.75¼. This was the lowest quotation in more than three years. It closed at the low for the day, compared with Saturday's close of $4.78.

Control Fund Active.

London sources said the British exchange control fund threw $100,000,000 into the market in an effort to ease the fall in sterling.

In the downward movement the French franc lost 0.02 cent despite control intervention, closing at 2.66 cents. Holland guilders dropped 0.23 cents to 53.32 cents. The Belgian belga was 0.03 cent higher at 16.92 cents.

Gold Price Rises.

Gold was quoted in the London open market at 145 shillings 7 pence. This was 7 pence (about 12 cents) higher than Saturday's price, and was equivalent to $34.69 compared with $34.66 Saturday.

Engagement of $2,591,000 of gold in England and $537,000 in Holland for shipment to New York was announced by the Federal Reserve bank there. The bank's daily statement on gold showed an import of $27,834,000 from England.

Business Failures Fewer Than in Any Week of 1938

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Business failures in the United States for the week ended Sept. 22 dropped to the lowest level for any full week thus far in the year, Dun & Bradstreet reported. A total of 193 for the latest period, compared with 232 in the preceding week, and 159 in the comparable 1937 week.

WHEAT CLIMBS AGAIN ON NEWS FROM EUROPE

Gains ⅞ to 1⅜ Cents in Chicago.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the December delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .67¼	$ .66⅛	$1.07¾
Corn	.51¾	.51	.64⅛
Oats	.26¾	.26⅛	.31
Rye	.45⅛	.45⅛	.80½
Soy beans	78⅛	.77¼	.92½

Wheat prices in leading markets moved higher yesterday, reflecting growing apprehension of traders regarding the European crisis. Fluctuations were extremely erratic. At one time prices on the Chicago Board of Trade showed an advance of 2 cents a bushel as compared with Saturday's close. The top prices were established coincident with a sharp decline in securities.

Closing trades on wheat futures in Chicago were at net gains of ⅞ to 1⅜ cents. Winnipeg developed independent strength and closed 2¾ to 2⅞ cents higher. Liverpool futures, however were 3⅜ to 3¾ cents lower. The decline in the English market was believed to reflect weakness in North American markets Saturday.

Export Sales Small.

Despite the war scare wheat export business was small. Messages from Liverpool said exporting countries were not offering grain for shipment because of uncertainty regarding the political situation and a sharp advance in war risk insurance rates. The rates were said to have doubled in the last week.

Ordinary grain news had little effect on the wheat market. A decrease of 1,573,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply, the first since the new crop started to move, attracted little attention. Supplies afloat on the ocean were reported at 30,000,000 bushels, a decrease of about 5,000,000 bushels as compared with the preceding week.

Corn Finishes Higher.

Corn futures followed the action of wheat and closed ¾ to 1 cent a bushel higher. The country elevators sold over 500,000 bushels of old crop grain for deferred shipment.

Reports that England had temporarily "pegged" the price of lard, ham, bacon and other products failed to have any effect on American markets.

U. S. Treasury Ready to Meet War Crisis, Morgenthau Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—The United States treasury is ready to meet any emergencies that might arise from the war crisis, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. said today. Other officials indicated no immediate steps are necessary.

Sec. Morgenthau.

When asked concerning preparations that the treasury has made since the current war menace in Europe was instituted, Morgenthau replied:

"The treasury is always ready for any situation that may arise at any time and as far as it is humanly possible we are ready."

He revealed that the flight of capital from Europe has again risen after dropping last week. It is not as large as the preceding two weeks, but is "enough," he said.

Influx Reaches 500 Millions.

More than 500 million dollars in gold have crossed the Atlantic because of the war scare.

The treasury is not worried about any reversal of the gold flow, Morgenthau said, and stands ready to deal in gold—buying or selling—at $35 an ounce. There is plenty of gold in the country to meet any outflow, he pointed out. Gold stocks now amount to 13 billion 600 million dollars, or approximately 55 per cent of the world's gold reserves.

Preparedness of the treasury to meet any large withdrawals is shown in various "cushions" provided. The treasury has nearly 816 million dollars in gold in the general fund to meet any foreign demand. An exchange stabilization fund of 1 billion, 800 million is used to keep the foreign exchange market in balance when the gold flow might disrupt it.

Builds Up Working Balance.

In additon, the treasury has built up an unusually large working balance of 2½ billion dollars with which to stabilize any possible demoralization of money markets through foreign selling of investments. This balance is also ready to meet defense needs, if necessary.

Treasury experts are not worried by buying or selling of American securities by foreigners. The amount is negligible, they say. Both Morgenthau and William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, have assured President Roosevelt that the financial situation in this country is well in hand. They see no need for closing stock markets or the banks. They feel that the treasury's "cushions" are ample to offset dumping or recall of foreign investments.

In case of necessity, however, the SEC, with the consent of the President, has power to issue a closing order.

$8,000,000 INVESTED IN LAND FOR CHICAGO PLANT EXPANSIONS

Industrial expansion in Chicago has added $8,000,000 in real estate investments this year. This was revealed yesterday by the industrial development department of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The increase resulted from the expansion of production facilities by twenty manufacturers, the association reported. In addition to these, fifty other industrial companies are deliberating the construction of main or branch factories here. Some already have acquired land for building.

If the contemplated plant construction materializes, the association said, more than 30 million dollars worth of industrial buildings will be added to the city's productive wealth. Sites for factories or warehouses are being surveyed and studied by more than 200 corporations, but negotiations have not reached a definite stage, the association said. Last year 189 industrial buildings valued at $21,762,700 were constructed.

WATSON URGES WORLD OUTLOOK ON DISTRIBUTION

Boston, Mass., Sept. 26.—[Special.]—"All thinking people must concern themselves with a program for building durable peace. Another world war would mean the collapse of civilization as we know it today."

Thomas J. Watson made this statement today before the tenth Boston conference on distribution. His speech was radioed from Bucharest, Rumania. Watson is president of the International Business Machine corporation and is president of the International Chamber of Commerce.

"Our thinking on distribution must be international, and our conclusions must be as fair to one country as to another," asserted Watson. "All nations are interdependent and only through international coöperation can our civilization be maintained and pushed forward to greater achievement.

"The subject of distribution is one of the most important problems before the world. In its international aspects, distribution is directly tied in with world standards of living, prosperity, and peace."

STOCKS SLUMP IN TENSION OVER HITLER SPEECH

Prices Lowest Since June 23.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 26.—Stock market prices broke 1 to 3 points today in response to the international tension over the Czech crisis. Some preferred and volatile common stocks lost 4 to 9 points. Prices dropped to the lowest levels since June 23.

The list opened weak under the influence of European markets. It extended its losses until leading issues were down 1 to 4 points. An effort in the last hour to rally the list proved futile. Traders grew increasingly nervous in face of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech.

Early Remarks Well Received.

As the time drew near for Hitler to make his address, trading slackened. An undertone of uncertainty was distinctly evident. Wall street interpreted the opening sentences of the speech as conciliatory. Buyers came into the market and the list rallied. Traders did not become bold, however, and before the final bell the trend again turned downward. The latter part of the speech was viewed as more threatening than the early remarks. Much of the final half hour rally was lost as new selling brought the market near the lows of the day.

Hitler started to speak at 2:21 p. m. [New York time] and concluded at 3:34 p. m. The New York Stock market closed at 3 p. m. [New York time], after the address was well under way.

Hour by Hour Variations.

11 a. m.	129.93—3.09
Noon	128.38—4.64
1 p. m.	128.37—4.65
2 p. m.	128.89—4.13
Close	129.91—3.11

Trading volume expanded on the decline. Transfers totaled 1,226,090 shares.

Key industrial issues were hardest hit. Motors, steels, coppers, rubbers and other favorites fell.

Chrysler was one of the weakest issues on the board, showing a loss of 4 points before meeting support. It closed with a net loss of 1⅝

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 26.—(AP)—The San Francisco Stock market stood virtually motionless today while Reichsfuehrer Hitler spoke in Berlin. When he had finished, traders raised bids a little above the day's lows.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—[Special.]—Declining prices on the London stock market were accelerated today with announcement that parliament would meet Wednesday. These included the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, the Illinois Central system, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, the Louisville and Nashville, and the Southern railway.

Many other roads, however, showed declines in August earnings. These included the New York Central, the Rock Island, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Pennsylvania, and the Norfolk and Western.

The Burlington had August net income of $974,811 after charges, compared with $361,865 in the same 1937 month. Gross revenues slipped to $8,788,869 from $9,012,749. Net operating income increased to $1,725,512 from $1,014,088 in August of last year.

I. C. Has Net of $132,619.

Net income after charges of the Illinois Central system in August amounted to $132,619. This contrasted with a net loss of $138,391 in August, 1937. The figures included operations of the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley railroad, a subsidiary. The August profit reduced the system's eight month net loss, after charges, to $2,137,876. This compared with a loss of $1,864,795 in the first eight months of 1937.

Santa Fe reported net operating income for August of $2,151,442, compared with $839,123 in the like month of 1937. The increase over last year reflected a reduction of $2,100,354 in operating expenses. Gross revenues declined to $13,982,167 from $14,637,139 in August of last year. The first eight months' net operating income this year amounted to $9,625,943 against $14,353,159 in 1937.

Louisville's Revenue Rises.

The Louisville & Nashville's net operating income for August increased to $1,307,258, compared with $1,183,879 in the same 1937 month. This made net operating income for the first eight months of $5,510,732 against $10,772,528 in 1937.

The Milwaukee road's August net operating income amounted to $1,180,442, an increase of $265,933 over August, 1937. Gross revenues of $9,920,718 compared with $9,833,303 in August of last year.

The Rock Island's net operating income in August was $219,705 against $394,859 a year earlier. This brought net operating income for the first eight months to $213,359 against $2,877,246 in the 1937 eight months. The 1937 figure, however, included income of $1,220,000 resulting from cancelation of accruals in connection with the railroad retirement act of 1935.

B. & O. Earnings Lower.

Net operating income of the B. & O. for August declined to $1,636,582, compared with $2,358,094 in August of last year. For the eight months, operating net of $6,001,044 compared with $18,055,332 in the 1937 period.

The Pennsylvania railroad had August net operating income of $5,621,015 against $6,572,399 in August of last year. This brought the eight months' operating net to $30,255,565 against $51,490,143 in the 1937 eight months.

Net operating income of $551,175 for August was reported by the Chicago & North Western railway. This was in contrast to a net operating loss of $129,791 in August, 1937.

Net operating income of the New York Central railroad in August was $2,307,971 against $3,209,801 in the same month of last year. Gross revenues fell to $25,074,978, compared with $30,248,956 in August, 1937.

ILLINOIS WAGES, JOBS MAKE GAINS DURING AUGUST

Report Upturn for Chicago Reserve District.

Jobs and pay rolls in Illinois increased during August, Martin P. Durkin, state director of labor reported yesterday. It was the first upturn in eleven months. The department of labor's monthly survey, covering 6,649 firms, showed that August wage payments were up 3.7 per cent over July. Employment advanced 1.7 per cent. The last previous increase reported was for September, 1937, when jobs advanced 1.3 per cent. In that month, however, pay rolls slipped 0.1 per cent.

George J. Schaller.

Higher pay rolls and employment for August were also reported for the seventh federal reserve district by George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Schaller said that many new signs of expanding activity in industry and trade of the 7th district appeared in August.

Still Below Year Ago.

He pointed out that volume was still much below year ago figures in most lines. The 7th district includes the central and northern portions of Illinois and Indiana, all of Iowa, and most of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Durkin reported that in the Chicago metropolitan area employment advanced 0.5 per cent in August and pay rolls rose 2.1 per cent, as compared with July figures. He said that the upward movement in jobs and wages was statewide. Compared with August, 1937, however, Illinois jobs were down 20.5 per cent and wage payments were off 24.7 per cent.

Durkin said that all reporting groups in manufacturing industries had increases in the number of workers. All groups except paper goods, printing and publishing, and the miscellaneous manufacturing group paid out more wages in August than in July.

Wholesale Trade Better.

Schaller's report showed that merchandise trade expanded sharply in August. Wholesale trade, Schaller said, had a combined gain of 5 per cent over July. Wholesale sales of groceries and tobacco products were up 2.1 per cent and 3.4 per cent, respectively, over August, 1937. Wholesale trade in electrical goods, however, declined 30.1 per cent from August of last year.

Wholesale inventory stocks in the 7th district on Aug. 31 were 20 per cent lighter than on Aug. 31, 1937.

3 UTILITY UNITS SHOW SMALLER QUARTER PROFITS

12 Month Earnings Also Lower.

Three utility holding companies in the Electric Bond and Share system yesterday reported lower quarterly consolidated earnings, compared with profits for the corresponding 1937 quarters. The companies were the American Power and Light company, Electric Power and Light corporation, and United Gas corporation.

Net income of American Power and Light was $1,593,330 in the quarter ended Aug. 31. This compared with net income of $2,592,428 in the August quarter of last year. More than 31 per cent of the company's common stock is held by Electric Bond and Share company.

12 Months Profit Lower.

For the twelve months to Aug. 31, consolidated net income was $9,797,478, compared with $11,559,193 in the preceding twelve months.

Electric Power and Light, whose common stock is 58 per cent owned by Electric Bond and Share, had net income in the quarter to July 31 of $415,867 against $1,718,033 in the corresponding 1937 quarter. This brought net income for the twelve months to $6,626,639, compared with $9,458,267 in the preceding year.

July quarter net income of United Gas corporation dipped to $1,051,311 from $2,028,257 in the July, 1937, quarter. For the twelve months, net income was $7,784,950, compared with $11,438,261 in the preceding twelve months.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Sheep Culling Starts

September 26, 1938.

IT'S the time of year to go through the flock and pick out the best ewes for breeding and lambs for show purposes at the Tribune's Du Page county farm. Lately John Rawlings, flockmaster, has been sitting on the top rail of the pasture fence making tally marks in his note book as the flock of more than 450 head grazes in nearby fields.

Backed by many years of judging in the biggest show rings in the country, this veteran sheep judge requires only a glimpse of a ewe or lamb in making his preliminary selections. Already he has sorted out at least 50 good ewes that will be put in the breeding flock.

Plans for Exposition.

The flockmaster is hopeful of finding enough good lambs in the flock to enter two loads in the International Live Stock exposition to be held in Chicago this winter. He thinks it will be possible to cut out a load of 50 lambs to compete in the lightweight class and another load of 50 for the heavy class.

More than 100 show lambs will be selected so there will be a few extra to work with when the final sorting is done. These lambs will then be finished for the exposition in a separate feeding pen.

The lambs are about half grown. They are about three-fourths Southdowns, bred up from a grade flock mated with pure bred rams over a period of several years.

This year's crop of lambs was born in April and May. They were weaned the latter part of August. Soon after weaning they were turned into a clover field. Early in September the lambs were started on a grain ration made up of whole oats and shelled corn.

Start on Light Feed.

At first the lambs were given a light feed of the grain mixture as they required little concentrated feed while they could get their daily fill of green clover.

They were taken off the clover the middle of this month. Since then they have been kept in the sheep barn and given dry feed only.

During the last ten days the allowance of dry feed has been increased. They still are given daily feeds of oats and corn mixture and a hay mixture of red clover, alsike, and a small amount of timothy.

The lambs will be started on a full feed of fattening rations this week. They will be given all they can eat. Oats and corn will be kept in the ration. To this grain mixture will be added a concoction of ground alfalfa hay and molasses. They will continue to run to racks filled with clover hay.

Finished by December.

By giving the lambs all the dry feed they can eat, with molasses thrown in to sharpen their appetites, the caretaker expects to have them finished with plenty of "hard meat" on their bodies by the first of December.

Next week the flockmaster plans to start his preliminary work of primping the baby woolly faces for the show ring. He will begin by trimming the heads, clipping the wool that has a tendency to fall down into their eyes. Then he will touch them up with the shears here and there to make them attractive in the judging arena.

STEEL RATE THIS WEEK DIPS TO 46.7% CAPACITY

Await Automotive Buying to Boost Production.

The American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday that steel ingot mills in the United States will slacken production to 46.7 per cent of capacity this week. This is a decline of 0.6 point from last week's production rate of 47.3 per cent of capacity, a new 1938 high mark.

Any substantial increases in ingot output during the next few months are dependent upon the automobile industry, according to steel circles. Although production of 1939 automobiles already is under way, manufacturers as yet have not entered the steel market in force. Large orders from the automobile makers are expected soon, however.

Rate 74.4 Per Cent a Year Ago.

A month ago the nation's steel mills were working at 44 per cent of capacity, the institute said. In the corresponding week of 1937 the rate was 74.4 per cent, and in the like 1936 week 75.4 per cent. In the 1935 week production was scheduled at 48.9 per cent, and in 1934 at 24.2 per cent.

A study completed yesterday by the institute showed that employment and pay rolls in the steel industry during the first half of 1938 were higher than in the first half of 1934 or 1935.

The institute said that its survey showed a sharp decrease in output per man, along with a marked increase in pay roll costs per ton of steel produced. In the first half of 1938 an average of 449,000 employés were on the industry's pay rolls. This was 5 per cent more than in the corresponding half of 1934, and 7 per cent more than in the like 1935 period.

Output Below 1934.

Ingot production in the first half of this year, however, was 34 per cent under that of the 1934 first half, and 32 per cent under that of the like 1935 half year. A total of $285,835,000 in pay rolls was disbursed in the first six months of 1938. This was 10 per cent more than in the corresponding 1934 period, and was 6 per cent more than in the like 1935 period, the institute stated.

Victor Chemical Works.

Investors' Guide: Please give me some information on the stock of Victor Chemical Works.—F. A. H.

Answer: Victor Chemical Works is one of the largest producers of high grade phosphoric acid and phosphates. These products are used mainly by the food and drug industries. Principal articles produced include calcium phosphates, sodium and ammonium phosphates, yellow phosphorous, formic acid and formates, oxalic acid and oxalates. The company was incorporated in Illinois in 1902.

Victor Chemical distributes several other products which it does not manufacture. These include baking soda, alkalis of various kinds, epsom salts and sodium aluminum. The company has two manufacturing plants, one at Chicago Heights, Ill., and one at West Nashville, Tenn. Phosphate lands owned or leased, or in which Victor Chemical has mineral rights consist of nearly 2,800 acres in Tennessee. None of the land has been operated as the company has been purchasing its raw materials from others and holding its own land in reserve.

The company last year sold 75,000 additional shares of its capital stock for about $1,225,000 to raise funds for building a new manufacturing plant at Mount Pleasant, Tenn. The new plant was opened in July this year. The new plant will be operated with power supplied by the Tennessee Valley Authority under a 20 year contract. August Kochs, president of Victor, said at the time the contract was signed that cheap TVA power was the main reason for locating the new plant at Mount Pleasant.

During the first half of 1938 the company had net income of $275,544, or 40 cents a share. This compared with $342,487, or 49 cents a share in the first half of 1937, based on the present capitalization. Net income for all of 1937 was $703,087, or $1.01 a share. This compared with net income of $811,248 in 1936, $789,686 in 1935, $736,254 in 1934, $674,500 in 1933, and $703,370 in 1932.

The company has no funded debt. Capitalization now consists of 696,000 shares of $5 par capital stock. The shares were changed from no par value to $5 par in June, 1937. Dividends this year have been 20 cents on March 31, 15 cents on June 30, and a dividend of 20 cents will be paid Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 20. Payments last year totaled $2.25 cents, of which $1.50 was paid on the old no par shares.
